Britain Won't Protest To U. N. Over Shooting Down Of Planes By Jews

Will Continue Massing Fighting Power Within Easy Reach Of Israel

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Britain will continue massing military forces within easy reach of Israel but will make no protest to the United Nations concerning the shooting down of five RAF planes by the Israelis, British diplomats said tonight.

A Jewish informant in Tel Aviv said Israel plans to accuse Britain before the United Nations of violating the Palestine truce. Israeli authorities also will charge that Britain has made large-scale arms shipments to the Egyptians, the source said.

There were signs that both United States and United Nations officials were working to cool off the British-Israeli dispute before it complicated further the general Palestine problem.

In Washington the State Department urged both sides to treat the shooting down of the planes as a "regrettable incident only." The department's statement expressed the hope that the air clash will not interfere with Israeli-Egyptian armistice negotiations expected to open Wednesday on the Island of Rhodes.

Britain Leaders Confer

Key British Cabinet members and defense chiefs met today on the crisis arising from the shooting down of the RAF planes near the Egyptian-Palestine border last Friday.

Prime Minister Attlee called the session.

The diplomatic informants said the whole problem of the security of Britain's interests and installations in the Middle East was carefully reviewed. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin gave the ministers a detailed account of the situation and outlined the steps he is planning to take.

The British were said to feel they already have taken effective warning action against the Israelis by sending troops to Aqaba, a strategic Red Sea port on the Trans-Jordan side of the Palestine border. British naval units have concentrated at Malta.

"The presence of our troops in Aqaba will be a red light for the Jews not to go any further than they have gone," one diplomatic official said.

Israel already has protested to a United Nations representative in Haifa against the British landing at Aqaba. The protest said the presence of British troops there "can have no purpose but to threaten Israel's territory in the southern part of the Negev."

Protest Readdressed

Twice Israeli officials refused to accept a British protest against the downing of the planes because it was addressed to "Jewish authorities in Tel Aviv."

The diplomatic informants here said the British representative in Haifa since has readdressed the protest to "the provisional government of Israel"—the way the Jews wanted it addressed.

They stressed, however, that this does not imply any change in Britain's policy of not formally recognizing the Israeli government.

British and American exchanges on what to do next about Palestine continued both here and in Washington. The American minister in London, Julius C. Holmes, conferred with Foreign Office chiefs. So

'49 Organizing Job Completed By Md. House

Baltimore Countian Named Assistant To Chairman Melnicove

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 10 (AP)—Maryland's House of Delegates finished its job of organizing for 1949 tonight with a new man taking second spot on the powerful Judiciary Committee.

Delegate Boone (D - Baltimore County), who had been mentioned in pre-session reports for various positions, including majority floor leader, was handed the post as assistant to Chairman Melnicove (D-Balto 4th).

Melincove's appointment was announced last week, along with Chairman Pumphrey (D - Prince George's), who is majority floor leader.

The weekend consultations to resolve the question of key positions found delegate McGrath (D-Prince George's) shifted from the Judiciary vice chairmanship in favor of Boone. McGrath remains on the committee.

The announcement of committee appointments—awaited since opening day—was the main business of the House. The delegates did not go into session until an hour beyond regular time while the finishing touches were put on the committee lists.

Mental Hospitals Discussed

The Senate held a short and routine session, enlivened only by a discussion of state mental hospitals, touched off by Sen. Ellison (R-Balto 4th) and joined in by several others.

They all referred to a series of articles on hospitals carried by the Baltimore Sunpapers. President Byrnes advised the Senate that Gov. Lane is aware of the problem and is taking steps about it.

Both Houses received identical bills calling for a referendum in 1950 on weather Maryland should call a convention for revision of its constitution. The bill went in as administration measures.

In the House committee assignments, three major groups got new chairmen:

Delegate Bloom (D-Washington), took over the Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee. He succeeds John Clark, of Harford County, who resigned two years ago to become chairman of the embattled Tidewater Fisheries Commission

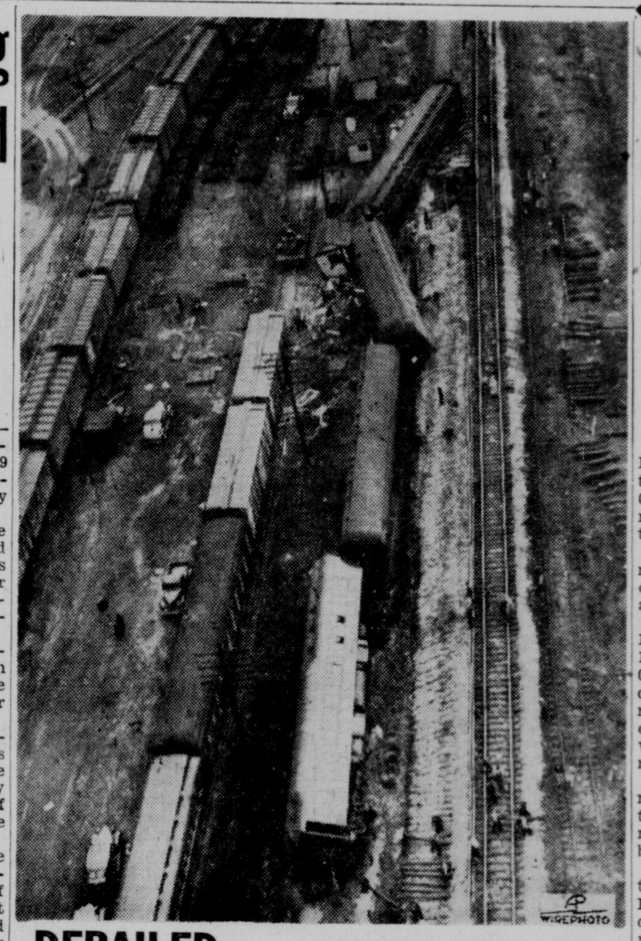

Delegate Tyler (D-Anne Arundel) became chairman of the Education Committee, succeeding Anthony F. Didomenico, Baltimore Second, who is now a city councilman.

Other Chairmen Named

Delegate Richardson (D - Worchester) became chairman of the Entertainment Committee, replacing Johnson Bowie, of Baltimore County, now a police magistrate at Towson.

Delegate Luber (D-Balto 5th) returned as Chairman of Banking, Insurance and Social Security, as did Delegate Brinsfield (D-Dorches-

Cut In Truman Figures Urged By Republicans

"Cold War" Would Take Half Of 41.8 Billions Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Truman told Congress today it will take at least $41,858,000,000 to run the government right next year—half of it to hold back the Communist tide.

Republicans immediately demanded deep slashes and party lines quickly formed for the big tests ahead.

Mr. Truman's budget covering the 1950 fiscal year beginning next July 1 is peacetime's biggest—$1,678,000,000 larger than this year. For the cold war with Russia he asked the most powerful military forces the country has ever had outside a war—and funds to bolster Allied nations against the Red surge.

Moreover, Mr. Truman served notice he will ask more funds later to supply arms to non-Communist nations, a step which will push the budget even higher.

All told Mr. Truman asked for a tax increase of nearly $6,000,000,000. First he reiterated his recent request for a $4,000,000,000 increase, mostly on corporations. Then he asked nearly $2,000,000,000 in social security taxes, to finance new and old programs.

He did not give an inch in his demands for the vast social and economic program he demanded for the vast social and economic program he demanded in his state of the union message; such as housing, better schools, more social security benefits.

Frowns On Air Force Idea

On the defense front, Mr. Truman stressed the importance of air power, but frowned on the idea of a 70-group Air Force, which has been heavily backed in Congress and by the air generals. Mr. Truman said that number and size of planes, rather than number of groups is a better gauge of Air Force strength.

Mr. Truman said the prospects for the 1951 fiscal year are for even greater governmental costs. He mentioned national defense and world responsibilities.

Republicans called the Truman figures dangerous, reckless and overestimated. But administration forces showed no sign of discontent.

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) called the budget "the most practical that could be presented at this time." Cannon will head the House Appropriations Committee where spending bills originate.

Cannon called it "part of a long time program in which you will have benefits for years to come."

The committee's ranking Republican, Rep. Taber, of New Yrok, observed "they've evidently given everybody everything they asked for." He said it would be cut down.

"Reckless," Wherry Says

In the Senate, GOP Floor Leader Wherry, of Nebraska, called the budget "reckless." He said it proposed "new spending programs which will grow even greater in future years."

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) said Mr. Truman had done "a splendid job"

Senate Foreign Policy Squall Is Apparently Over

Developments Make For Smoother Sailing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The nation's bi-partisan foreign policy appeared headed for smoother sailing today after a brief but angry squall in the Senate.

Two developments pointed in that direction:

1. President Truman discussed the international situation with John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy expert, in a 30-minute talk at the White House.

2. Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) was reported urging his GOP colleagues not to make an all-out fight against the President's nomination of Dean Acheson as Secretary of State.

Bi-partisan cooperation appeared to be in danger last week when the Democrats, cashing in on their election victory, took over control of the new Congress. Senate Democrats promptly alloted themselves an 8-to-5 margin in makeup of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Republicans Protest

Republicans howled protest, saying when they were in power they took only seven seats and gave the six to the Democrats.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) called the Democratic move "a shocking repudiation of a bi-partisan foreign policy." And Vandenberg, slow to anger, bluntly accused the Democrats of violating the "spirit of bi-partisan cooperation."

Some Republicans saw a chance of getting back by attacking Acheson's nomination to the No. 1 diplomatic post. But Vandenberg was described by associates today as advising moderation. The Michigan Senator, they said, feels that Acheson is almost certain to be confirmed and that little would be gained by challenging him at the outset of an extremely difficult job.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) predicted that GOP senators will put off any decision on a possible organized fight against Acheson for the time being.

AFL Supports Acheson

He said it was not discussed at today's GOP Policy Committee meeting, but may be taken up after the Foreign Relations Committee

Three Held On Alien Smuggling Charges

"Teen-Ager Of 1948" Placed On Probation

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—A youth selected by a recreation club last summer as "Teen-Ager of 1948" was placed on probation today on charges of a burglary and six larcenies.

The boy, 16-year-old William E. Greenwood, Jr., was given the teen-ager title after winning a popularity contest at the Hamilton Recreational Center in Baltimore.

Judge Herman M. Moser in Criminal Court gave four-year suspended sentences to Greenwood and another youth, George R. Behr, 19, and released them on three years' probation.

Six, Including Three Jewish Refugees, Are Arrested In Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10 (AP)—Three Jewish refugees—all former inmates of Nazi concentration camps—and three suspected smugglers were arrested at Marathon yesterday after a 28-hour watch by border patrolmen.

Chief Border Patrol Inspector Frank Hornyak said the six were seized as they docked to refuel the 45-foot charter vessel, Semper Fidelis, in which they had come from Havana, Cuba.

Hornyak identified the aliens as Iancu Herscu, 26; his wife Milica, 22, of Roumania, and Artur Woloski, 25, of Poland. He said Herscu and his wife had been inmates of the Buchenwald concentration camp and Woloski had spent five years in four different Nazi prisons.

Others May Be Involved

Charged with attempting to smuggle aliens into this country illegally and conspiracy were Albert Padags, 25, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Arthur J. Benson, 34, of Massachusetts, master of the charter boat, and Joseph Sowinski, 59, of Wisconsin, a crewman.

In Washington, Attorney General Tom Clark said there was "some indication that others in the United States are involved and a full investigation is in progress."

Hornyak said the alien trio was being questioned for a possible link with two German youths arrested here last week who admitted an affiliation with the Communist Party.

"We have learned nothing in questioning them to indicate there is any link, but we plan to question them further," Hornyak said.

Patrolmen Act On Tips

Hornyak said the German youths, who stowed aboard an American-bound freighter, landed in New York and made their way to West Palm Beach, Fla., before border patrolmen caught them. They admitted under oath that members of the Communist Party gave them money and helped to smuggle them into this country, Hornyak said.

The Jewish refugees were arrested about noon when 11 border patrolmen swarmed over the charter boat.

Hornyak said the entire South Florida coastline, from Tampa around through the Florida Keys and north to West Palm Beach, had

Industry Aid Fund Bill Is Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A "full employment act"—under which the government could make billions of dollars of loans to industry or public agencies to expand production—was introduced today in House and Senate.

Sponsors proposed a $15,000,000,000 fund administered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to support industrial activity. They said it is essential to stabilize the high levels; that it would stimulate investment and production.

In case of "inability" to make the loans to private industry, the RFC could grant them to states or regional agencies so they could set up their own industries.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Patman (D-Tex) and Sens. Murray (D-Mont) and Sparkman (D-Ala), who said it would help President Truman carry out long range economic plans.

Strengthening of laws protecting the nation's secret code, cipher and cryptographic system was proposed in a bill by Rep. Walter D-Pa). It is urged by Secretary of Defense Forrestal.

Pay Boost Action Urged By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today for quick action to boost top-level government salaries.

Legislation favored by the President would hike executive salaries from their present $10,000-$15,000 brackets to new $17,500-$25,000 levels.

Mr. Truman wrote Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), Senate president pro tempore, declaring that action is needed because business is outbidding the government for the services of "able men."

The lack of adequate talent, he said, is "a serious threat to the efficiency of government."

The President noted that the heads of executive departments and agencies have gone without a salary increase for many years, and the effect, he said, has been "an impaired government service."

The appropriate legislation, he said, is already available to the Senate to remedy the discrepancy between salaries offered by business and those paid by the federal government.

Mr. Truman said, he hopes the necessary action can be taken by Congress before his new term begins, January 20.

Reds Mopping Up Chinese Forces North Of Nanking

Pilots Say Fighting Is Heaviest To Date

NANKING, Jan. 10 (AP)—Chinese Communist troops today were crushing with smashing attacks a governments island of resistance north of Nanking which is delaying the Red push to the Yantze.

The Communist radio said remnants of the Nationalist force—which was estimated at 130,000 men the day before—were "completely wiped out" by 10 o'clock this morning, Chinese time.)

Pilots returning from the front described the fighting as the heaviest we have seen any time in China." Smoke from intensive artillery fire hung over the battlefield.

These forces of Gen. Tu Li-Ming numbered possibly 250,000 when they defended the former base of Suchow. They were trapped about 150 miles northwest of Nanking in a pocket three miles long and a mile and a half wide. Steady attrition has caused them heavy losses since encirclement.

Supply Drops May Stop

Government planes were requested from the ground to make no more supply drops because the remnants are so tightly compressed, reports reaching Nanking said.

The capture of Tu's forces, with great stores of munitions and modern equipment, will make powerful Red forces available for the expected drive to the Yantze, the last barrier before Nanking.

(The Communist radio gave no details in saying the army groups of "war criminal Tu Li-Ming" were wiped out, meaning destroyed as a combat force. The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco.

(In contrast, a lull fell over the North China front, where Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa strongly indicated a proclamation halting hostilities may come by next Sunday.

(Moosa, writing through censorship in Peiping, said Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, North China commander, is expected to issue a proclamation which will paint "Peiping and other Nationalist islands a different color on themap." Communist artillery is emplaced on heights commanding Peiping. The Reds apparently hold several outlaying sections of Tientsin.)

Meanwhile, one diplomat predicted that a negative answer would be given by the United States, France, Great Britain and Russia

Paul Whiteman's Wife Is Injured In Train Wreck

MILFORD, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—The Seaboard Air Line Railroad's Orange Blossom Special, northbound from Florida, was wrecked here today when 10 cars of the 17-car all-pullman train were derailed.

Twenty-three persons, including Mrs. Paul Whiteman, wife of the famed orchestra leader, were sent to a Fredericksburg, Va., hospital. All but nine, however, were released late today, and doctors said none of those still hospitalized was in a serious condition. Mrs. Whiteman was among those released.

Investigators have not determined the cause of the derailment. The accident caused only slight interruption in north and south bound traffic past Milford, 20 miles south of Fredericksburg.

LEGION, VFW DENOUNCE PROPOSED CUT IN VETS' HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Jan 10 (AP)—Two veterans' organizations—the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars—tonight denounced a proposed 16,000-bed slash in contemplated veterans' hospiital construction.

In his budget message to Congress today Mr. Truman suggested that the 16,000 beds be eliminated from 64 hospital projects for which contracts have not yet been let.

This would involve concellation of plans for 24 new hospitals and would cut down the size of 14 others. ozznfiy,D.fD,al —o 64 sabr na nd

Carl Gray, Jr., the Veterans' administrator, said the savings would approximate $290,000,000 but that the change would not affect "the present liberal policy of hospitalization."

But the Legion said it will "strenuously fight curtailment of the VA hospital construction program."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars said the reduction "is the inevitable result of a failure by VA to eliminate administrative waste and extravagance."

New Suspect Questioned In "Black Dahlia" Case

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP)—Police Chief C. B. Horrall said today a man has been booked on suspicion of murder in connection with the two-year-old "Black Dahlia" mutilation death.

Horrall said the man who gave the name of Jack Sands, 27. He said Sands is a bellhop who got in touch six weeks ago with Dr. J. Paul De River, police psychiatrist, after the latter had written a magazine article on sadism. Dr. De River's article described as a sadist the killer of Miss Elizabeth Short, known as the "Black Dahlia."

Horall said Dr. De River arranged a meeting with Sands, who claimed to know a man who "fit" the description of the killer as circularized by police.

"This man has knowledge of minute details of the crime," Horrall quoted Dr. De River.

Boy, 11, Stabs Father To Death In Argument

DENVER, Jan. 10 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy confessed today he stabbed his father to death with a paring knife in an argument over cigarets and household chores.

Detective Capt. James J. Pitt said the boy, Martin Rasnick, cried: "I hated my father. Ive hated him as long as I can remember."

Clayton Rasnick, 48, was stabbed in the chest with a paring knife with a three-inch blade last night and died in a hospital today.

Pitt said the boy at one point broke into sobs and stammered: "I'm sorry, I'm sorry."

Martin said he and his father had quarreled frequently because Rasnick made him do household tasks and also lectured him against smoking.

Siege Of Freezing Rain Predicted For Midwest

[By The Associated Press]

The Midwest, already covered with snow, ice and sleet, braced for a dangerous freezing rain late Monday.

Frigid weather gripped the citrus country of Southern California for the second time in a week. Icy winds whipped snow into its winter playgrounds.

At Kansas City the Weather Bureau forecast 48 hours of freezing rain followed by "the most serious ice glace condition in many years" for Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas.

O'Conor Asks Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Sen. O'Connor (D-Md) asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to investigate the barring, "evidently by Communist officials," of a group of German nuns from returning to their homeland from Romania.

Doctor Uses Penknife For Caesarian And Delivers Baby After Mother Dies

ABINGDON, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—With the seconds ticking off his chances of success, a surgeon performed an emergency caesarian operation with a penknife and delivered a live baby whose mother had been dead for four minutes, George Ben Johnson Hospital reported today.

Dr. Harry Hayter performed the surgery alone and delivered a four-pound, four-ounce boy while a nurse and an associate were in quest of surgical instruments and oxygen.

The baby, blue when delivered, cried immediately and was reported gaining weight and "doing nicely."

The hospital said that the mother, Mrs. Elmer Widner, Denton's Valley, entered the hospital Friday for treatment of a circulatory and kidney disorder, complicated by her eight months' pregnancy.

She appeared resting comfortably. But suddenly Saturday afternoon she turned blue and ceased to breathe. Nurses called Dr. Lee M. Cole, Jr., resident physician, who pronounced her dead.

Dr. Hayter was called and concurred, but his stethoscope picked up the faint beat of the baby's heart. He thought there might be a chance.

Dr. Cole and the nurse ran to the instrument room. But Dr. Hayter's stethoscope heard the flickering heartbeat growing fainter. He took the only instrument available out of his vest pocket.

O'Conor Would Exempt GIs' Pay From Taxes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A bill to revive income tax exemptions on pay of enlisted members of the armed services was introduced today by Sen. O'Conor (D-Md)

A law providing such exemptions expired December 31.

O'Conor's bill also would exempt $1,800 of the pay of officers from federal income taxes. The previous exemption was $1,500.

Thames Is Radioactive

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP) — The atomic age has caught up with the historic old Thames River. It's radioactive.

The annual report of the conserators who watch over the stream said the British Atomic research station upstream at Harwell has been dumping radioactive waste into the Thames since last June.

High Court Keeps Hands Off Trial Of Dozen Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to halt the impending trial of 12 top Communist Party officials on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government.

The 12 men are members of the National Committee of the Communist Party of the United States. They face trial beginning in New York Federal Court next Monday.

They asked the high court last Friday to step in and cancel their indictments because they declared they are to be tried before "a veritable conviction machine." They charged also that Judge Harold R. Medina, assigned to preside, is biased and prejudiced against them.

The Supreme Court, acting only three days after the appeal was filed, dismissed both contentions without comment in its routine order.

The party officials, in addition to asking that their indictments be voided and the trial stayed, sought to have the jury panel thrown out because they said manual workers, the unemployed, negroes and members of low-income groups were deliberately excluded.

This was in effect an attack on New York's "blue ribbon" jury system, which the Supreme Court upheld in a 5-4 decision handed down June 23, 1947.

In other actions, the court:

(1) Declined to consider an attack on validity of a section of the Taft-Hartley Act which frees employers from a legal obligation to bagain collectively with foremen.

(2) Dismissed an appeal attacking validity of Tennessee's anti-closed shop law. The dismissal was requested by an AFL teamsters' union local following last week's Supreme Court action upholding similar laws in Arizona, Nebraska and North Carolina.

Actor Robert Mitchum Is Convicted Of Drug Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP) — Robert Mitchum of the movies was convicted by a Superior Court judge in 45 minutes today of conspiracy to possess marijuana, but legal maneuvering by famed Lawyer Jerry Giesler may yet save him from jail.

The wily Giesler, who won freedom in recent years for such clients as Errol Flynn and Charlie Chaplin on morals charges, agreed to trial without a jury, on a single count, solely on testimony before the grand jury which indicted Mitchum.

He wouldn't discuss his motives, but other lawyers said he apparently hoped to win probation for his client. Mitchum also was charged with possession of narcotics. This under the law is an offense on which, in the event of conviction probation can not be granted.

Penalties on both possession and conspiracy are the same—90 days to one year in the county jail, or up to six years in prison.

Mitchum, 31 - year - old ex - truck driver who became the movie idol of bobby-soxers and whose box-office popularity increased after his indictment, dead-panned the proceedings. He didn't even lift an eyebrow when testimony on an arresting officer quoting Mitchum was read:

"This . . . will ruin me. This is why my wife left me. I'm through."

Nor did he flicker an eyelid when the judge pronounced "guilty as charged." He arose and walked out, still at liberty on $1,000 bail.

With him went Actress Lila Leeds, 20, and Real Estate Man Robin Ford, 31, arrested with Mitchum and Dancer Vicki Evans, 25, in a secluded Laurel Canyon cottage last September 1. Miss Leeds and Ford likewise were convicted — their attorneys following Giesler's lead. Miss Evans was not in court. She wired she was stranded in New York without funds.

Patrolmen Act On Tips

Hornyak said the German youths, who stowed aboard an American-bound freighter, landed in New York and made their way to West Palm Beach, Fla., before border patrolmen caught them. They admitted under oath that members of the Communist Party gave them money and helped to smuggle them into this country, Hornyak said.

The Jewish refugees were arrested about noon when 11 border patrolmen swarmed over the charter boat.

Hornyak said the entire South Florida coastline, from Tampa around through the Florida Keys and north to West Palm Beach, had

Industry Aid Fund Bill Is Introduced

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—A "full employment act"—under which the government could make billions of dollars of loans to industry or public agencies to expand production—was introduced today in House and Senate.

Sponsors proposed a $15,000,000,000 fund administered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to support industrial activity. They said it is essential to stabilize the high levels; that it would stimulate investment and production.

In case of "inability" to make the loans to private industry, the RFC could grant them to states or regional agencies so they could set up their own industries.

The bill was introduced by Rep. Patman (D-Tex) and Sens. Murray (D-Mont) and Sparkman (D-Ala), who said it would help President Truman carry out long range economic plans.

Strengthening of laws protecting the nation's secret code, cipher and cryptographic system was proposed in a bill by Rep. Walter D-Pa). It is urged by Secretary of Defense Forrestal.

'49 Organizing Job Completed By Md. House

Baltimore Countian Named Assistant To Chairman Melnicove

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 10 (AP)—Maryland's House of Delegates finished its job of organizing for 1949 tonight with a new man taking second spot on the powerful Judiciary Committee.

Delegate Boone (D - Baltimore County), who had been mentioned in pre-session reports for various positions, including majority floor leader, was handed the post as assistant to Chairman Melnicove (D-Balto 4th).

Melincove's appointment was announced last week, along with Chairman Pumphrey (D - Prince George's), who is majority floor leader.

The weekend consultations to resolve the question of key positions found delegate McGrath (D-Prince George's) shifted from the Judiciary vice chairmanship in favor of Boone. McGrath remains on the committee.

The announcement of committee appointments—awaited since opening day—was the main business of the House. The delegates did not go into session until an hour beyond regular time while the finishing touches were put on the committee lists.

Mental Hospitals Discussed

The Senate held a short and routine session, enlivened only by a discussion of state mental hospitals, touched off by Sen. Ellison (R-Balto 4th) and joined in by several others.

They all referred to a series of articles on hospitals carried by the Baltimore Sunpapers. President Byrnes advised the Senate that Gov. Lane is aware of the problem and is taking steps about it.

Both Houses received identical bills calling for a referendum in 1950 on weather Maryland should call a convention for revision of its constitution. The bill went in as administration measures.

In the House committee assignments, three major groups got new chairmen:

Delegate Bloom (D-Washington), took over the Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee. He succeeds John Clark, of Harford County, who resigned two years ago to become chairman of the embattled Tidewater Fisheries Commission

Delegate Tyler (D-Anne Arundel) became chairman of the Education Committee, succeeding Anthony F. Didomenico, Baltimore Second, who is now a city councilman.

Other Chairmen Named

Delegate Richardson (D - Worchester) became chairman of the Entertainment Committee, replacing Johnson Bowie, of Baltimore County, now a police magistrate at Towson.

Delegate Luber (D-Balto 5th) returned as Chairman of Banking, Insurance and Social Security, as did Delegate Brinsfield (D-Dorches-

Pay Boost Action Urged By Truman

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today for quick action to boost top-level government salaries.

Legislation favored by the President would hike executive salaries from their present $10,000-$15,000 brackets to new $17,500-$25,000 levels.

Mr. Truman wrote Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), Senate president pro tempore, declaring that action is needed because business is outbidding the government for the services of "able men."

The lack of adequate talent, he said, is "a serious threat to the efficiency of government."

The President noted that the heads of executive departments and agencies have gone without a salary increase for many years, and the effect, he said, has been "an impaired government service."

The appropriate legislation, he said, is already available to the Senate to remedy the discrepancy between salaries offered by business and those paid by the federal government.

Mr. Truman said, he hopes the necessary action can be taken by Congress before his new term begins, January 20.

Doctor Uses Penknife For Caesarian And Delivers Baby After Mother Dies

ABINGDON, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—With the seconds ticking off his chances of success, a surgeon performed an emergency caesarian operation with a penknife and delivered a live baby whose mother had been dead for four minutes, George Ben Johnson Hospital reported today.

Dr. Harry Hayter performed the surgery alone and delivered a four-pound, four-ounce boy while a nurse and an associate were in quest of surgical instruments and oxygen.

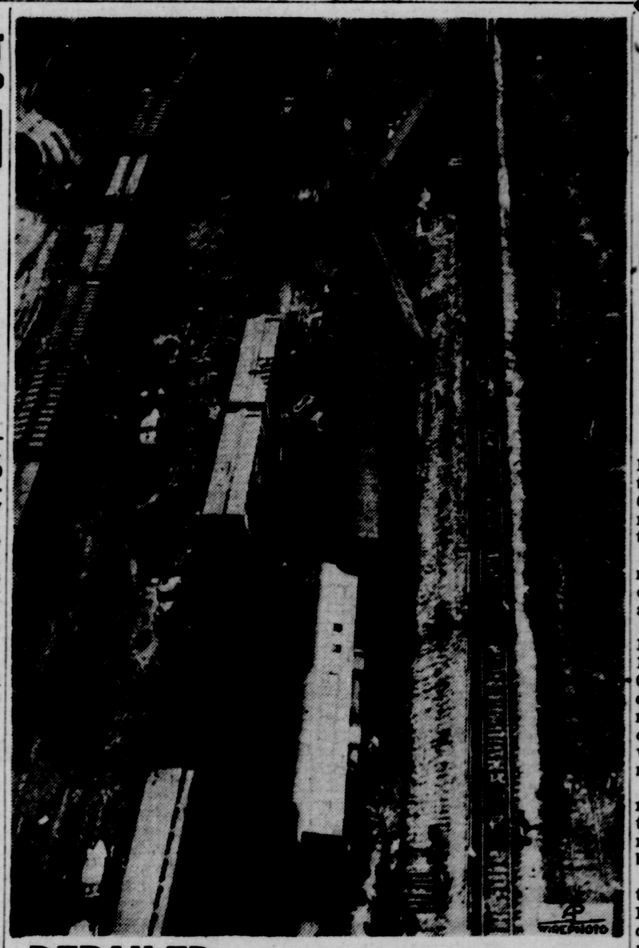

The baby, blue when delivered, cried immediately and was reported gaining weight and "doing nicely."

The hospital said that the mother, Mrs. Elmer Widner, Denton's Valley, entered the hospital Friday for treatment of a circulatory and kidney disorder, complicated by her eight months' pregnancy.

She appeared resting comfortably. But suddenly Saturday afternoon she turned blue and ceased to breathe. Nurses called Dr. Lee M. Cole, Jr., resident physician, who pronounced her dead.

Dr. Hayter was called and concurred, but his stethoscope picked up the faint beat of the baby's heart. He thought there might be a chance.

Dr. Cole and the nurse ran to the instrument room. But Dr. Hayter's stethoscope heard the flickering heartbeat growing fainter. He took the only instrument available out of his vest pocket.

Reds Mopping Up Chinese Forces North Of Nanking

Pilots Say Fighting Is Heaviest To Date

NANKING, Jan. 10 (AP)—Chinese Communist troops today were crushing with smashing attacks a governments island of resistance north of Nanking which is delaying the Red push to the Yantze.

The Communist radio said remnants of the Nationalist force—which was estimated at 130,000 men the day before—were "completely wiped out" by 10 o'clock this morning, Chinese time.)

Pilots returning from the front described the fighting as the heaviest we have seen any time in China." Smoke from intensive artillery fire hung over the battlefield.

These forces of Gen. Tu Li-Ming numbered possibly 250,000 when they defended the former base of Suchow. They were trapped about 150 miles northwest of Nanking in a pocket three miles long and a mile and a half wide. Steady attrition has caused them heavy losses since encirclement.

Supply Drops May Stop

Government planes were requested from the ground to make no more supply drops because the remnants are so tightly compressed, reports reaching Nanking said.

The capture of Tu's forces, with great stores of munitions and modern equipment, will make powerful Red forces available for the expected drive to the Yantze, the last barrier before Nanking.

(The Communist radio gave no details in saying the army groups of "war criminal Tu Li-Ming" were wiped out, meaning destroyed as a combat force. The broadcast was heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco.

(In contrast, a lull fell over the North China front, where Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Moosa strongly indicated a proclamation halting hostilities may come by next Sunday.

(Moosa, writing through censorship in Peiping, said Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, North China commander, is expected to issue a proclamation which will paint "Peiping and other Nationalist islands a different color on themap." Communist artillery is emplaced on heights commanding Peiping. The Reds apparently hold several outlaying sections of Tientsin.)

Meanwhile, one diplomat predicted that a negative answer would be given by the United States, France, Great Britain and Russia

LONDON, Jan. 10 (AP) — The atomic age has caught up with the historic old Thames River. It's radioactive.

Paul Whiteman's Wife Is Injured In Train Wreck

MILFORD, Va., Jan. 10 (AP)—The Seaboard Air Line Railroad's Orange Blossom Special, northbound from Florida, was wrecked here today when 10 cars of the 17-car all-pullman train were derailed.

Twenty-three persons, including Mrs. Paul Whiteman, wife of the famed orchestra leader, were sent to a Fredericksburg, Va., hospital. All but nine, however, were released late today, and doctors said none of those still hospitalized was in a serious condition. Mrs. Whiteman was among those released.

Investigators have not determined the cause of the derailment. The accident caused only slight interruption in north and south bound traffic past Milford, 20 miles south of Fredericksburg.

LEGION, VFW DENOUNCE PROPOSED CUT IN VETS' HOSPITAL CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Jan 10 (AP)—Two veterans' organizations—the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars—tonight denounced a proposed 16,000-bed slash in contemplated veterans' hospital construction.

In his budget message to Congress today Mr. Truman suggested that the 16,000 beds be eliminated from 64 hospital projects for which contracts have not yet been let.

This would involve concellation of plans for 24 new hospitals and would cut down the size of 14 others. ozznfiy,D.fD,al —o 64 sabr na nd

Carl Gray, Jr., the Veterans' administrator, said the savings would approximate $290,000,000 but that the change would not affect "the present liberal policy of hospitalization."

But the Legion said it will "strenuously fight curtailment of the VA hospital construction program."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars said the reduction "is the inevitable result of a failure by VA to eliminate administrative waste and extravagance."

Cut In Truman Figures Urged By Republicans

"Cold War" Would Take Half Of 41.8 Billions Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Truman told Congress today it will take at least $41,858,000,000 to run the government right next year—half of it to hold back the Communist tide.

Republicans immediately demanded deep slashes and party lines quickly formed for the big tests ahead.

Mr. Truman's budget covering the 1950 fiscal year beginning next July 1 is peacetime's biggest—$1,678,000,000 larger than this year. For the cold war with Russia he asked the most powerful military forces the country has ever had outside a war—and funds to bolster Allied nations against the Red surge.

Moreover, Mr. Truman served notice he will ask more funds later to supply arms to non-Communist nations, a step which will push the budget even higher.

All told Mr. Truman asked for a tax increase of nearly $6,000,000,000. First he reiterated his recent request for a $4,000,000,000 increase, mostly on corporations. Then he asked nearly $2,000,000,000 in social security taxes, to finance new and old programs.

He did not give an inch in his demands for the vast social and economic program he demanded for the vast social and economic program he demanded in his state of the union message; such as housing, better schools, more social security benefits.

Frowns On Air Force Idea

On the defense front, Mr. Truman stressed the importance of air power, but frowned on the idea of a 70-group Air Force, which has been heavily backed in Congress and by the air generals. Mr. Truman said that number and size of planes, rather than number of groups is a better gauge of Air Force strength.

Mr. Truman said the prospects for the 1951 fiscal year are for even greater governmental costs. He mentioned national defense and world responsibilities.

Republicans called the Truman figures dangerous, reckless and overestimated. But administration forces showed no sign of discontent.

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) called the budget "the most practical that could be presented at this time." Cannon will head the House Appropriations Committee where spending bills originate.

Cannon called it "part of a long time program in which you will have benefits for years to come."

The committee's ranking Republican, Rep. Taber, of New Yrok, observed "they've evidently given everybody everything they asked for." He said it would be cut down.

"Reckless," Wherry Says

In the Senate, GOP Floor Leader Wherry, of Nebraska, called the budget "reckless." He said it proposed "new spending programs which will grow even greater in future years."

Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.) said Mr. Truman had done "a splendid job"

New Suspect Questioned In "Black Dahlia" Case

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP)—Police Chief C. B. Horrall said today a man has been booked on suspicion of murder in connection with the two-year-old "Black Dahlia" mutilation death.

Horrall said the man who gave the name of Jack Sands, 27. He said Sands is a bellhop who got in touch six weeks ago with Dr. J. Paul De River, police psychiatrist, after the latter had written a magazine article on sadism. Dr. De River's article described as a sadist the killer of Miss Elizabeth Short, known as the "Black Dahlia."

Horall said Dr. De River arranged a meeting with Sands, who claimed to know a man who "fit" the description of the killer as circularized by police.

"This man has knowledge of minute details of the crime," Horrall quoted Dr. De River.

Boy, 11, Stabs Father To Death In Argument

DENVER, Jan. 10 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy confessed today he stabbed his father to death with a paring knife in an argument over cigarets and household chores.

Detective Capt. James J. Pitt said the boy, Martin Rasnick, cried: "I hated my father. Ive hated him as long as I can remember."

Clayton Rasnick, 48, was stabbed in the chest with a paring knife with a three-inch blade last night and died in a hospital today.

Pitt said the boy at one point broke into sobs and stammered: "I'm sorry, I'm sorry."

Martin said he and his father had quarreled frequently because Rasnick made him do household tasks and also lectured him against smoking.

High Court Keeps Hands Off Trial Of Dozen Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to halt the impending trial of 12 top Communist Party officials on charges of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government.

The 12 men are members of the National Committee of the Communist Party of the United States. They face trial beginning in New York Federal Court next Monday.

They asked the high court last Friday to step in and cancel their indictments because they declared they are to be tried before "a veritable conviction machine." They charged also that Judge Harold R. Medina, assigned to preside, is biased and prejudiced against them.

The Supreme Court, acting only three days after the appeal was filed, dismissed both contentions without comment in its routine order.

The party officials, in addition to asking that their indictments be voided and the trial stayed, sought to have the jury panel thrown out because they said manual workers, the unemployed, negroes and members of low-income groups were deliberately excluded.

This was in effect an attack on New York's "blue ribbon" jury system, which the Supreme Court upheld in a 5-4 decision handed down June 23, 1947.

In other actions, the court:

(1) Declined to consider an attack on validity of a section of the Taft-Hartley Act which frees employers from a legal obligation to bagain collectively with foremen.

(2 Dismissed an appeal attacking validity of Tennessee's anti-closed shop law. The dismissal was requested by an AFL teamsters' union local following last week's Supreme Court action upholding similar laws in Arizona, Nebraska and North Carolina.

Actor Robert Mitchum Is Convicted Of Drug Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP) — Robert Mitchum of the movies was convicted by a Superior Court judge in 45 minutes today of conspiracy to possess marijuana, but legal maneuvering by famed Lawyer Jerry Giesler may yet save him from jail.

The wily Giesler, who won freedom in recent years for such clients as Errol Flynn and Charlie Chaplin on morals charges, agreed to trial without a jury, on a single count, solely on testimony before the grand jury which indicted Mitchum.

He wouldn't discuss his motives, but other lawyers said he apparently hoped to win probation for his client. Mitchum also was charged with possession of narcotics. This under the law is an offense on which, in the event of conviction probation can not be granted.

Penalties on both possession and conspiracy are the same—90 days to one year in the county jail, or up to six years in prison.

Mitchum, 31 - year - old ex - truck driver who became the movie idol of bobby-soxers and whose box-office popularity increased after his indictment, dead-panned the proceedings. He didn't even lift an eyebrow when testimony on an arresting officer quoting Mitchum was read:

"This . . . will ruin me. This is why my wife left me. I'm through."

Nor did he flicker an eyelid when the judge pronounced "guilty as charged." He arose and walked out, still at liberty on $1,000 bail.

With him went Actress Lila Leeds, 20, and Real Estate Man Robin Ford, 31, arrested with Mitchum and Dancer Vicki Evans, 25, in a secluded Laurel Canyon cottage last September 1. Miss Leeds and Ford likewise were convicted — their attorneys following Giesler's lead. Miss Evans was not in court. She wired she was stranded in New York without funds.

Hairdressers Group Plans Valentine-Hankie Party

First Year Book Exhibited

The Allegany Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association formulated plans for a Valentine Handkerchief party, exhibited its first year book and named a Legislative committee at the dinner meeting last night at Central YMCA.

Allegany 4-H Girls Plan Year's Programs, Activities

Camp To Be Held June 30, July 6

Members of the Allegany 4-H Girls Trail introduced the project chairmen for the year, discussing their duties and a countywide program, at the meeting Saturday in the office of the home demonstration agent. The meeting opened with the 4-H pledge led by Marjorie Twigg, county chairman, who reported on the December meeting.

Chairmen are Jean McCoy, Publicity; Esther Shryock, Music; Rose Ann Willison, Song Leader; Beverly Bennett, Alice Fisher, Recreation; Jane Iliff, Patricia Fisher, Camp Algawa; Patricia Fox, Alice Greise, Community Service; Shirley Miller, Wilma Vandevort, Fair; Ann Riggleman, Club Work; JoAnn Moyer, Carol Thompson, Garden; Barbara Long, Clothing; Rose Ann Willison, Home Furnishing; Elizabeth Long, Mary Margaret Lear, Home Management; Virginia Griese, Nutrition and Health.

It was decided that the January and February meetings will be devoted to clothing projects with Miss Gloria Bohn, assistant home demonstration agents, giving a demonstration at January meetings and the girls giving clothing demonstrations on subjects varying with the clubs at the February meetings.

Miss Bohn will demonstrate making butter cake at the March meetings and the group will discuss the garden propects. For the April meetings club teams or individual demonstrations on foods will be given by the girls.

Club demonstration contests, as well as style reviews, will be held by all clubs during May and June. Every member will participate in styling, demonstrations or judging in preparation for the county-wide contest to be held July 19-20 at the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company auditorium. For the county contest each club is to have a team and an individual demonstration. Those taking part in the county contest will be the winners in the various club contests.

Camp is also scheduled for June 30 to July 6 at the Garrett County campsite.

At the July meetings there will be the camp reports at the various club meetings and preparation for 4-H State Club Week to be held at the University of Maryland in August, tentatively set for the second week. Delegates for the club week will be selected and etiquette discussed.

For the August meetings the topic for the recreation will be left to the choice of the club chairmen, whether they will be hay rides, picnics, campfires or vesper services.

Home furnishing demonstrations will mark the September meetings. They will be given by either Miss Bohn or club home furnishing chairmen. Demonstrations and discussions on home management will mark the October meetings and will be given by the club chairmen.

Achievement meetings will be held in all clubs during November. Exhibits are to be brought to them to be judged. In December there will be the Christmas meetings and parties at which time foods chairmen of all clubs will give ideas for Christmas decorations and Christmas foods.

The group set as its 1949 food goal to try to make better cakes and jellies. Last year the club concentrated on biscuits and quick breads. The county group is using the national theme for the year, "Creating Better Homes Today for a Better Citizenship Tomorrow," and the home furnishing goal is to assist the girls to learn good and poor taste and how to use what one has to the best advantage. Eighteen members attended.

Simply Gift Is Best For Birthday

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I'd like to know the answer to this problem as it's been worrying me for a couple of weeks. I'm not going steady, but I have been dating one boy quite often. His birthday is coming up soon, and I don't know whether or not to get him a present. I know he still takes other girls out, so I'm not sure that it would be proper. What do you think?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) If you've known him for some time and have been dating him for months, get something impersonal that will fit into your financial budget. This situation doesn't call for a great deal of expense and effort, but he will appreciate a small, friendly gift. If you haven't known him too long, however, you'd better settle for a card and congratulations.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A girl in our crowd has turned into a regular 'know it all.' She used to be one of the best-liked girls in our school, but now, no matter what happens or what she's told, she has to go one better and try to have something better than anyone else. It's gotten on everyone's nerves, but she doesn't seem to realize that she's losing a lot of friends this way. We've considered dropping her out completely, but she's been one of us so long that we don't know how to go about it. Could you tell us what to do?"

(A) She ought to realize herself that she isn't winning friends and influencing people by pulling a "better than you" act, but perhaps you should bring her up to date. You could wait until she goes into her routine, but it might be a bit kinder to wait until you and she are alone and give her the straight word on what she's doing and how you all feel about it. It's only fair to warn her what the result is going to be if she keeps it up, and tell her that although she's still a member of your gang, if she lets her present attitude go too far, she's likely to be on the outside, looking in.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Recently, a friend of mine at school asked me to double date with a friend of her date's, and the four of us had a wonderful time. The boy I dated promised to write to me, and come to see me again, soon, but three weeks have gone by and I haven't heard from him. I've asked the other girl about it, and although she's asked the friend of hers how things stand, she hasn't pinned him down to a definite answer. I liked the boy a lot, and I'd like to see him again, but I don't know how to go about it. Can you give me any advice?

(A) It's up to the boy to suggest another date, and if he decided against it after he left you, there isn't much you can do about it. You'll just have to be patient and wait until you hear from him. Blind dates often work out, but if this is the exception, don't spend your time worrying about it. Instead, turn your thoughts to someone else.

Miss Mottram wants to help with your problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Save

There is no better habit than that of thrift. Beginning early to save will brighten each year of one's life. Financial security is the best possible aim to assure mental security and self-confidence. It wipes away all fear of later want.

People used to laugh at the late John D. Rockefeller's dimes that he gave away, but there was a lesson in each one of those gifts that he made. He began that way! He saved and gave regularly and according to plan. And the more he gave away the more he seemed to gain. That's the way it always works. His benefactions were world-wide. He made the world happier, and his descendants have carried out his ideas.

Regular saving inspires bigger savings as time goes on. You feel better with money in the bank, with which to take care of current obligations, and those that are sure to come up in future days. You can pay as you go if you save as you go.

I recall talking to a friend of mine, soon after coming out of college, and he was telling me how he started by saving twenty-five cents a week. Then he kept adding to that saving as he earned more. When I talked with him he was a wealthy man, and so his advice sounded worth heeding.

This New Year is a fine time in which to resolve upon saving—something, no matter how small, out of weekly earnings. There are those who think that relatives, or the government, should look after them as age comes upon them. We are better citizens and human beings if we look after ourselves, and take pride in our own independence.

There is another important saving that ought to give us grave concern—the saving of our strength—respecting this marvelous human machine that we own—never abusing it, conserving and building up our physical forces to make our later years as thrilling as our younger ones. "The last of life, for which the first was made," as Browning so well put it.

Try And Stop Me

It is generally agreed that the game of chess originated in India, but just how and when has been the subject of endless speculation. According to one imaginative correspondent in Hobbies Magazine, the inventor was a Brahmin named Nassir. Appalled at the excesses and despotic behavior of his young prince, Behub, Nassir sought to bring him to his senses by teaching him a game in which the king, impotent by himself, was protected only by his subjects, even of the lowest class, and frequently ruined by the loss of a single individual.

Whether or not Behub got the point deponent sayeth not. Chances are he tossed the chessmen into the Ganges, with Nassir following closely thereafter!

According to Time Magazine, New York City has more Irish (500,000) than Dublin, more Jews (2 million) than Palestine, and almost as many Italians (1,100,000) as Rome! In a single day the city uses over a billion gallons of water and imports almost 25,000 tons of food. Four hundred thousand commuters stream into Manhattan daily on trains at the rate of one every fifty seconds, day and night.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Do all boys aspire to be men when they grow up?

Answer: Consciously, all normal boys do, or at least would be ashamed to admit that they don't, even to themselves. But the deeper and unconscious aspirations of children of either sex depend on which parent they regard as holding the superior position in the family—that is, which appears to them to have more authority and to get more fun out of life. If a boy is brought up in a home in which his mother is "boss," he will hesitate to assert his manhood, and unconsciously attempt to satisfy his ambitions by feminine techniques.

Can cruelty take the form of doing nothing?

Answer: Yes. Inaction can be a particularly subtle form of cruelty because it appears so "innocent" to others, and to yourself. If you're angry at one of your friends, for instance, you can usually hurt him worse by keeping out of his way and refusing to say what he has done to offend you than by any outright quarrel. Cruelty of this sort is characteristic of "meek" people, who are never outwardly aggressive but may harbor—and express in this way—more repressed hostility than if they flew into the most violent rages.

Can atabrine cause mental illness?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. Martin F. Grieber in the American Journal of Psychiatry. This new drug, used in place of quinine for treating malaria in the South Pacific, was responsible for 43 cases of "toxic psychosis" (insanity caused by poisoning) which he had a chance to study. However, the illness cleared up once the patient was given a different type of medicine, and no serious permanent results were noted. Atabrine is evidently one more of the newer drugs which must be used with caution because certain people are "allergic" to it.

Simply Gift Is Best For Birthday

Nancy Mottram

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I'd like to know the answer to this problem as it's been worrying me for a couple of weeks. I'm not going steady, but I have been dating one boy quite often. His birthday is coming up soon, and I don't know whether or not to get him a present. I know he still takes other girls out, so I'm not sure that it would be proper. What do you think?"

(A) If you've known him for some time and have been dating him for months, get something impersonal that will fit into your financial budget. This situation doesn't call for a great deal of expense and effort, but he will appreciate a small, friendly gift. If you haven't known him too long, however, you'd better settle for a card and congratulations.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: A girl in our crowd has turned into a regular "know it all." She used to be one of the best-liked girls in our school, but now, no matter what happens or what she's told, she has to go one better and try to have something better than anyone else. It's gotten on everyone's nerves, but she doesn't seem to realize that she's losing a lot of friends this way. We've considered dropping her out completely, but she's been one of us so long that we don't know how to go about it. Could you tell us what to do?"

(A) She ought to realize herself that she isn't winning friends and influencing people by pulling a "better than you" act, but perhaps you should bring her up to date. You could wait until she goes into her routine, but it might be a bit kinder to wait until you and she are alone and give her the straight word on what she's doing and how you all feel about it. It's only fair to warn her what the result is going to be if she keeps it up, and tell her that although she's still a member of your gang, if she lets her present attitude go too far, she's likely to be on the outside, looking in.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Recently, a friend of mine at school asked me to double date with a friend of her date's, and the four of us had a wonderful time. The boy I dated promised to write to me, and come to see me again, soon, but three weeks have gone by and I haven't heard from him. I've asked the other girl about it, and although she's asked the friend of hers how things stand, she hasn't pinned him down to a definite answer. I liked the boy a lot, and I'd like to see him again, but I don't know how to go about it. Can you give me any advice?

(A) It's up to the boy to suggest another date, and if he decided against it after he left you, there isn't much you can do about it. You'll just have to be patient and wait until you hear from him. Blind dates often work out, but if this is the exception, don't spend your time worrying about it. Instead, turn your thoughts to someone else.

Miss Mottram wants to help with your problems. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Today's Talk

Save

There is no better habit than that of thrift. Beginning early to save will brighten each year of one's life. Financial security is the best possible aim to assure mental security and self-confidence. It wipes away all fear of later want.

People used to laugh at the late John D. Rockefeller's dimes that he gave away, but there was a lesson in each one of those gifts that he made. He began that way! He saved and gave regularly and according to plan. And the more he gave away the more he seemed to gain. That's the way it always works. His benefactions were world-wide. He made the world happier, and his descendants have carried out his ideas.

Regular saving inspires bigger savings as time goes on. You feel better with money in the bank, with which to take care of current obligations, and those that are sure to come up in future days. You can pay as you go if you save as you go.

I recall talking to a friend of mine, soon after coming out of college, and he was telling me how he started by saving twenty-five cents a week. Then he kept adding to that saving as he earned more. When I talked with him he was a wealthy man, and so his advice sounded worth heeding.

This New Year is a fine time in which to resolve upon saving—something, no matter how small, out of weekly earnings. There are those who think that relatives, or the government, should look after them as age comes upon them. We are better citizens and human beings if we look after ourselves, and take pride in our own independence.

There is another important saving that ought to give us grave concern—the saving of our strength—respecting this marvelous human machine that we own—never abusing it, conserving and building up our physical forces to make our later years as thrilling as our younger ones. "The last of life, for which the first was made," as Browning so well put it.

False Step Is Taken By Senate Democrats

Because the Eightieth (Republican) Congress followed in foreign affairs what Senator Vandenberg called "the spirit of bi-partisan co-operation" it divided the membership in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as equally as possible—seven Republicans to six Democrats. The Eighty-first (Democratic) Congress, makes a bad start by reconstituting the committee with eight Democrats and five Republicans.

Two reasons are given: (1) The Democrats have a longer lead in the Senate than the Republicans had. (2) There are some Democrats eager to sit on the committee. Those, as will be noted, are purely political considerations, and as such violate the principle of bi-partisan co-operation. Senator Vandenberg calls it "the first partisan action which has occurred in the last two years" in that sphere. Senator Wayne Morse declares: "The implications are that the Democratic Party proposes to play politics with war and peace." Senator Barkley's apologetic statement, "It is just as easy for eight members to be non-partisan as it is for seven," reduces itself to an absurdity; the same plea that might be made for a solidly Democratic committee.

President Truman, you will remember, had a great deal to say about "co-operation" with the preceding (Republican) Congress. But he fell out with it almost at once, fell out also with most of its Democratic membership, and then went on the stump denouncing it as "good for nothing, do nothing." The same mood of partisanship dictated the change in the Senate committee. If the bi-partisan foreign policy, which is so important to all democratic security, is preserved, it will be thanks to its Republican author, Senator Vandenberg.

Economists Strive To Determine Outlook For '49

This is the time when economists, prognosticators and plain guessers take advantage of the calendar to peek around the corner and reveal what's going to happen this year. The economists are in better position than, say, the sportscaster who tries to pick the winner of the National League pennant.

Those who predict business cycles have less to do with the purely human element (such as an unknown pinch hitter whose triple may sew up the series) and their predictions, barring an international upheaval, should be fairly accurate.

But the Wall Street Journal, in its annual outlook, comments that economists venturing into statistical measurement of business activity ahead are allowing themselves wider leeway than usual. Presumably they want more elbow room to reconcile such uncertainties as a sudden bulge in military expenditures, or a rise in ECA gifts, or a sudden drop in employment, or other variables that greatly complicate the nation's economy.

Like Roger W. Babson, statistician for this newspaper, they predict the boom is passing and that inflationary tendencies have lost much of their initial force. What this portends in the form of relief in high living costs is not quite clear, but presumably drops in prices are in the wind. Mr. Babson, for instance, opines that the retail price of some goods, other than food products, may be higher during 1949, but that the Cost-of-Living Index has turned downward. In a nutshell, Mr. Babson is of the opinion that general business, national income, farm income, bituminous coal, building and construction, lumber and retail trade will be off from 5 to 20 per cent, while steel output, automobiles, foreign trade, etc., will be up from 3 to 10 per cent.

After peering into this complicated picture with its low overcast of business indices, it was encouraging to read that the new Sears, Roebuck catalogue shows an average price decline of 1.7 per cent. On the face of it, that's not much of a drop. It means that what cost one dollar formerly can now be had for 98 and a fraction cents. But it is a reduction, for a change, and it has been announced by a company that sells almost all types of consumer goods except food and automobiles.

If a hard-headed and canny outfit like S-R scales the price of its wares, with none of this "allowance for leeway", then it looks as if this is the way things are going to be.

The Basic Civil Right Of Workers Is Upheld

Out of sixteen American states, acting independently, has come in recent years a common move in behalf of the most important Civil Right, which is the right to work. The move has taken on a national character since the United States Supreme Court unanimously upheld the anti-closed shop statutes of three of the states—Arizona, Nebraska and North Carolina—these being the immediate cases before it.

The States forbade any employer, operating entirely within their limits, to make any contract with a union which discriminated against workers who did not belong to it; if he was engaged in interstate commerce, the ban did not apply.

There was a precedent before the court which really made its present ruling inevitable. In 1934 it had upheld Federal and State laws which forbade employers to discriminate against union members. Now it goes on to uphold State laws which forbid employers to discriminate against non-union members —in other words, the closed shop. Since the Taft-Harley Act bans this—while not going so far as the State laws—the inference is clear that when its provision, applying to employers in interstate commerce, come before the court, it will also be upheld.

As Justice Black put it, when a State legislature declares closed-shop contracts are "offensive to the public interest," it violates no right which the Constitution guarantees. It does protect the right to work, which is above all other except the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"—which, indeed, mean practically nothing without it.

Significantly, this move comes from sixteen state capitals and not from Washington, which in the New Deal Administration has moved in the opposite direction. It was unexpected, but is vastly heartening, that out of Washington comes a validating decision. There will be continent-wide reverberations.

The European Recovery Administration is scraping the bottom of the money barrel. Calling all taxpayers, calling all taxpayers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

(Copyright: 1949: By The Chicago Tribune)

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Development Of Peritonitis

In bygone years, when the physician told the family of a patient that peritonitis had set in, they knew that the end was not far away. The very thought of this complication was enough to strike terror into the hearts of all concerned but the situation has changed and nowadays, the medico is better prepared to tackle the problem. This is proved by the fact that the mortality rate from this disorder has declined steadily.

Dr. Van Dellen

Peritonitis means inflammation of the inner lining (peritoneum) of the abdominal cavity. Since there is no natural opening into this space, if bacterial invasion occurs, it is usually the result of disease of an internal organ such as the appendix, pelvic structures, or the pancreas, or of emergencies like ruptured peptic ulcer. The same can be said of obstruction in the intestinal tract and penetration of the obdominal wall by a bullet or knife. Germs also may enter when the cavity is opened during surgery especially if sterile conditions do not exist. There is another possibility if a portion of the stomach has been removed, and the remaining part sutured together, the stitches might not hold and digestive juices will leak out to irritate the membrane.

It is obvious that whenever peritonitis occurs, early symptoms vary depending upon the origin. If an ulcer ruptures, pain is likely to be located high in the abdomen; should the apendix burst, the site of discomfort is low on the right side. As inflammation spreads, distress becomes more generalized and since it is aggravated by moving, the victim is likely to lie quietly in bed with the legs drawn up to lessen strain on the abdominal muscles. In the same manner, the rapid breathing is shallow which limits the excursion of the diaphragm. leading to vomiting; the intestine leading ot vomiting; the intestine is paralyzed, causing the bowel to fill with gas which generally distends the abdomen.

The pulse quickens, the temperature rises, and the patient appears toxic. The latter manifestation is characteristic of peritonitis and was recognized centuries ago by Hippocrates. He portrayed the expression of the patient so vividly that it is still quoted in textbooks: "A sharp nose, hollow eyes, collapsed temples; the ears cold, contracted, and their lobes turned out; the skin about the forehead being rough, distended, and perched; the color of the whole face being brown, black, livid, or lead colored."

Peritonitis is still a serious complication and the medical profession has done many things to keep it under control. Through education, the majority of sufferers no longer wait until the appendix ruptures before seeking care. In addition, the surgeon has made numerous improvements in his technic; by insisting upon strict asepsis, contamination at the time of surgery is minimized. After certain operations, especially when the stomach or intestine has been opened, a long tube is inserted through the mouth to keep the passageway empty and deflated. This prevents the gastric pouch and bowel from distending, thus breaking the sutures and allowing the contents to seep out and produce peritonitis.

The physical status of the patient is taken into consideration and by administering proteins and vitamins, healing and encouraged and resistance to invading bacteria increased. The most dramatic advance in treatment came with the discovery of the wonder drugs; the sulfonamides and penicillin have proved a boon and every day we see examples of patients surviving peritonitis through their use.

BROKEN LEG VEINS

Mrs. B. writes: On two occasions during the past few months my right leg became itchy, the veins stood out, and ruptured within a short time. Then my leg in that area became black and blue. Can you advise?

Reply

The spontaneous rupture of a leg vein is not uncommon but the cause is often obscure. This bleeding tendency may occur if the wall of the blood vessel is fragile or the circulation within is so sluggish that the passageway overdistends and breaks. A condition like this requires careful study in an attempt to determine the cause.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just put the piano over there.

Yes sir, we're all home decorators, according to Louise T. Bolender, expert and author on the subject. She was amazed at all the home furnishing talent she found on her visit to California.

When I was a kid, my mother thought I'd make a great interior decorator. She used to say it wasn't just anybody who could turn a beautiful living room into a pig pen in five minutes.

Of course, being a comedian gives you practice in color design. When you're standing in front of the microphone, you have to be very careful where they splatter.

When I designed my home, I had a little trouble putting my couch in the right spot. It wasn't the design that bothered me. I just couldn't get my relatives to get up so we could move it.

Naturally every person thinks he knows best how to decorate a home. But for my money the best interior decorator in the world is still Dr. Gillespie.

French Thank-You Train Pulls Out Of Paris; Labor Will Lose Friends By Strong-Arm Tactics Now Being Used On Congress

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The French Merci Train, in thanks for the Friendship Train, is now being loaded at the port of La Havre onto the SS Magellan en route to the United States. Here is the description of the train's departure from Paris as given by Leon Pearson over NBC:

"A freight train of 49 cars loaded with the hearts of a million Frenchmen pulled out of Paris this morning bound for Le Havre and New York. Before its journey is ended that train will have reached every state in the U. S. and its spirit will have touched the entire country—49 cars, one for each state plus the District of Columbia.

"I walked the whole length of that train this morning before the ceremonies and the speechmaking began and marveled at the way the French railway workers who are principally responsible for this gratitude train have repainted and decorated those old boxcars that every American doughboy knew so well.

"The railroad cars are packed even tighter than when they carried eight horses or forty soldiers to the battlefields of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood. They are packed with paintings of the old masters, with sculpture and with historic documents. They are packed with elegant gowns made by the French designers of fashion, with fancy work and lace and embroidery, with hand-painted china and porcelain, and with thousands of dolls from the children of France to the children of the USA.

"More than 50,000 different objects—the gifts of a million Frenchmen, ranging from the President of the French Republic down to the poor little girl whose doll didn't have any hair, so she cut off some of her own to make her gift presentable for the gratitude train. The train is due in Le Havre this evening where the cars—for the cars as well as the contents are a gift—will be loaded on the SS Magellan for New York."

Labor Friend Gets Irked

Now that the Democrats are running things on Capitol Hill, organized labor should be careful not to antagonize the public the way the National Association of Manufacturers did in the 80th Congress.

The American people are quick to resent strong-arm tactics by any group, and one pro-labor Senator, Utah's deep-thinking Elbert Thomas, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, is already resentful.

What burned Thomas up was an attempt by his labor friends to dictate membership on his committee. When labor lobbyists went so far as to tell Thomas whom to hire and fire on his staff, Thomas, usually a gentle Utahn, got his dander up.

Thomas wanted to keep Senator Irving Ives, New York Republican on his committee to give the new labor program a bipartisan approach. It was Ives, when the Taft-Hartley bill first came up, who helped Thomas override it inside the committee, and forced Taft to carry the fight to the Senate floor. In the end, Ives voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, so labor last week objected to keeping him on the Labor Committee. Other Democrats sided with labor and Thomas was overruled. Ive retired.

However, Thomas put his foot down when labor friends tried to stack his committee staff. No Senator has been a better friend to labor than the Senator from Utah, so he decided he could be trusted to employ a fair staff.

Taft Eyed Foreign Affairs

Significantly, the Republican who protested loudest backstage over the Democrats increasing their majority on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was Senator Taft.

It was commonly supposed that Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse would get the Republican vacancy on the Foreign Relations Committee if the Democrats hadn't taken that extra seat for themselves. But privately Senator Taft had his eye on it, too.

When he got the news that the Democrats had decided to absorb the vacancy by increasing their own majority eight to five, Taft stormed over to Democratic National Chairman Howard McGrath.

"The boys don't like this," exploded the forthright Senator from Ohio.

The Senator from Rhode Island simply shrugged.

New Mexican Senator

The man President Truman is counting upon to put over his farm program in the Senate sits at the tail of the Agriculture Committee, not at the head. He is former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson, now a Senator from New Mexico, who is low-man-on-the-totem-pole under the Senate's seniority system.

But the President has far more confidence in his former Cabinet officer than in the Agriculture Committee's speculating chairman, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma.

Yet the amazing fact is, Anderson almost didn't get on the Agriculture Committee—in spite of the fact he was once Secretary of Agriculture. Under the seniority system, Iowa's incoming Senator Guy Gillette was entitled to a place ahead of Anderson because he had served on the Agriculture Committee during his previous term in the Senate. The only other two vacancies were claimed by Senators with higher seniority — South Carolina's Olin Johnston and Mississippi's James Eastland.

The Democratic Steering Committee, however, ruled that Eastland, who had been an out-and-out Dixiecrat, would have to forfeit his seniority in this case. Johnston also had opposed President Truman in the primaries but had ended up on the Truman bandwagon. Johnston also comes up for election in 1950, and his opponent is certain to be the chief Dixiecrat of them all—J. Strom Thurmond. So the committee gave out the three agriculture seats to Johnston, Gillette and Anderson.

From his position at the bottom of the committee, Anderson is expected to counterbalance the weight of the Southerners on the committee and to battle for the Administration's program. The New Mexico Senator is particularly interested in strengthening farm co-ops.

Anderson is not bringing any former employes from the Agriculture Department, however, to assist him in the Senate—except his personal secretary, Mrs. Luna Diamond, who has been with him since his early days in the House of Representatives.

Truman Inconsistency In His Messages Of Reassuring Intent

By MARK SULLIVAN

To Congress and the country last week came two outgivings from President Truman, the "State of the Union" message and the "Economic Report." There will be a third this week, the budget message. All three bear on whether there will be, during the Truman Administration, more inflation or less, higher or lower prices and cost of living. In words, the President's outgivings are against inflation. The words and presumed good intentions, however, must be read in the light of attendant circumstances, and especially in the light of inconsistencies in the messages themselves. Some of these are in the State of the Union message.

The most direct utterance about inflation is in these words: "It is essential not only that the Federal budget be balanced but also that there be a substantial surplus to reduce inflationary pressures and permit a sizable reduction in the national debt."

Declaration of Intention

As a declaration of intention against inflation, and a concrete program to prevent it, nothing could be stronger or more fundamentally assuring. If that sentence should be translated into action, if there should be a "sizable reduction in the national debt," the country could feel assurance that there would be no more inflation.

The declaration of intention is borne out, inferentially, by another sentence in the State of the Union message: "I recommend therefore that the Congress enact new tax legislation to bring in an additional four billion dollars of government revenue."

This again is assuring, potentially and when read in the light of the proposal to reduce the national debt. It is true that increase of taxes causes in many cases increase of price, an example familiar to everybody is the gasoline tax. This is commonly true even when the tax is indirect, as in Mr. Truman's recommendation, that the new tax "should come principally from additional corporation taxes." An important factor needing to be taken into account is the use made of the additional taxes. Important also is the condition of the time. In the present condition, if that four billion dollars of additional revenue which Mr. Truman proposes is used for "reduction in the national debt," it would assure solvency and sound fiscal practice on the part of the government. The effect of such an assurance, both psychologically and substantially, would be an immense buttress against inflation.

But there are inconsistencies. So far as the present writer gathered from listening closely to the message by radio, the impression was the same as that of one who read it with minute care and who said, "There is not one word in the message that proposes that any government expenditure be reduced by one penny." Assuming that impression to be correct, any proposal to balance the budget and reduce the national debt which includes no proposal to reduce government expenditures, to practice economy, falls short of being confidently convincing.

Not only that. Inconsistency is suggested in that part of the State of the Union message in which Mr. Truman conveyed assurance that he would carry out campaign promises. Most of these will cost money, additional money. One, minor as respects the amount of money involved, but large among Mr. Truman's campaign promises, because it was the one that had most to do with his victory, was in these words —Mr. Truman seemed to speak them with a manner of exulting: "The authority of the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide adequate storage space for crope should be restored."

Building more storage bins for farmers need not cost a great deal. But the spirit of the assurance to farmers, that price support of crops will be carried out fully, is likely to cost an immense amount; because of the huge crops last year, the government will need to take over amounts that may run into billlions of dollars. Other campaign promises that will entail expenditures, some of them new and some additional, include programs for housing, health, education, rural electrification, social security. Add the new or additional expenditures to the ones imposed by circumstances, such as those for national defense and aid to European countries, and the prospective total, by the end of this Congress, does not suggest reduction of government outlay.

Blunder In Tax Policy Now Can Stunt U.S. Economic Growth

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Few things attest more pointedly the change that has occurred in the governmental scene in the last 40 years than the new emphasis which is placed on economics at the beginning of a new Congress and a new administration.

For no longer does a President of the United States, as in the old days, present only a message with a variety of political proposals. This custom has, of course, not been interrupted but, in addition, a comprehensive economic survey is submitted to Congress by the President.

This survey is a curious document. It is in two parts—a commentary in which the President's own political viewpoint is interjected so as to harmonize with his legislative recommendations, and a review written by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, presumably nonpolitical.

This latter document, because it contains among its cautious and often technical phrases some of the principal facts of our economic life, is perhaps the more important. For here there is less of a conscious purpose to cloak the truth in phrases that fit campaign slogans or party policy.

The economic analysis is 40,000 words long, but it is derived from information gathered by all the governmental agencies having economists and statisticians. In a sense, it can be offered as a reliable report of what has been happening with some thoughtful observations as to what may happen.

Dispels Notion of Labor Group

There are many things in this report which refute the claims of the CIO economists who insist that all management has to do is increase wages and take it out of profits and all will be well. Thus, for instance, the President's report dispels the notion that generalizations can be made from a mere adding up of industrial profits.

In the part of the report which is signed by the President appears this significant paragraph:

"As I pointed out a year ago, such profits are in excess of the levels needed to furnish incentives and equity funds for industrial expansion and to promote sustained economic health, although some businesses have not thrived nearly so well as others."

No mention is made of the businesses which sustained losses or made slight profits. Yet wage rates are expected to apply uniformly through an industry. Nor is there any concession that profits were wisely and prudently used to prevent a post-war depression such as happened three years after the end of World War I.

But the economic report by the President's advisers tackles this ticklish subject very frankly. It says:

"The small amount of common stock issued in recent years, compared with the late 1920's, has given rise to concern in some quarters that there is a serious general shortage of equity capital. While it is true that outside equity capital is difficult to obtain on terms as favorable as those available for loan capital, it does not appear that, so long as profits remain large, there will be any general lack of sufficient total equity capital for desirable levels of business investment."

There's the conspicuous contradiction. The President wants to siphon off the profits so as to have more money for so-called welfare projects and for an increased federal expense while business wants to use profits to replace old equipment or build modern plants. According to the economic advisers 65 per cent of the money spent for plant facilities came "from internal sources, chiefly undistributed profits and depreciation allowances." This meant a lower dividend rate than in the 1920's.

Didn't Go To Stockholders

So it didn't go to the stockholders in dividends to be used for yachts and luxuries, etc., nor did it go to corporation management in the form of higher salaries. It went for productive purposes—into plant expansion—and created more jobs and it was paid out to a large extent in labor payrolls.

The economic report of the advisers goes on to say:

"Whether the financial needs of business can be satisfied in the future depends importantly on the level of profits. These are the immediate source from which the bulk of financial needs is met, and are also an important factor in the availability of outside capital, both loan and equity. Abundant profits during the past two years have stimulated and permitted business investment so large in proportion to total national income that it is probable that investment of a lower proportion in the future will meet our long-term peacetime needs. The general level of profits should continue to be ample so long as we are successful in maintaining high production and employment.

"It should not be assumed, however, that financial resources will be adequate for all types of business or that a higher share of equity investment would not be desirable. Difficulties arise, particularly, for small and new business enterprises which often find it difficult to obtain long-term bank loans and practically impossible to secure outside equity capital.

"It is undoubtedly true that certain features of our tax system bear particularly on equity financing. When a reduction in taxes becomes possible, the tax system should be revised to strike the best balance between the objectives of maintaining adequate consumer markets and of providing capital of the needed character in adequate amounts."

This is, of course, a veiled warning against an excess-profits tax and a confirmation of the view expressed by business men that but for the existence of the high profits since the war there would not have been high-level employment in many industries.

This is but another way of saying that a blunder in tax policy now can curtail employment in the heavy-goods industries, stunt America's economic growth, and bring on an economic recession.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The China Story

CHIANG KAI-SHEK may be forced to make a last stand at Canton or even in Formosa, but the latest news I hear from China is that he will not surrender to Soviet Russia. He fought Japan from 1931 to 1945 and he will fight Soviet Russia.

Nor has Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's mission to this country altogether failed. For ten years, a vicious propaganda, much of it emanating from the State Department, has been violently anti-Chiang. They built a picture of incompetence and corruption, of which there has undoubtedly been plenty in China as in other countries, including the United States. Furthermore, our ambassador to China, the aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, pursuing the "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell line, has been supporting an anti-Chiang coalition movement in spite of our "cold war" with Soviet Russia.

Much of the news that comes to this country from any foreign country emanates from our embassies and Dr. Stuart is not a most reliable source because for more than three decades he has been so immersed in Chinese affairs that he is not wholly objective.

Well, Madame Chiang's quiet visit seems to have arrested the violence of the anti-Chiang propaganda. Maybe her visit, coinciding with the Hiss case, has somehow quieted the State Department, which does not wish to attract too much and unnecessary attention to its amazing errors of judgment in far eastern affairs.

A study, even by a friendly congressional committee, of our record in the Far East since 1933 would be shocking. I notice that no one has yet apologized to our onetime ambassador to China, Patrick Hurley, who was right and told the truth and hurled it in the teeth of those who favored Soviet Russia while drawing a pay-check from the American taxpayer. With Madame Chiang in this country, this infamous chorus has quieted down.

China suffers most in this country from mixed representation. At a most tragic moment in her long history, when Manchuria and North China have been conquered by a foreign foe, Soviet Russia, some Chinese politicians are angling for American favor on the coalitionist theory. Their argument runs thus: "Chiang cannot stand. He must fail because Soviet Russia objects to him. Therefore, take me and I can make a deal with Soviet Russia through the Chinese Communists."

Although common sense and any knowledge of the situation would make such men suspect as traders between Russia and the United States, there are American officials who are so anxious to get China out of their hair that they would be willing to make an unseemingly compromise now in the hope that events will work themselves out. The stupidity of it is that any coalition government in China is bound to be a Communist government, and that what happened in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary will happen in China.

There are also those, who, for some reason or other, insist that Mao Tze-Tung, the Communist leader, is likely to be a Tito. In the first place, what is a Tito? At best he is a schismatic Communist who, not having changed his attitude, quarreled with his hierarchy. He might any day return to the rule of the Kremlin. Secondly, Mao Tze-Tung's history is a long one of faithful service to the Third International. All of his associates are Old Stalinists. By old, I mean since about the 1920's. The Trotzkyists in the Chinese Communist Party are mostly dead, although a few operate more or less secretly.

There is no reason to believe that Mao Tze-Tung will not follow the Kremlin pattern, with such modifications as are necessary in China.

For instance, at present, the Chinese Communists speak of religious liberty, which to some extent they follow. I remember from personal observation that they did not practice religious freedom from 1925 to 1917 when they possessed real power in certain areas. It is the Communist pattern to advocate religious freedom at the stage before conquering power: Then they take power and place a few restrictions on religion but not onerously. Finally, when they are sure of themselves, they lock up the religious, seize church property, confiscate schools and hospitals. This pattern is now 31 years old — and no one ought to plead ignorance about it.

False Step Is Taken By Senate Democrats

Because the Eightieth (Republican) Congress followed in foreign affairs what Senator Vandenberg called "the spirit of bi-partisan co-operation" it divided the membership in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee as equally as possible—seven Republicans to six Democrats. The Eighty-first (Democratic) Congress, makes a bad start by reconstituting the committee with eight Democrats and five Republicans.

Two reasons are given: (1) The Democrats have a longer lead in the Senate than the Republicans had. (2) There are some Democrats eager to sit on the committee. Those, as will be noted, are purely political considerations, and as such violate the principle of bi-partisan co-operation. Senator Vandenberg calls it "the first partisan action which has occurred in the last two years" in that sphere. Senator Wayne Morse declares: "The implications are that the Democratic Party proposes to play politics with war and peace." Senator Barkley's apologetic statement, "It is just as easy for eight members to be non-partisan as it is for seven," reduces itself to an absurdity; the same plea that might be made for a solidly Democratic committee.

President Truman, you will remember, had a great deal to say about "co-operation" with the preceding (Republican) Congress. But he fell out with it almost at once, fell out also with most of its Democratic membership, and then went on the stump denouncing it as "good for nothing, do nothing." The same mood of partisanship dictated the change in the Senate committee. If the bi-partisan foreign policy, which is so important to all democratic security, is preserved, it will be thanks to its Republican author, Senator Vandenberg.

Economists Strive To Determine Outlook For '49

This is the time when economists, prognosticators and plain guessers take advantage of the calendar to peek around the corner and reveal what's going to happen this year. The economists are in better position than, say, the sportscaster who tries to pick the winner of the National League pennant.

Those who predict business cycles have less to do with the purely human element (such as an unknown pinch hitter whose triple may sew up the series) and their predictions, barring an international upheaval, should be fairly accurate.

But the Wall Street Journal, in its annual outlook, comments that economists venturing into statistical measurement of business activity ahead are allowing themselves wider leeway than usual. Presumably they want more elbow room to reconcile such uncertainties as a sudden bulge in military expenditures, or a rise in ECA gifts, or a sudden drop in employment, or other variables that greatly complicate the nation's economy.

Like Roger W. Babson, statistician for this newspaper, they predict the boom is passing and that inflationary tendencies have lost much of their initial force. What this portends in the form of relief in high living costs is not quite clear, but presumably drops in prices are in the wind. Mr. Babson, for instance, opines that the retail price of some goods, other than food products, may be higher during 1949, but that the Cost-of-Living Index has turned downward. In a nutshell, Mr. Babson is of the opinion that general business, national income, farm income, bituminous coal, building and construction, lumber and retail trade will be off from 5 to 20 per cent, while steel output, automobiles, foreign trade, etc., will be up from 3 to 10 per cent.

After peering into this complicated picture with its low overcast of business indices, it was encouraging to read that the new Sears, Roebuck catalogue shows an average price decline of 1.7 per cent. On the face of it, that's not much of a drop. It means that what cost one dollar formerly can now be had for 98 and a fraction cents. But it is a reduction, for a change, and it has been announced by a company that sells almost all types of consumer goods except food and automobiles.

If a hard-headed and canny outfit like S-R scales the price of its wares, with none of this "allowance for leeway", then it looks as if this is the way things are going to be.

The Basic Civil Right Of Workers Is Upheld

Out of sixteen American states, acting independently, has come in recent years a common move in behalf of the most important Civil Right, which is the right to work. The move has taken on a national character since the United States Supreme Court unanimously upheld the anti-closed shop statutes of three of the states—Arizona, Nebraska and North Carolina—these being the immediate cases before it.

The States forbade any employer, operating entirely within their limits, to make any contract with a union which discriminated against workers who did not belong to it; if he was engaged in interstate commerce, the ban did not apply.

There was a precedent before the court which really made its present ruling inevitable. In 1934 it had upheld Federal and State laws which forbade employers to discriminate against union members. Now it goes on to uphold State laws which forbid employers to discriminate against non-union members—in other words, the closed shop. Since the Taft-Harley Act bans this—while not going so far as the State laws—the inference is clear that when its provision, applying to employers in interstate commerce, come before the court, it will also be upheld.

As Justice Black put it, when a State legislature declares closed-shop contracts are "offensive to the public interest," it violates no right which the Constitution guarantees. It does protect the right to work, which is above all other except the right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"—which, indeed, mean practically nothing without it.

Significantly, this move comes from sixteen state capitals and not from Washington, which in the New Deal Administration has moved in the opposite direction. It was unexpected, but is vastly heartening, that out of Washington comes a validating decision. There will be continent-wide reverberations.

The European Recovery Administration is scraping the bottom of the money barrel. Calling all taxpayers, calling all taxpayers.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

(Copyright: 1949: By The Chicago Tribune)

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Development Of Peritonitis

In bygone years, when the physician told the family of a patient that peritonitis had set in, they knew that the end was not far away. The very thought of this complication was enough to strike terror into the hearts of all concerned but the situation has changed and nowadays, the medico is better prepared to tackle the problem. This is proved by the fact that the mortality rate from this disorder has declined steadily.

Dr. Van Dellen

Peritonitis means inflammation of the inner lining (peritoneum) of the abdominal cavity. Since there is no natural opening into this space, if bacterial invasion occurs, it is usually the result of disease of an internal organ such as the appendix, pelvic structures, or the pancreas, or of emergencies like ruptured peptic ulcer. The same can be said of obstruction in the intestinal tract and penetration of the obdominal wall by a bullet or knife. Germs also may enter when the cavity is opened during surgery especially if sterile conditions do not exist. There is another possibility if a portion of the stomach has been removed, and the remaining part sutured together, the stitches might not hold and digestive juices will leak out to irritate the membrane.

It is obvious that whenever peritonitis occurs, early symptoms vary depending upon the origin. If an ulcer ruptures, pain is likely to be located high in the abdomen; should the apendix burst, the site of discomfort is low on the right side. As inflammation spreads, distress becomes more generalized and since it is aggravated by moving, the victim is likely to lie quietly in bed with the legs drawn up to lessen strain on the abdominal muscles. In the same manner, the rapid breathing is shallow which limits the excursion of the diaphragm, leading to vomiting; the intestine leading ot vomiting; the intestine is paralyzed, causing the bowel to fill with gas which generally distends the abdomen.

The pulse quickens, the temperature rises, and the patient appears toxic. The latter manifestation is characteristic of peritonitis and was recognized centuries ago by Hippocrates. He portrayed the expression of the patient so vividly that it is still quoted in textbooks: "A sharp nose, hollow eyes, collapsed temples; the ears cold, contracted, and their lobes turned out; the skin about the forehead being rough, distended, and perched; the color of the whole face being brown, black, livid, or lead colored."

Peritonitis is still a serious complication and the medical profession has done many things to keep it under control. Through education, the majority of sufferers no longer wait until the appendix ruptures before seeking care. In addition, the surgeon has made numerous improvements in his technic; by insisting upon strict asepsis, contamination at the time of surgery is minimized. After certain operations, especially when the stomach or intestine has been opened, a long tube is inserted through the mouth to keep the passageway empty and deflated. This prevents the gastric pouch and bowel from distending, thus breaking the sutures and allowing the contents to seep out and produce peritonitis.

The physical status of the patient is taken into consideration and by administering proteins and vitamins, healing and encouraged and resistance to invading bacteria increased. The most dramatic advance in treatment came with the discovery of the wonder drugs; the sulfonamides and penicillin have proved a boon and every day we see examples of patients surviving peritonitis through their use.

BROKEN LEG VEINS

Mrs. B. writes: On two occasions during the past few months my right leg became itchy, the veins stood out, and ruptured within a short time. Then my leg in that area became black and blue. Can you advise?

Reply

The spontaneous rupture of a leg vein is not uncommon but the cause is often obscure. This bleeding tendency may occur if the wall of the blood vessel is fragile or the circulation within is so sluggish that the passageway overdistends and breaks. A condition like this requires careful study in an attempt to determine the cause.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just put the piano over there.

Yes sir, we're all home decorators, according to Louise T. Bolender, expert and author on the subject. She was amazed at all the home furnishing talent she found on her visit to California.

When I was a kid, my mother thought I'd make a great interior decorator. She used to say it wasn't just anybody who could turn a beautiful living room into a pig pen in five minutes.

Of course, being a comedian gives you practice in color design. When you're standing in front of the microphone, you have to be very careful where they splatter.

When I designed my home, I had a little trouble putting my couch in the right spot. It wasn't the design that bothered me. I just couldn't get my relatives to get up so we could move it.

Naturally every person thinks he knows best how to decorate a home. But for my money the best interior decorator in the world is still Dr. Gillespie.

French Thank-You Train Pulls Out Of Paris; Labor Will Lose Friends By Strong-Arm Tactics Now Being Used On Congress

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — The French Merci Train, in thanks for the Friendship Train, is now being loaded at the port of La Havre onto the SS Magellan en route to the United States. Here is the description of the train's departure from Paris as given by Leon Pearson over NBC:

"A freight train of 49 cars loaded with the hearts of a million Frenchmen pulled out of Paris this morning bound for Le Havre and New York. Before its journey is ended that train will have reached every state in the U. S. and its spirit will have touched the entire country—49 cars, one for each state plus the District of Columbia.

"I walked the whole length of that train this morning before the ceremonies and the speechmaking began and marveled at the way the French railway workers who are principally responsible for this gratitude train have repainted and decorated those old boxcars that every American doughboy knew so well.

"The railroad cars are packed even tighter than when they carried eight horses or forty soldiers to the battlefields of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood. They are packed with paintings of the old masters, with sculpture and with historic documents. They are packed with elegant gowns made by the French designers of fashion, with fancy work and lace and embroidery, with hand-painted china and porcelain, and with thousands of dolls from the children of France to the children of the USA.

"More than 50,000 different objects—the gifts of a million Frenchmen, ranging from the President of the French Republic down to the poor little girl whose doll didn't have any hair, so she cut off some of her own to make her gift presentable for the gratitude train. The train is due in Le Havre this evening where the cars—for the cars as well as the contents are a gift—will be loaded on the SS Magellan for New York."

Labor Friend Gets Irked

Now that the Democrats are running things on Capitol Hill, organized labor should be careful not to antagonize the public the way the National Association of Manufacturers did in the 80th Congress.

The American people are quick to resent strong-arm tactics by any group, and one pro-labor Senator, Utah's deep-thinking Elbert Thomas, Chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, is already resentful.

What burned Thomas up was an attempt by his labor friends to dictate membership on his committee. When labor lobbyists went so far as to tell Thomas whom to hire and fire on his staff, Thomas, usually a gentle Utahn, got his dander up.

Thomas wanted to keep Senator Irving Ives, New York Republican on his committee to give the new labor program a bipartisan approach. It was Ives, when the Taft-Hartley bill first came up, who helped Thomas override it inside the committee, and forced Taft to carry the fight to the Senate floor. In the end, Ives voted for the Taft-Hartley Act, so labor last week objected to keeping him on the Labor Committee. Other Democrats sided with labor and Thomas was overruled. Ive retired.

However, Thomas put his foot down when labor friends tried to stack his committee staff. No Senator has been a better friend to labor than the Senator from Utah, so he decided he could be trusted to employ a fair staff.

Taft Eyed Foreign Affairs

Significantly, the Republican who protested loudest backstage over the Democrats increasing their majority on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was Senator Taft.

It was commonly supposed that Oregon's Senator Wayne Morse would get the Republican vacancy on the Foreign Relations Committee if the Democrats hadn't taken that extra seat for themselves. But privately Senator Taft had his eye on it, too.

When he got the news that the Democrats had decided to absorb the vacancy by increasing their own majority eight to five, Taft stormed over to Democratic National Chairman Howard McGrath.

"The boys don't like this," exploded the forthright Senator from Ohio.

The Senator from Rhode Island simply shrugged.

New Mexican Senator

The man President Truman is counting upon to put over his farm program in the Senate sits at the tail of the Agriculture Committee, not at the head. He is former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson, now a Senator from New Mexico, who is low-man-on-the-totem-pole under the Senate's seniority system.

But the President has far more confidence in his former Cabinet officer than in the Agriculture Committee's speculating chairman, Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma.

Yet the amazing fact is, Anderson almost didn't get on the Agriculture Committee—in spite of the fact he was once Secretary of Agriculture. Under the seniority system, Iowa's incoming Senator Guy Gillette was entitled to a place ahead of Anderson because he had served on the Agriculture Committee during his previous term in the Senate. The only other two vacancies were claimed by Senators with higher seniority — South Carolina's Olin Johnston and Mississippi's James Eastland.

The Democratic Steering Committee, however, ruled that Eastland, who had been an out-and-out Dixiecrat, would have to forfeit his seniority in this case. Johnston also had opposed President Truman in the primaries but had ended up on the Truman bandwagon. Johnston also comes up for election in 1950, and his opponent is certain to be the chief Dixiecrat of them all—J. Strom Thurmond. So the committee gave out the three agriculture seats to Johnston, Gillette and Anderson.

From his position at the bottom of the committee, Anderson is expected to counterbalance the weight of the Southerners on the committee and to battle for the Administration's program. The New Mexico Senator is particularly interested in strengthening farm co-ops.

Anderson is not bringing any former employes from the Agriculture Department, however, to assist him in the Senate—except his personal secretary, Mrs. Luna Diamond, who has been with him since his early days in the House of Representatives.

Truman Inconsistency In His Messages Of Reassuring Intent

By MARK SULLIVAN

To Congress and the country last week came two outgivings from President Truman, the "State of the Union" message and the "Economic Report." There will be a third this week, the budget message. All three bear on whether there will be, during the Truman Administration, more inflation or less, higher or lower prices and cost of living. In words, the President's outgivings are against inflation. The words and presumed good intentions, however, must be read in the light of attendant circumstances, and especially in the light of inconsistencies in the messages themselves. Some of these are in the State of the Union message.

The most direct utterance about inflation is in these words: "It is essential not only that the Federal budget be balanced but also that there be a substantial surplus to reduce inflationary pressures and permit a sizable reduction in the national debt."

Declaration of Intention

As a declaration of intention against inflation, and a concrete program to prevent it, nothing could be stronger or more fundamentally assuring. If that sentence should be translated into action, if there should be a "sizable reduction in the national debt," the country could feel assurance that there would be no more inflation.

The declaration of intention is borne out, inferentially, by another sentence in the State of the Union message: "I recommend therefore that the Congress enact new tax legislation to bring in an additional four billion dollars of government revenue."

This again is assuring, potentially and when read in the light of the proposal to reduce the national debt. It is true that increase of taxes causes in many cases increase of price, an example familiar to everybody is the gasoline tax. This is commonly true even when the tax is indirect, as in Mr. Truman's recommendation, that the new tax "should come principally from additional corporation taxes." An important factor needing to be taken into account is the use made of the additional taxes. Important also is the condition of the time. In the present condition, if that four billion dollars of additional revenue which Mr. Truman proposes is used for "reduction in the national debt," it would assure solvency and sound fiscal practice on the part of the government. The effect of such an assurance, both psychologically and substantially, would be an immense buttress against inflation.

But there are inconsistencies. So far as the present writer gathered from listening closely to the message by radio, the impression was the same as that of one who read it with minute care and who said, "There is not one word in the message that proposes that any government expenditure be reduced by one penny." Assuming that impression to be correct, any proposal to balance the budget and reduce the national debt which includes no proposal to reduce government expenditures, to practice economy, falls short of being confidently convincing.

Not only that. Inconsistency is suggested in that part of the State of the Union message in which Mr. Truman conveyed assurance that he would carry out campaign promises. Most of these will cost money, additional money. One, minor as respects the amount of money involved, but large among Mr. Truman's campaign promises, because it was the one that had most to do with his victory, was in these words —Mr. Truman seemed to speak them with a manner of exulting: "The authority of the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide adequate storage space for crope should be restored."

Building more storage bins for farmers need not cost a great deal. But the spirit of the assurance to farmers, that price support of crops will be carried out fully, is likely to cost an immense amount; because of the huge crops last year, the government will need to take over amounts that may run into billlions of dollars. Other campaign promises that will entail expenditures, some of them new and some additional, include programs for housing, health, education, rural electrification, social security. Add the new or additional expenditures to the ones imposed by circumstances, such as those for national defense and aid to European countries, and the prospective total, by the end of this Congress, does not suggest reduction of government outlay.

Blunder In Tax Policy Now Can Stunt U. S. Economic Growth

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Few things attest more pointedly the change that has occurred in the governmental scene in the last 40 years than the new emphasis which is placed on economics at the beginning of a new Congress and a new administration.

For no longer does a President of the United States, as in the old days, present only a message with a variety of political proposals. This custom has, of course, not been interrupted but, in addition, a comprehensive economic survey is submitted to Congress by the President.

This survey is a curious document. It is in two parts—a commentary in which the President's own political viewpoint is interjected so as to harmonize with his legislative recommendations, and a review written by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, presumably nonpolitical.

This latter document, because it contains among its cautious and often technical phrases some of the principal facts of our economic life, is perhaps the more important. For here there is less of a conscious purpose to cloak the truth in phrases that fit campaign slogans or party policy.

The economic analysis is 40,000 words long, but it is derived from information gathered by all the governmental agencies having economists and statisticians. In a sense, it can be offered as a reliable report of what has been happening with some thoughtful observations as to what may happen.

Dispels Notion of Labor Group

There are many things in this report which refute the claims of the CIO economists who insist that all management has to do is increase wages and take it out of profits and all will be well. Thus, for instance, the President's report dispels the notion that genera lizations can be made from a mere adding up of industrial profits.

In the part of the report which is signed by the President appears this significant paragraph:

"As I pointed out a year ago, such profits are in excess of the levels needed to furnish incentives and equity funds for industrial expansion and to promote sustained economic health, although some businesses have not thrived nearly so well as others."

No mention is made of the businesses which sustained losses or made slight profits. Yet wage rates are expected to apply uniformly through an industry. Nor is there any concession that profits were wisely and prudently used to prevent a post-war depression such as happened three years after the end of World War I.

But the economic report by the President's advisers tackles this ticklish subject very frankly. It says:

"The small amount of common stock issued in recent years, compared with the late 1920's, has given rise to concern in some quarters that there is a serious general shortage of equity capital. While it is true that outside equity capital is difficult to obtain on terms as favorable as those available fo loan capital, it does not appea that, so long as profits remai large, there will be any general lac of sufficient total equity capital fo desirable levels of business invest ment."

There's the conspicuous contra diction. The President wan t siphon off the profits so as to v more money for so-called welfar projects and for an increased fed eral expense while business want to use profits to replace old equip ment or build modern plants. Ac cording to the economic adviser 65 per cent of the money spent fo plant facilities came "from interna sources, chiefly undistributed profit and depreciation allowances." Thi meant a lower dividend rate tha in the 1920's.

Didn't Go To Stockholders

So it didn't go to the stockholder in dividends to be used for yacht and luxuries, etc., nor did it go t corporation management in th form of higher salaries. It went fo productive purposes—into plant ex pansion—and created more job and it was paid out to a larg extent in labor payrolls.

The economic report of the ad visers goes on to say:

"Whether the financial needs o business can be satisfied in th future depends importantly on th level of profits. These are the im mediate source from which the bul of financial needs is met, and ar also an important factor in th availability of outside capital, bot loan and equity. Abundant profit during the past two years hav stimulated and permitted busines investment so large in proportio to total national income that it probable that investment of a lowe proportion in the future will mee our long-term peacetime needs. Th general level of profits should con tinue to be ample so long as we ar successful in maintaining high pro duction and employment.

"It should not be assumed, how ever, that financial resources will b adequate for all types of busines or that a higher share of equit investment would not be desirabl Difficulties arise, particularly, fo small and new business enterprise which often find it difficult t obtain long-term bank loans an practically impossible to secure out side equity capital.

"It is undoubtedly true that cer tain features of our tax system bea particularly on equity financin When a reduction in taxes become possible, the tax system should b revised to strike the best balanc between the objectives of maintain ing adequate consumer markets an of providing capital of the needed character in adequate amounts."

This is, of course, a veiled warn ing against an excess-profits ta and a confirmation of the view expressed by business men that bu for the existence of the high profit since the war there would not hav been high-level employment i many industries.

This is but another way of sayin that a blunder in tax policy no can curtail employment i th heavy-goods industries, stunt Amer ica's economic growth, and brin on an economic recession.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The China Story

CHIANG KAI-SHEK may be forced to make a last stand at Canton or even in Formosa, but the latest news I hear from China is that he will not surrender to Soviet Russia. He fought Japan from 1931 to 1945 and he will fight Soviet Russia.

Nor has Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's mission to this country altogether failed. For ten years, a vicious propaganda, much of it emanating from the State Department, has been violently anti-Chiang. They built a picture of incompetence and corruption, of which there has undoubtedly been plenty in China as in other countries, including the United States. Furthermore, our ambassador to China, the aged missionary, Dr. Leighton Stuart, pursuing the "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell line, has been supporting an anti-Chiang coalition movement in spite of our "cold war" with Soviet Russia.

Much of the news that comes to this country from any foreign country emanates from our embassies and Dr. Stuart is not a most reliable source because for more than three decades he has been so immersed in Chinese affairs that he is not wholly objective.

Well, Madame Chiang's quiet visit seems to have arrested the violence of the anti-Chiang propaganda. Maybe her visit, coinciding with the Hiss case, has somehow quieted the State Department, which does not wish to attract too much and unnecessary attention to its amazing errors of judgment in far eastern affairs.

A study, even by a friendly congressional committee, of our record in the Far East since 1933 would be shocking. I notice that no one has yet apologized to our onetime ambassador to China, Patrick Hurley, who was right and told the truth and hurled it in the teeth of those who favored Soviet Russia while drawing a pay-check from the American taxpayer. With Madame Chiang in this country, this infamous chorus has quieted down.

China suffers most in this country from mixed representation. At a most tragic moment in her long history, when Manchuria and North China have been conquered by a foreign foe, Soviet Russia, some Chinese politicians are angling for American favor on the coalitionist theory. Their argument runs thus: "Chiang cannot stand. He must fail because Soviet Russia objects to him. Therefore, take me and I can make a deal with Soviet Russia through the Chinese Communists."

Although common sense and any knowledge of the situation would make such men suspect as traders between Russia and the United States, there are American officials who are so anxious to get China out of their hair that they would be willing to make an unseemingly compromise now in the hope that events will work themselves out. The stupidity of it is that any coalition government in China is bound to be a Communist government, and that what happened in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary will happen in China.

There are also those, who, for some reason or other, insist that Mao Tze-Tung, the Communist leader, is likely to be a Tito. In the first place, what is a Tito? At best he is a schismatic Communist who, not having changed his attitude, quarreled with his hierarchy. He might any day return to the rule of the Kremlin. Secondly, Mao Tze-Tung's history is a long one of faithful service to the Third International. All of his associates are Old Stalinists. By old, I mean since about the 1920's. The Trotzkyists in the Chinese Communist Party are mostly dead, although a few operate more or less secretly.

There is no reason to believe that Mao Tze-Tung will not follow the Kremlin pattern, with such modifications as are necessary in China.

For instance, at present, the Chinese Communists speak of religious liberty, which to some extent they follow. I remember from personal observation that they did not practice religious freedom from 1925 to 1917 when they possessed real power in certain areas. It is the Communist pattern to advocate religious freedom at the stage before conquering power: Then they take power and place a few restrictions on religion but not onerously. Finally, when they are sure of themselves, they lock up the religious, seize church property, confiscate schools and hospitals. This pattern is now 31 years old — and no one ought to plead ignorance about it.

Anti-Filibuster Move Supported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The administration moved today to tighten up rules by which Senate filibusters can be shut off, presumably as a prelude to seeking passage of civil rights legislation.

Republican leaders promptly promised their support.

Sen. Barkley, of Kentucky, serving as Democratic floor leader until he is sworn in as Vice-President January 20, announced he has urged the Rules Committee to approve as soon as possible an anti-filibuster proposal.

Any such measure coming to the floor would touch off a bitter and prolonged fight.

Southerners in the past have always used their privilege of nonstop debate to defeat civil rights bills.

Barkley told his colleagues he is opposed to the filibuster as a tactic and wants a prompt change in the Senate rules.

He said he has talked with Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz), of the Rules Committee, "on bringing out a bill on changing the rules as soon as possible."

A number of southern Democrats made immediate plans to combat any such proposal.

The Republican Policy Committee discussed the question at a closed meeting following Barkley's announcement. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters the group agreed to urge speedy action on the proposal to limit debate at any time by two-thirds vote.

Cut In Truman

in holding the budget to a figure "only $1,678,000,000 over 1949 with the many increased demands on it." He praised Mr. Truman for budgeting funds for public aid to education, health, expanded social security and "a real housing program."

The President outlined the government's financial prospects to a Congress which had gasped at advance reports the budget would hit a new peacetime peak. And it did just that.

It is $873,000,000 bigger than the government's prospective income of $40,985,000,000 in the year ahead. It figures out to $282.82 apiece for every American.

Yet it doesn't even take into account plans for providing military supplies for Western Europe and "certain other" unnamed countries. Mr. Truman said he would ask for money for that "later."

He said, too that:

"It must be recognized that expenditures in the fiscal year 1951 are likely to be larger than those for 1950. Expenditures for national defense can be expected to rise substantially above the level estimated for 1950.

"We cannot expect any material decline in our international responsibilities.

"x x xEven higher expenditures will probably be required in future years.".

Payroll Tax Boost Suggested

So for the third time in a week he hammered hard for $4,000,000,000 more a year in taxes. He said last Wednesday most of it should come from corporations and people in the middle and higher income brackets.

He suggested an additional $2,000,000,000 in payroll taxes, on business and individuals, to finance his program of new or bigger social security benefits.

For one thing, he said, he wants the present one per cent rate on workers and their employers boosted to 1½ per cent each next July 1. That is six months ahead of the scheduled Congress set.

By that same date he wants "nearly" all the 25,000,000 gainfully employed persons not now covered" brought into the old age insurance system. They would pay taxes, too.

He wants insurance for people temporarily or permanently disabled, apparently with those covered chipping in on the cost.

And he wants a higher ceiling on the income taxed for social security. Now only the first $3,000 of a person's income is taxed. There has been talk of hoisting the limit to $4,500.

All these changes, Mr. Truman estimated, would bring $1,700,000,000 into the federal till.

In addition, he is counting on raising an additional $260,000,000 for a new health insurance program with a payroll tax of one-fourth of one per cent each on companies and workers. But only $15,000,000 of that would be spent the first year.

Corbett, Praises Farmers' Co-ops

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—Dr. Roger B. Corbett, director of the State Agricultural Extension service, said today that "agricultural co-operatives are part of free enterprise."

Corbett addressed the annual meeting of the Maryland Tobacco Growers Association, one of several affiliated groups convening here this week in connection with the annual session of the State Farm Bureau.

New school buildings and bigger and better state teachers' colleges were urged by the Maryland Council of Four-H Clubs. The group also recommended sex education and family relationships as public school subjects.

A special state committee to study soil and drainage problems, with special reference to highways, was urged by the State Soil Conservation Committee. Meeting in conjunction with the chairmen of Maryland's 23 conservation districts, the group asked the Governor to appoint a committee to "make a thorough study of Maryland's soil conservation and drainage problems." They also asked that the State Roads Commission show plans for new roads to the district conservation chairmen, who would examine them for erosion control provisions.

The conservation committee's method of distributing funds to various parts of the state also came in for some discussion. It was resolved that three supervisors—one each from Eastern, Southern, and Western Maryland—be appointed to suggest possible revisions.

PSC Asked To Toss Out Phone Company Petition

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—The city opened its fight against telephone rate boosts today by requesting the public service commission to toss out the temporary increase petition.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, the city argued, had made out no sufficient case why it should be granted temporary rate hikes totaling about $4,000,000 a year.

Further, a motion filed by City Solicitor Thomas N. Biddison challenged a company assertion it is earning less than 3½ per cent on its investment.

Nearly all Maryland telephone subscribers would be affected by the increase.

Anti-Filibuster Move Supported

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The administration moved today to tighten up rules by which Senate filibusters can be shut off, presumably as a prelude to seeking passage of civil rights legislation.

Republican leaders promptly promised their support.

Sen. Barkley, of Kentucky, serving as Democratic floor leader until he is sworn in as Vice-President January 20, announced he has urged the Rules Committee to approve as soon as possible an anti-filibuster proposal.

Any such measure coming to the floor would touch off a bitter and prolonged fight.

Southerners in the past have always used their privilege of nonstop debate to defeat civil rights bills.

Barkley told his colleagues he is opposed to the filibuster as a tactic and wants a prompt change in the Senate rules.

He said he has talked with Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz), of the Rules Committee, "on bringing out a bill on changing the rules as soon as possible."

A number of southern Democrats made immediate plans to combat any such proposal.

The Republican Policy Committee discussed the question at a closed meeting following Barkley's announcement. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters the group agreed to urge speedy action on the proposal to limit debate at any time by two-thirds vote.

Cut In Truman

in holding the budget to a figure "only $1,678,000,000 over 1949 with the many increased demands on it." He praised Mr. Truman for budgeting funds for public aid to education, health, expanded social security and "a real housing program."

The President outlined the government's financial prospects to a Congress which had gasped at advance reports the budget would hit a new peacetime peak. And it did just that.

It is $873,000,000 bigger than the government's prospective income of $40,985,000,000 in the year ahead. It figures out to $282.82 apiece for every American.

Yet it doesn't even take into account plans for providing military supplies for Western Europe and "certain other" unnamed countries. Mr. Truman said he would ask for money for that "later."

He said, too that:

"It must be recognized that expenditures in the fiscal year 1951 are likely to be larger than those for 1950. Expenditures for national defense can be expected to rise substantially above the level estimated for 1950.

"We cannot expect any material decline in our international responsibilities.

Payroll Tax Boost Suggested

So for the third time in a week he hammered hard for $4,000,000,000 more a year in taxes. He said last Wednesday most of it should come from corporations and people in the middle and higher income brackets.

He suggested an additional $2,000,000,000 in payroll taxes, on business and individuals, to finance his program of new or bigger social security benefits.

For one thing, he said, he wants the present one per cent rate on workers and their employers boosted to 1½ per cent each next July 1. That is six months ahead of the scheduled Congress set.

By that same date he wants "nearly" all the 25,000,000 gainfully employed persons not now covered" brought into the old age insurance system. They would pay taxes, too.

He wants insurance for people temporarily or permanently disabled, apparently with those covered chipping in on the cost.

And he wants a higher ceiling on the income taxed for social security. Now only the first $3,000 of a person's income is taxed. There has been talk of hoisting the limit to $4,500.

All these changes, Mr. Truman estimated, would bring $1,700,000,000 into the federal till.

In addition, he is counting on raising an additional $260,000,000 for a new health insurance program with a payroll tax of one-fourth of one per cent each on companies and workers. But only $15,000,000 of that would be spent the first year.

Maryland Veteran Wins 1948 Conservation Award

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 (AP)—A 28-year-old veteran who came home from the war and started operating a Maryland farm a little more than a year ago, today was named 1948 conservation champion in the nine-state area served by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

He is Howard B. Strong, Jr., Cecilton, Md., who was overseas more than three years in the Army and fought in the bitter battle on the Anzio beachhead of the Italian front.

Strong received his award tonight at the annual banquet of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation.

Parents Receive Card From Missing Coed

WOODSBORO, Md., Jan. 10 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Smith didn't know exactly where their 19-year-old daughter was today but they were confident she was all right and would go back to school.

Audrey Lee Smith skipped off Friday from Mary Washington College at Fredericksburg, Va., apparently disgruntled over a failing mark in Spanish.

The parents got a postal card from her today, mailed Saturday at Asheville, N. C.

"I'm fine," Mrs. Smith quoted it. "I don't know what came over me."

President Chiang Kai-Shek's luxurious private plane was moved to a small field inside Nanking within a few hundred yards of Chiang's official residence.

One source said Chiang had decided to leave Nanking, possibly for Formosa, until he changed his mind yesterday.

"It looks now like he may stay here until the Communists drive him out," the source added.

Former Premier Chang Chun returned to Naking from Hankow and Changsha where he is supposed to have urged the two regional generals there to stick by the government.

Corbett, Praises Farmers' Co-ops

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—Dr. Roger B. Corbett, director of the State Agricultural Extension service, said today that "agricultural co-operatives are part of free enterprise."

Corbett addressed the annual meeting of the Maryland Tobacco Growers Association, one of several affiliated groups convening here this week in connection with the annual session of the State Farm Bureau.

Resolutions on subjects ranging from sex education to highway erosion emerged from simultaneous meetings of more than half a dozen farm groups.

New school buildings and bigger and better state teachers' colleges were urged by the Maryland Council of Four-H Clubs. The group also recommended sex education and family relationships as public school subjects.

A special state committee to study soil and drainage problems, with special reference to highways, was urged by the State Soil Conservation Committee. Meeting in conjunction with the chairmen of Maryland's 23 conservation districts, the group asked the Governor to appoint a committee to "make a thorough study of Maryland's soil conservation and drainage problems." They also asked that the State Roads Commission show plans for new roads to the district conservation chairmen, who would examine them for erosion control provisions.

The conservation committee's method of distributing funds to various parts of the state also came in for some discussion. It was resolved that three supervisors—one each from Eastern, Southern, and Western Maryland—be appointed to suggest possible revisions.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (INS)—Jimmy Sharman—the Mike Jacobs of Australia says "too many pals, parties and movies" are stumbling blocks to a city boy who wants to be a fighter today.

The Australian fight promoter believes the country lad with his fresh air, regular rest and plain food has the natural background from which champions come.

We readily agree with Sharman that few modern fighters will go through a long hard training grind. A few rounds of boxing and a fresh haircut is all many of them think they need to get ready for a tough fight.

Few are willing to emulate the old timers who, although most of them may have spent their spare time in gin mills between fights, would knock off and go through months of gruelling work when they had a tough fight on tap.

The old timers thought nothing of training 12 hours a day for a fight. They ran miles every day and spent hours chopping wood, skipping rope, bag punching and boxing.

We agree with Sharman that soft living hurts fighters today. But we disagree with him in thinking the country boy has any advantage over the city-bred youngster if the city boy wants to work.

Some of our greatest fighters were raised in the slums of large cities. What Sharman overlooks is the fact that a kid had to be inherently tough and strong to survive his upbringing.

We hate to disillusion any of our moralists but we must admit that some of our greatest champions training only haphazardly. And it is our firm conviction that at least two of our heavyeight champions—John L. Sullivan and Max Baer, were never perfectly trained for a fight in all their lives.

We venture to say the records will show that at least 100 city boys made good in the ring for every one who was raised on a farm.

It is only natural that this should be so. The country boy has little occasion to fight and probably less inclination. The city boy, especially if raised in a poor neighborhood, usually has to fight even when he doesn't want to fight.

Benny Leonard, one of our best lightweight champions, is a case in point. Benny always said he had to battle to exist. It was either fight or take a beating and Benny chose to fight. And Benny probably never saw a cow except in a butcher shop until he was fully grown.

We could go through the record books and pick hundreds of fighters who could hardly have distinguished wheat from corn and the only contact many of them ever had with grain was with barley and corn—in bottled form.

Offhand, you can think of many champions who learned to fight in big cities. Jim Corbett, Gene Tunney, Joe Louis, born on a farm but raised in the city. Jack Dempsey, who learned to fight in small tough mining camps but who was by no means a farm boy.

Maxey Rosenbloom, Georges Carpentier, Paul Berlenbach, Tommy Laughran and Billy Conn, all light heavyweight kings.

No; it isn't wnere they're raised but what they do that counts in making a fighter.

Nats To Play Pirates In Cooperstown Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Washington Senators and Pittsburgh Pirates will meet June 13 in the annual big league game at Cooperstown, N. Y., site of Baseball's Hall of Fame. The announcement was made today by Charles Segar, public relations director for the National League.

Those Kentucky Wildcats--Basketball's Top College Attraction

Ralph Beard — Alex Groza — Wallace Jones — Coach Adolph Rupp

KENTUCKY'S CAGERS, coached by the "Baron" of Basketball himself, Adolph Rupp, once again dominate the national collegiate scene as the No. 1 attraction on the courts. Despite a one-bucket defeat by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl finale, Kentucky ranks as one of the greatest college teams ever put together. Top star is Ralph Beard, the sensational play-maker. Others, who rank with the best in college circles, are Alex Groza, the spectacular rebound man, and Wallace (Wah-Wah) Jones, forward. Kentucky has won eight games while losing that one to St. Louis. Last year Kentucky ranked as nation's No. 1 college team. (International)

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (INS)—Jimmy Sharman—the Mike Jacobs of Australia says "too many pals, parties and movies" are stumbling blocks to a city boy who wants to be a fighter today.

The Australian fight promoter believes the country lad with his fresh air, regular rest and plain food has the natural background from which champions come.

We readily agree with Sharman that few modern fighters will go through a long hard training grind. A few rounds of boxing and a fresh haircut is all many of them think they need to get ready for a tough fight.

Few are willing to emulate the old timers who, although most of them may have spent their spare time in gin mills between fights, would knock off and go through months of gruelling work when they had a tough fight on tap.

The old timers thought nothing of training 12 hours a day for a fight. They ran miles every day and spent hours chopping wood, skipping rope, bag punching and boxing.

We agree with Sharman that soft living hurts fighters today. But we disagree with him in thinking the country boy has any advantage over the city-bred youngster if the city boy wants to work.

Some of our greatest fighters were raised in the slums of large cities. What Sharman overlooks is the fact that a kid had to be inherently tough and strong to survive his upbringing.

We hate to disillusion any of our moralists but we must admit that some of our greatest champions training only haphazardly. And it is our firm conviction that at least two of our heavyweight champions—John L. Sullivan and Max Baer, were never perfectly trained for a fight in all their lives.

We venture to say the records will show that at least 100 city boys made good in the ring for every one who was raised on a farm.

It is only natural that this should be so. The country boy has little occasion to fight and probably less inclination. The city boy, especially if raised in a poor neighborhood, usually has to fight even when he doesn't want to fight.

Benny Leonard, one of our best lightweight champions, is a case in point. Benny always said he had to battle to exist. It was either fight or take a beating and Benny chose to fight. And Benny probably never saw a cow except in a butcher shop until he was fully grown.

We could go through the record books and pick hundreds of fighters who could hardly have distinguished wheat from corn and the only contact many of them ever had with grain was with barley and corn—in bottled form.

Offhand, you can think of many champions who learned to fight in big cities. Jim Corbett, Gene Tunney, Joe Louis, born on a farm but raised in the city. Jack Dempsey, who learned to fight in small tough mining camps but who was by no means a farm boy.

Maxey Rosenbloom, Georges Carpentier, Paul Berlenbach, Tommy Laughran and Billy Conn, all light heavyweight kings.

No; it isn't where they're raised but what they do that counts in making a fighter.

Ralph Beard — Alex Groza — Wallace Jones — Coach Adolph Rupp

KENTUCKY'S CAGERS, coached by the "Baron" of Basketball himself, Adolph Rupp, once again dominate the national collegiate scene as the No. 1 attraction on the courts. Despite a one-bucket defeat by St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl finale, Kentucky ranks as one of the greatest college teams ever put together. Top star is Ralph Beard, the sensational play-maker. Others, who rank with the best in college circles, are Alex Groza, the spectacular rebound man, and Wallace (Wah-Wah) Jones, forward. Kentucky has won eight games while losing that one to St. Louis. Last year Kentucky ranked as nation's No. 1 college team. (International)

Preakness Value Is $75,000 Added

Belmont's Precedent Followed By Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—The purse for Maryland's Preakness—one of the three racing features making up the triple crown—was cut from $100,000 to $75,000 added today.

It cutting $25,000 off the Preakness Purse, the Maryland Jockey Club followed precedent set by officials of the Belmont Stakes last month. The Belmont, another gem in the triple crown, will also carry $75,000 added money this year instead of $100,000.

The other top three - year - old event, the Kentucky Derby, apparently will continue its $100,000 added value. Churchill Downs directors, meeting last month, set that figure for the May 7 diamond jubilee race.

No date was named for the 1949 Preakness, but it probably will be run the latter part of May.

Original nominations for this year's classic at Pimlico closed in September, 1947. A second payment was due last August and the third and final is due this Saturday.

Supplementary entries close April 15 upon payment of a $1,500 eligibility fee.

A spokesman for the Maryland Jockey Club said all other stakes on the Pimlico spring slate will remain the same.

Henry A. Parr III was re-elected president and treasurer of the club and John O. Needles again was voted the post of secretary.

John K. Shaw, Jr., long-time member of the board of directors, was named to succeed W. Wallace Lanahan, who died last August, as vice president.

Grid Yanks Would Quit In Interest Of "Peace"

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—A spokesman for the New York football Yankees said tonight the club would be willing to withdraw from the All-America Conference if it would "bring about peace in pro football."

Red Patterson, publicity chief for the Yankees, made the statement after the Herald Tribune reported it had learned from an authoritative source that Dan Topping planned to dissolve the Yankee team.

The paper said Topping would rent the Yankee Stadium to the Boston Yanks, a National Football League team in 1949.

Two Grand Juries Indict Gamblers In Basketball "Fix"

New York, Washington Act In Bribery Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Indictments growing out of an alleged attempt to bride a university player to fix basketball games were returned in New York and Washington today.

A New York County Jury indicted all four of the men accused by David Shapiro, co-captain of the George Washington University squad, of offering him a $1,000 bribe in connection with a Madison Square Garden contest.

The four are Jack Levy, 40, of Miami, Fla., and William Rivlin, 43, Joseph Aronowitz, 35, and Philip Klein, 34, all of New York.

In Washington, a federal grand jury indicted Levy, Aronowitz and Klein. Assistant U. S. Attorney John W. Finelly said the indictments there were based on offers allegedly made to Shapiro in a capital hotel last month.

Details of the alleged gambling plot were announced by New York County District Attorney Frank S. Hogan last Tuesday after the game between George Washington and Manhattan College in The Garden.

This was the game which Shapiro said he was offered $1,000 to lose. He said he was told to see that his team lost by 18 points. George Washington was a 13-point underdog in the betting but won anyway, 71 to 63.

Hogan Praises Shapiro

Hogan had the highest praise for the part which Shapiro played in the affair.

The district attorney said the player, whose home is in Brooklyn here, first was approached four months ago. He told the district attorney's office about it, Hogan said, and acted under instructions of the office in his contacts with the men.

All four denied the charge.

Finelly said the Washington indictments contained three counts based on these alleged incidents:

An offer of $1,000 to Shapiro Dec. 5 to try to lose a game between his team and North Carolina State Dec. 6.

An offer of $10,000 to Shapiro Dec. Dec. 5 to lose all of the remaining contest on his team's schedule.

An offer of $1,000 to Shapiro on Dec. 19 to attempt to lose a game with the University of Virginia Dec. 20.

Hogan had mentioned these other games in his account of the accusations last week.

Provides Stiff Penalties

The Washington indictments were based on a 1947 District of Columbia law enacted to deal with corrupt influence in connection with athletic contests. A penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine are provided.

In New York, the four men were indicted on charge relating to bribery of a participant in amateur or professional sports and on a conspiracy count. The former charge is a fenlony; conviction could bring imprisonment from one to five years and a fine up to $10,000.

All four defendants are free on bail of 20,000 each.

Bob Cook Receives Gift — "Red" Klotz Able Leader

Nat Marks Anniversary — Ex-Catamount Honored

By C. V. BURNS

Bob Cook, the Mr. Baseball of Hyndman, Pa., who belted the ball at a .510 clip to win the batting championship of the Bi-State League last year, is pleased over receiving a $50 cash award from Irvin "Irish" Alexander of Baltimore, who made the offer at the start of the 1948 season.

Bob writes:

"I am writing to thank "Irish" Alexander, a man well known to the folk of Lonaconing and the nearby area, who now lives in Baltimore, for the award of $50 which he presented to me on Christmas day. The prize was for the leading batter in the Bi-State League.

"His active interest in our sports in this territory is appreciated. Again I say, many thanks to you, "Irish," for the grand award. I do appreciate it."

Bob is the son of "Pete" Cook and both father and son played with the Frostburg VFW team last season.

In addition to topping the hitters of the league Bob marked up 12 pitching triumphs against four defeats.

Tonight at Madison Square Garden basketball will pay homage to Nat Holman on the 30th anniversary of his coaching regime at City College.

For three decades, Holman has coached hundreds of young men from families which could afford no college education for their sons if the city did not make it available. CCNY is a free, municipally supported institution.

We saw Holman when he was in his prime as a professional basketball player and he was tops. He gained fame with the Original Celtics and made his only appearance in this section with that great team 25 years ago against the Keyser Collegians at Keyser.

His teammates were Johnny Beckman, George "Horse" Haggerty, Chris Leonard and Henry "Dutch" Dehnert—and what a ball club that was!

After that exciting overtime battle at Frederick on Sunday friends of Coach John Mullaney of LaSalle have nicknamed him "Jumping Jack"

The tall basketball mentor almost hit the ceiling a dozen times in that final period during the embarrassing moments when his team blew a 13-point lead.

It was 27-27 at the end of the regular game but LaSalle managed to drag out a 35-29 decision in the extra period.

Jimmy (Ripper) Collins is back in organized baseball for another season. Collins piloted San Diego in the Pacific Coast League last year. He's a native of Nanty Glo, Pa., and now lives in Syracuse, N. Y.

Cumberland's Dukes have an able leader in the person of Louis H. "Red" Klotz, the mighty mite from Atlantic City, N. J.

The diminutive sorrel-top is not only player-coach of the team but he paces his club in scoring and is one of the best foul shooters in the All-American League.

Prior to last night's game in Wheeling, "Red" had scored 135 points in 11 league contests, an average of 12.27 per game. He's converted 25 of 34 free throws for high average of .735 in league tilts.

In 14 games, including three with independent quints, Klotz has amassed 166 points including 34 fouls in 46 tries for an average of .739.

The fellow does every thing so well he ought to be on Ralph Edwards' radio program.

Johnny Cox, former Potomac State football and basketball player, has been appointed head coach of the South squad for West Virginia's 16th annual North-South all-star football game next August 19.

Cox, now coach at Milton High School, came to Potomac State from Norton (Va.) High School in 1934 and played two years of football under Coach Harley P. Staggers, who is now a member of the House of Representatives from West Virginia's second congressional district. Staggers, incidentally, was a former Norton High coach.

In 1936-1937 Cox played a tackle position with the undefeated Marshall College eleven that won the Buckeye Conference championships.

The South has defeated the North in 14 and 15 games played to date.

Pool Agrees To Sign With Grid Yankees

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—George (Barney) Poole, All-America end at Mississippi, has agreed to sign a three-year-contract with the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference after his graduation from college next spring, Yankee club officials announced today.

The younger brother of Jim and Ray Poole who starred with the rival New York Giants of the National Football League, was recommended by Bruiser Kinard. Kinard, a great football player in his own right, currently doubles as assistant coach of Ole Miss and scout for the Yankees.

Poole is a veteran of seven years of college and one year of service football. The Giants had the NFL draft right to him.

Its victims were Monterey, Va., twice, Greenbank, Wardensville and Mathias. The last two were Potomac Valley Conference games.

The P.V.C. is quite a circuit. We don't believe that five of the 15 teams know they're in the league this season.

Charley "Speaking Of Sports" Krapf is having a hard time convincing his friends that he witnessed the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Can you blame them when they saw the WCUM sportscaster return to Cumberland with a box of cigars under his arm?

Immediately word got around town that Charley got on the wrong train and wound up at the Cigar Bowl game.

Charley swears that while in Miami he had a crate of oranges shipped home but they haven't arrived yet.

Wouldn't it be funny if they'd turn out to be tangerines?

Pat Robinson, International News Service sports writer, says one of the boxing officials told him recently that the chiselers try to get by occasionally with plaster of paris bandages.

"This little bit of larceny was quite common in the old days," Robinson writes. "The fighter would sprinkle his bandages with powdered plaster of paris and his seconds would "accidentally' pour water on the bandages. When that set, he might just as well have been armed with the old iron-studded cesti of the Romans."

Billikens Battle Long Island Five In Garden Tonight

West Virginia Meets CCNY In Second Game

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—The long awaited appearance of St. Louis University's unbeaten basketball team, starring Easy Ed Macauley at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, has this usually blase city steamed up today.

With nearly everybody and his brother anxious to get a good look at the team and player generally regarded as the best in the nation, a sellout is all but assured for the doubleheader. The Billikens face Long Island University in the (8 PES) opener with West Virginia opposing City College (at 10 PES) in the second game.

In between games, Nat Holman, observing his 30th year as cage coach at City College, will be honored in a special ceremony.

Win Nine Straight

The powerful Billiken five, undefeated in nine starts this season, is rated an 11-point favorite to whip the Blackbirds (9-5). Coach Ed Hickey brings a squad that has lost only two starters from last year's "seven-man" first team which captured the National Invitation Tournament.

Macauley, the six-foot, eigth-inch All-America center is flanked by returning lettermen Marv Schatzman, Moe Ossola, Lou Lehman and Bob Schmidt. It was almost this identical team that drubbed the Blackbirds 68-57 last year.

West Virginia, fresh from its 71-66 triumph over Niagara at Buffalo Saturday night, will face a tough foe in City College, in quest of its eighth victory. The Mountaineers have lost three. City owns a record of 10-2.

Nosed Out Kentucky

The soft-spoken Hickey, still "up in the clouds" over his team's 42-40 triumph over Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl last week, described at the metropolitan writers' weekly luncheon how his victory was achieved.

"We set up a ticht defense against Kentucky," he said. "We bottled up the Wildcats' fast-break completely. I don't believe Kentucky scored a basket on a fast break all through the game."

Hickey took occasion to disagree with Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp, who had charged that St. Louis used a stalling, deliberate slow-down defense.

"That is not so, "Hickey stated. "We are strictly a fast-breaking offensive team. We don't resort to a zone defense. We employ a man to man setup, sometimes using a switch to confuse the other team. The score was comparatively low because neither team was able to capitalize on its speed due to the tight defenses."

Hickey took time out to praise his great center, Macauley. "Ed is probably the greatest college player in the country today," he said. "He would be even better if he weren't such a team player. He always had great potentialities, but never, until this year, has he lived up to them fully. Last year, he was weak on defense. But a summer up at the Catskill Mountains has helped him greately. He is now a master on defense as well as offense."

Hickey said that Macauley outplayed Kentucky's star center, Alex Groza, in the Sugar Bowl classic, but added that the turning point in the game was Schatzman's great success in holding Wah-Wah Jones to a single basket.

"That was the difference," he said, "because we think Jones is their greatest player."

Bee Praises Macauley

Clair Bee, coach of Long Island University, added his praise for Macauley.

"In my book he is the No. 1 basketball player in the country," Bee said. "He is an ideal college player. He doesn't hog the ball and he is a great team player. He has awfully good coordination for a big man."

Lloyd Mangrum Cops Golf Title At Los Angeles

Captures $2,600 Prize With 284 For 72 Holes

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10. (AP)—Steel-nerved Lloyd Mangrum, refusing to crack where others did, launched golf's golden winter tour today with a victory in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

The 34-year-old former United States Open champion laced out a steady one-under par 70 for a 72-hole score of 284 to capture by three strokes this 23rd edition of the Los Angeles tourney. It was worth $2,600 cash to him.

The win by Mangrum, a twice decorated infantryman in the war, ended a two-year domination of the tournament by little Be Hogan, who wound up with 292—a very un-Hoganlike tally.

Low amateur honors went to Frank Stranahan, the gifted muscle boy from Toledo, Ohio, and Bruce McCormick of Hollywood. They were tied with 295.

Harrison Is Second

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, whose handsome 69 set the pace in the first round four days ago, closed with a 71 for 287 and second place money of $1,900.

Tied one stroke behind Harrison were Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., Eric Monti of Santa Monica, Calif., Billy Nary of Albuquerque, N. M., whose 67 was low score today, and Leland Gibson, of Kansas City, whose 67 yesterday under extremely bad weather conditions was perhaps the finest round of the tournament.

Sam Snead made a bid but grew as cold as the air around the Riviera Country Club and finished with a 73 for 289.

Mangrum, with rounds of 72-66-76-70, blasted into co-leadership with Monti at the midway mark Saturday, and was deadlocked starting out today with Monti, Demaret, and Gibson.

One by one the threats melted—or, as the case was, froze. First Snead and Monti, then Texan Demaret and Gibson, and finally Dutch Harrison, trudged in.

Demaret had a card of 74, including a pair of sixes; Snead took 73; Monti and Gibson 74's, and Gibson 74's, and Harrison's par 71 wasn't good enough.

Mangrum, a handsome guy the gallery likes, was even with par 35 for nine holes, still even going into sixteen, and par all the way would have been safe enough. But he shot a birdie with a two-foot putt on the sixteenth, and that broke the bank for sure.

Mangrum started out with a birdie four for the par 35-36—71, 7,020 yard course, scene of his role in this tournament as runnerup to Hogan a year ago. He got another with a perfect approach for a four-foot putt on the second. He lost two strokes on the next two holes, sailing over the green at No. 3 and 3-putting the fourth. From there on it was lace, chip, tap.

Mangrum's 76 in the hail storm yesterday, incidentally, marked the first time in this affair that a score of that size was followed by victory.

Hogan shot a total 275 last year, lowest in the tournament's history.

Mangrum was born in Dallas, Texas, has lived with his family here for many years, but is registered for professional reasons out of Chicago.

He won the 1946 U. S. Open soon after returning from the army, where he was wounded in the Battle of the Bulge, and last year supplanted Hogan as golf's biggest money winner, with $45,890 pocketed in PGA-sponsored events.

Trailing behind the leaders today were such name golfers as Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich., with 293, Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh, 296; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, 292; Ed Oliver, Seattle, 297, Former U. S. open champion Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 301; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 302, Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, 304; and Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 297.

Moose Women Win

The Moose women's shuffleboard team won two out of three games from the Owls by the score of 113-82 last night at the Moose Home.

Mrs. Helen Pettie was high scorer for the victors with 31 points while Mrs. L. Yaider led the Owls with 25.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 10—Wheeling's Blues ruined Cumberland's chances of taking over undisputed possession of first place in the All-American Professional Basketball League tonight by rallying in the final period to defeat the Dukes by the score of 78 to 66.

The Marylanders gave the Blues a great battle for three quarters, trailing by one point at the close of the third 10-minute stanza, 51-50, but in the last period Coach Jule Rivlin's hoopsters cut loose with a fast break that had the visitors bewildered and decided the issue. The league leaders poured in 27 points while holding the visitors to 16 in the final heat.

Tonight's defeat dropped Cumberland into third place while the Altoona Flyers held second place. The victory was Wheeling's tenth against five defeats. Cumberland has won seven and lost five, four of the setbacks being suffered away from home.

Five Wheeling players figured prominently in tonight's scoring parade. Paul Herman led the assault with 19 points, Bobby Carroll collected 16, Jule Rivlin 14, Floatz Pelaez 13 and Andy Tonkovich.

The Dukes held an 18-15 lead at the quarter and at halftime Wheeling was in front by four points, 33-29.

Walter Orndorff, Dukes' guard, was ejected on personal fouls in the first period.

Preakness Value Is $75,000 Added

Belmont's Precedent Followed By Pimlico

BALTIMORE, Jan. 10 (AP)—The purse for Maryland's Preakness—one of the three racing features making up the triple crown—was cut from $100,000 to $75,000 added today.

It cutting $25,000 off the Preakness Purse, the Maryland Jockey Club followed precedent set by officials of the Belmont Stakes last month. The Belmont, another gem in the triple crown, will also carry $75,000 added money this year instead of $100,000.

The other top three - year - old event, the Kentucky Derby, apparently will continue its $100,000 added value. Churchill Downs directors, meeting last month, set that figure for the May 7 diamond jubilee race.

No date was named for the 1949 Preakness, but it probably will be run the latter part of May.

Original nominations for this year's classic at Pimlico closed in September, 1947. A second payment was due last August and the third and final is due this Saturday.

Supplementary entries close April 15 upon payment of a $1,500 eligibility fee.

A spokesman for the Maryland Jockey Club said all other stakes on the Pimlico spring slate will remain the same.

Henry A. Parr III was re-elected president and treasurer of the club and John O. Needles again was voted the post of secretary.

John K. Shaw, Jr., long-time member of the board of directors, was named to succeed W. Wallace Lanahan, who died last August, as vice president.

Grid Yanks Would Quit In Interest Of "Peace"

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—A spokesman for the New York football Yankees said tonight the club would be willing to withdraw from the All-America Conference if it would "bring about peace in pro football."

Red Patterson, publicity chief for the Yankees, made the statement after the Herald Tribune reported it had learned from an authoritative source that Dan Topping planned to dissolve the Yankee team.

The paper said Topping would rent the Yankee Stadium to the Boston Yanks, a National Football League team in 1949.

Two Grand Juries Indict Gamblers In Basketball "Fix"

New York, Washington Act In Bribery Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Indictments growing out of an alleged attempt to bride a university player to fix basketball games were returned in New York and Washington today.

A New York County Jury indicted all four of the men accused by David Shapiro, co-captain of the George Washington University squad, of offering him a $1,000 bribe in connection with a Madison Square Garden contest.

The four are Jack Levy, 40, of Miami, Fla., and William Rivlin, 43, Joseph Aronowitz, 35, and Philip Klein, 34, all of New York.

In Washington, a federal grand jury indicted Levy, Aronowitz and Klein. Assistant U. S. Attorney John W. Finelly said the indictments there were based on offers allegedly made to Shapiro in a capital hotel last month.

Details of the alleged gambling plot were announced by New York County District Attorney Frank S. Hogan last Tuesday after the game between George Washington and Manhattan College in The Garden.

This was the game which Shapiro said he was offered $1,000 to lose. He said he was told to see that his team lost by 18 points. George Washington was a 13-point underdog in the betting but won anyway, 71 to 63.

Hogan Praises Shapiro

Hogan had the highest praise for the part which Shapiro played in the affair.

The district attorney said the player, whose home is in Brooklyn here, first was approached four months ago. He told the district attorney's office about it, Hogan said, and acted under instructions of the office in his contacts with the men.

All four denied the charge.

Finelly said the Washington indictments contained three counts based on these alleged incidents:

An offer of $1,000 to Shapiro Dec. 5 to try to lose a game between his team and North Carolina State Dec. 6.

An offer of $10,000 to Shapiro Dec. Dec. 5 to lose all of the remaining contest on his team's schedule.

An offer of $1,000 to Shapiro on Dec. 19 to attempt to lose a game with the University of Virginia Dec. 20.

Hogan had mentioned these other games in his account of the accusations last week.

Provides Stiff Penalties

The Washington indictments were based on a 1947 District of Columbia law enacted to deal with corrupt influence in connection with athletic contests. A penality of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine are provided.

In New York, the four men were indicted on charge relating to bribery of a participant in amateur or professional sports and on a conspiracy count. The former charge is a fenlony; conviction could bring imprisonment from one to five years and a fine up to $10,000.

All four defendants are free on bail of 20,000 each.

Bob Cook Receives Gift — "Red" Klotz Able Leader

Nat Marks Anniversary — Ex-Catamount Honored

By C. V. BURNS

Bob Cook, the Mr. Baseball of Hyndman, Pa., who belted the ball at a .510 clip to win the batting championship of the Bi-State League last year, is pleased over receiving a $50 cash award from Irvin "Irish" Alexander of Baltimore, who made the offer at the start of the 1948 season.

Bob writes:

"I am writing to thank "Irish" Alexander, a man well known to the folk of Lonaconing and the nearby area, who now lives in Baltimore, for the award of $50 which he presented to me on Christmas day. The prize was for the leading batter in the Bi-State League.

"His active interest in our sports in this territory is appreciated. Again I say, many thanks to you, "Irish," for the grand award. I do appreciate it."

Bob is the son of "Pete" Cook and both father and son played with the Frostburg VFW team last season.

In addition to topping the hitters of the league Bob marked up 12 pitching triumphs against four defeats.

Tonight at Madison Square Garden basketball will pay homage to Nat Holman on the 30th anniversary of his coaching regime at City College.

For three decades, Holman has coached hundreds of young men from families which could afford no college education for their sons if the city did not make it available. CCNY is a free, municipally supported institution.

We saw Holman when he was in his prime as a professional basketball player and he was tops. He gained fame with the Original Celtics and made his only appearance in this section with that great team 25 years ago against the Keyser Collegians at Keyser.

His teammates were Johnny Beckman, George "Horse" Haggerty, Chris Leonard and Henry "Dutch" Dehnert—and what a ball club that was!

After that exciting overtime battle at Frederick on Sunday friends of Coach John Mullaney of LaSalle have nicknamed him "Jumping Jack"

The tall basketball mentor almost hit the ceiling a dozen times in that final period during the embarrassing moments when his team blew a 13-point lead.

It was 27-27 at the end of the regular game but LaSalle managed to drag out a 35-29 decision in the extra period.

Cumberland's Dukes have an able leader in the person of Louis H. "Red" Klotz, the mighty mite from Atlantic City, N. J.

The diminutive sorrel-top is not only player-coach of the team but he paces his club in scoring and is one of the best foul shooters in the All-American League.

Prior to last night's game in Wheeling, "Red" had scored 135 points in 11 league contests, an average of 12.27 per game. He's converted 25 of 34 free throws for high average of .735 in league tilts.

In 14 games, including three with independent quints, Klotz has amassed 166 points including 34 fouls in 46 tries for an average of .739.

The fellow does every thing so well he ought to be on Ralph Edwards' radio program.

Johnny Cox, former Potomac State football and basketball player, has been appointed head coach of the South squad for West Virginia's 16th annual North-South all-star football game next August 19.

Cox, now coach at Milton High School, came to Potomac State from Norton (Va.) High School in 1934 and played two years of football under Coach Harley P. Staggers, who is now a member of the House of Representatives from West Virginia's second congressional district. Staggers, incidentally, was a former Norton High coach.

In 1936-1937 Cox played a tackle position with the undefeated Marshall College eleven that won the Buckeye Conference championships.

The South has defeated the North in 14 and 15 games played to date.

Pool Agrees To Sign With Grid Yankees

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—George (Barney) Poole, All-America end at Mississippi, has agreed to sign a three-year-contract with the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference after his graduation from college next spring, Yankee club officials announced today.

The younger brother of Jim and Ray Poole who starred with the rival New York Giants of the National Football League, was recommended by Bruiser Kinard. Kinard, a great football player in his own right, currently doubles as assistant coach of Ole Miss and scout for the Yankees.

Poole is a veteran of seven years of college and one year of service football. The Giants had the NFL draft right to him.

Its victims were Monterey, Va., twice, Greenbank, Wardensville and Mathias. The last two were Potomac Valley Conference games.

The P.V.C. is quite a circuit. We don't believe that five of the 15 teams know they're in the league this season.

Charley "Speaking Of Sports" Krapf is having a hard time convincing his friends that he witnessed the Orange Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Can you blame them when they saw the WCUM sportscaster return to Cumberland with a box of cigars under his arm?

Immediately word got around town that Charley got on the wrong train and wound up at the Cigar Bowl game.

Charley swears that while in Miami he had a crate of oranges shipped home but they haven't arrived yet.

Wouldn't it be funny if they'd turn out to be tangerines?

Pat Robinson, International News Service sports writer, says one of the boxing officials told him recently that the chiselers try to get by occasionally with plaster of paris bandages.

"This little bit of larceny was quite common in the old days," Robinson writes. "The fighter would sprinkle his bandages with powdered plaster of paris and his seconds would "accidentally' pour water on the bandages. When that set, he might just as well have been armed with the old iron-studded cesti of the Romans."

Billikens Battle Long Island Five In Garden Tonight

West Virginia Meets CCNY In Second Game

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—The long awaited appearance of St. Louis University's unbeaten basketball team, starring Easy Ed Macauley at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, has this usually blase city steamed up today.

With nearly everybody and his brother anxious to get a good look at the team and player generally regarded as the best in the nation, a sellout is all but assured for the doubleheader. The Billikens face Long Island University in the (8 PES) opener with West Virginia opposing City College (at 10 PES) in the second game.

In between games, Nat Holman, observing his 30th year as cage coach at City College, will be honored in a special ceremony.

Win Nine Straight

The powerful Billiken five, undefeated in nine starts this season, is rated an 11-point favorite to whip the Blackbirds (9-5). Coach Ed Hickey brings a squad that has lost only two starters from last year's "seven-man" first team which captured the National Invitation Tournament.

Macauley, the six-foot, eigth-inch All-America center is flanked by returning lettermen Marv Schatzman, Moe Ossola, Lou Lehman and Bob Schmidt. It was almost this identical team that drubbed the Blackbirds 68-57 last year.

West Virginia, fresh from its 71-66 triumph over Niagara at Buffalo Saturday night, will face a tough foe in City College, in quest of its eighth victory. The Mountaineers have lost three. City owns a record of 10-2.

Nosed Out Kentucky

The soft-spoken Hickey, still "up in the clouds" over his team's 42-40 triumph over Kentucky in the Sugar Bowl last week, described at the metropolitan writers' weekly luncheon how his victory was achieved.

"We set up a tight defense against Kentucky," he said. "We bottled up the Wildcats' fast-break completely. I don't believe Kentucky scored a basket on a fast break all through the game."

Hickey took occasion to disagree with Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp, who had charged that St. Louis used a stalling, deliberate slow-down defense.

"That is not so, "Hickey stated. "We are strictly a fast-breaking offensive team. We don't resort to a zone defense. We employ a man to man setup, sometimes using a switch to confuse the other team. The score was comparatively low because neither team was able to capitalize on its speed due to the tight defenses."

Hickey took time out to praise his great center, Macauley. "Ed is probably the greatest college player in the country today," he said. "He would be even better if he weren't such a team player. He always had great potentialities, but never, until this year, has he lived up to them fully. Last year, he was weak on defense. But a summer up at the Catskill Mountains has helped him greately. He is now a master on defense as well as offense."

Hickey said that Macauley outplayed Kentucky's star center, Alex Groza, in the Sugar Bowl classic, but added that the turning point in the game was Schatzman's great success in holding Wah-Wah Jones to a single basket.

"That was the difference," he said, "because we think Jones is their greatest player."

Bee Praises Macauley

Clair Bee, coach of Long Island University, added his praise for Macauley.

"In my book he is the No. 1 basketball player in the country," Bee said. "He is an ideal college player. He doesn't hog the ball and he is a great team player. He has awfully good coordination for a big man."

WINS TOURNEY—Lloyd Mangrum, above, launched golf's golden winter tour yesterday by winning the Los Angeles open tourney with a score of 284 for 72 holes. He was three strokes ahead of E. J. "Dutch" Harrison at the finish. The first place prize was $2,600. Ben Hogan, defending champion, wound up with a 292.

Lloyd Mangrum Cops Golf Title At Los Angeles

Captures $2,600 Prize With 284 For 72 Holes

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10. (AP)—Steel-nerved Lloyd Mangrum, refusing to crack where others did, launched golf's golden winter tour today with a victory in the $15,000 Los Angeles Open.

The 34-year-old former United States Open champion laced out a steady one-under par 70 for a 72-hole score of 284 to capture by three strokes this 23rd edition of the Los Angeles tourney. It was worth $2,600 cash to him.

The win by Mangrum, a twice decorated infantryman in the war, ended a two-year domination of the tournament by little Be Hogan, who wound up with 292—a very un-Hoganlike tally.

Low amateur honors went to Frank Stranahan, the gifted muscle boy from Toledo, Ohio, and Bruce McCormick of Hollywood. They were tied with 295.

Harrison Is Second

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Little Rock, whose handsome 69 set the pace in the first round four days ago, closed with a 71 for 287 and second place money of $1,900.

Tied one stroke behind Harrison were Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., Eric Monti of Santa Monica, Calif., Billy Nary of Albuquerque, N. M., whose 67 was low score today, and Leland Gibson, of Kansas City, whose 67 yesterday under extremely bad weather conditions was perhaps the finest round of the tournament.

Sam Snead made a bid but grew as cold as the air around the Riviera Country Club and finished with a 73 for 289.

Mangrum, with rounds of 72-66-76-70, blasted into co-leadership with Monti at the midway mark Saturday, and was deadlocked starting out today with Monti, Demaret, and Gibson.

One by one the threats melted—or, as the case was, froze. First Snead and Monti, then Texan Demaret and Gibson, and finally Dutch Harrison, trudged in.

Demaret had a card of 74, including a pair of sixes; Snead took 73; Monti and Gibson 74's, and Gibson 74's, and Harrison's par 71 wasn't good enough.

Mangrum, a handsome guy the gallery likes, was even with par 35 for nine holes, still even going into sixteen, and par all the way would have been safe enough. But he shot a birdie with a two-foot putt on the sixteenth, and that broke the bank for sure.

Mangrum started out with a birdie four for the par 35-36—71, 7,020 yard course, scene of his role in this tournament as runnerup to Hogan a year ago. He got another with a perfect approach for a four-foot putt on the second. He lost two strokes on the next two holes, sailing over the green at No. 3 and 3-putting the fourth. From there on it was lace, chip, tap.

Mangrum's 76 in the hail storm yesterday, incidentally, marked the first time in this affair that a score of that size was followed by victory.

Hogan shot a total 275 last year, lowest in the tournament's history.

Mangrum was born in Dallas, Texas, has lived with his family here for many years, but is registered for professional reasons out of Chicago.

He won the 1946 U. S. Open soon after returning from the army, where he was wounded in the Battle of the Bulge, and last year supplanted Hogan as golf's biggest money winner, with $45,890 pocketed in PGA-sponsored events.

Trailing behind the leaders today were such name golfers as Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich., with 293, Johnny Bulla, Pittsburgh, 296; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, 292; Ed Oliver, Seattle, 297, Former U. S. open champion Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., 301; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 302, Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, 304; and Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 297.

Moose Women Win

The Moose women's shuffleboard team won two out of three games from the Owls by the score of 113-82 last night at the Moose Home.

Mrs. Helen Pettie was high scorer for the victors with 31 points while Mrs. L. Yaider led the Owls with 25.

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 10—Wheeling's Blues ruined Cumberland's chances of taking over undisputed possession of first place in the All-American Professional Basketball League tonight by rallying in the final period to defeat the Dukes by the score of 78 to 66.

The Marylanders gave the Blues a great battle for three quarters, trailing by one point at the close of the third 10-minute stanza, 51-50, but in the last period Coach Jule Rivlin's hoopsters cut loose with a fast break that had the visitors bewildered and decided the issue. The league leaders poured in 27 points while holding the visitors to 16 in the final heat.

Tonight's defeat dropped Cumberland into third place while the Altoona Flyers held second place. The victory was Wheeling's tenth against five defeats. Cumberland has won seven and lost five, four of the setbacks being suffered away from home.

Five Wheeling players figured prominently in tonight's scoring parade. Paul Herman led the assault with 19 points, Bobby Carroll collected 16, Jule Rivlin 14, Floatz Pelaez 13 and Andy Tonkovich.

Lou Bell was Cumberland's high point man with eight field goals and 18 points while Bob Pence took runner-up honors with 14 markers.

The Dukes held an 18-15 lead at the quarter and at halftime Wheeling was in front by four points, 33-29.

Walter Orndorff, Dukes' guard, was ejected on personal fouls in the first period.

Wheeling outscored Cumberland 32 to 28 from the field and hooped 14 of 24 free throws to the Maryland team's 10 out of 14. Twenty personal fouls were called on the losers and 14 on the home team. The lineups:

GEORGETOWN BEATS MARYLAND, 53-51

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Captain Ray Corley sank a set shot two seconds before the final gun tonight to give Georgetown a 53-51 victory over a hustling Maryland University team.

Corley's winning field goal climaxed a second half rally by Georgetown that overcame a seven point deficit.

With the score tied at 51-51, Georgetown gained possession of the ball 40 seconds before the game ended and passed it back and forth near mid-court. With one eye on the clock, Corley flipped an off-balance, two-hander from 25 feet out. Time ran out before Maryland could return the ball past mid-court.

Corley tossed in six other goals in addition to his game-winning shot along with three fouls to lead both teams in scoring with 17 points.

Corley meshed five of these go

City To Invest Flood Bond Fund

Proceeds from the 1947 flood protection bonds will be invested by the city into two $250,000 certificates of deposit with the First National Bank.

The certificates will be for 30 and 60 days respectively, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said, and are being secured to derive income from the fund until it is necessary to use the money in payment for the flood protection program here.

The order authorizing the purchase of the certificates was approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

A resolution of respect to the memory of James M. Conway, city tax collector, who died January 3, was read at yesterday's session.

A letter from the Board of Education and signed by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, informing the Mayor and Council of the health program in county schools and inviting the group to a lecture last night at Allegany High School was filed. The lecture featured Dr. Alice V. Keliher, professor of Education at New York University, who spoke on the social needs of children.

The Health Department report for December, submitted by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, showed: 24 communicable diseases; 34 clinics held; 528 visits; 144 births, 61 deaths and two stillborn.

Arrests in December totaled 707 and fines $938 the report of Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan revealed. The Fire Department responded to 48 calls but loss was minor, he said.

Water consumption was 85,611,000 gallons as compared to 83,520,000 gallons in 1947. The daily average was 12,231,000 gallons. The water level at Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon three feet above.

City Asks Repair Of Septic Tank

A Turner Street property owner was asked by the Mayor and City Council yesterday to repair a septic tank after the city and county health officer said the tank "constitutes a nuisance and a possible health menace."

City Inspector James W. Morris made a report on the tank following an appearance by Arthur Amtower, Turner Street, before the Council last week. The street has not been accepted by the city, but the Mayor and Council acted to safeguard the public health.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds moved, and the motion was approved, that John E. Matthews, original owner of the properties using the tank, be requested to repair it and meet requirements of the Health Department.

Dr. Frantz said that Matthews had built five homes on Turner Street, including the Amtower residence, on the west side. Sewage is carried to the tank on the east side of the street and is located on Matthews' property. The septic tank, the report said, is nothing but a catch basin or small reservoir about 8 by 5 feet and four feet deep. One wall has collapsed, the report continued, and there is no covering. Waste flows into a run about 20 feet east of the reservoir, the report added.

John R. Mills, 7 Turner Street, appeared before the Mayor and Council yesterday with a complaint about the condition of the roadway of the street and the fact he has to carry garbage to Oldtown Road for collection. Mills was told that the city was powerless to act in that it has not accepted the street and that his complaint should go to Matthews, who owned and built the dwellings.

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

On my way to the market this morning, I noticed a telephone truck parked in front of Jane Paul's house. I wasn't surprised when Jane called this afternoon to say she'd gotten her telephone.

She said she is on a party line, the same as I am. The telephone installer had explained that about seven out of every ten families with telephones are on party lines. Jane said if it weren't for party-line service, she would have had to wait a lot longer for her telephone.

That reminded me of something I was reading in the newspaper last night about the telephone company's construction and improvement program. The news article said that "in spite of the rapid progress being made on this program, some people are still waiting for telephones." It went on to say that "the company was making the widest possible use of party-line facilities because party lines mean more service for more people, sooner."

Suits Totalling $12,500 Filed

Two suits were filed yesterday in Circuit Court asking $12,500 damages for injuries which were claimed to be the result of a two-car collision in Frostburg on November 29, 1948.

Docketed by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for both plaintiffs, the declaration states that William Dolder was operating his machine with care when a vehicle driven by Raymond L. Vincent in an alleged negligent manner struck his mahchine. Vicent is the defendant in both suits.

Dolder claims he suffered two fractured ribs, an injury to his left shoulder and that his car was damaged to the extent of $300. He is asking damages of $5,000.

Sarah E. Dolder, a passenger in Dolder's car ,is asking damages of $7,500 from Vincent as a result of serious injuries and expenses incurred by hospitalization and medical care.

Several cases set for yesterday in Circuit Court did not materialize and Associate Judge Oliver R. Bruce, Jr., excused the petit jury until 9:15 a. m. today.

Two civil trials are scheduled for today. They are William Van Buskirk against James Albert Beeman and Ronald Uplinger against Leslie Bohrer.

Berlin, Pa., Youth Hurt In Accident

A 10-year-old Berlin, Pa., boy was injured Sunday when the car in which he was riding to Sunday School, turned over at 10 a. m. on Route 219.

The youth, Ronald Baker, was admitted to Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., suffering a deep laceration on one arm and on the forehead.

The boy and his brother, David, were being driven to the Church of the Cove by their mother, Mrs. Allen Baker, when their automobile ran off the road. As the car swerved back on the road it overturned about 500 yards north on Route 40.

The youth was taken to the hospital by Guy Hardesty, Grantsville, who runs a service station at the intersection of Routes 40 and 219. Mrs. Baker suffered brush burns and the other boy was uninjured.

Trooper G. D. Folk, who investigated, estimated car damage in excess of $500. No charges have been placed pending a complete investigation.

Disorderly Conduct Fine Appealed

Appeals were filed after two South Cumberland men were found guilty yesterday in Police Court on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti fined Thomas Goss, 923 Virginia Avenue, and Albert Stewart, 244 Humbird Street $20 each.

William L. Wilson, attorney for the pair, appealed the decision. He charged in his rebuttal during the hearing that the men had been illegally arrested by officers making illegal entry without warrants.

Lt. James E. Van, arresting officer, testified that early Sunday morning he went to the apartment of Stewart after headquarters had received three complaint calls from Hugh Miller, owner of the two-story double house and Stewart's landlord.

Lt. Van stated, Stewart and Goss protested arrest on the ground there was no warrant for entering the apartment. Officers Patsy Algieri and Leo E. P. Law accompanied Lt. Van.

2 Face Charges In Collision

Two local men have been charged with careless driving as a result of a two-car collision at the intersection of East Oldtown Road and South Street.

Officer Donald Smith arrested William Montelone, 17, of 206 Oak Street, and Leslie E. Benson, Oldtown Road, and a hearing has been scheduled at 9 a. m. today in Police Court.

A passenger in the Montelone machine, Mrs. Bessie Montelone, 39, 206 Oak Street, suffered abrasions of the face and a leg injury and was treated at Memorial Hospital.

According to Officer Smith, the Montelone vehicle was traveling east on Oldtown Road and collided with the Benson auto as the latter attempted a left turn to South Street while going west on Oldtown Road.

The 1949 sedan of a New York man working for Fairchild Aviation Corp., in Hagerstown, crashed into the rear of a 1948 sedan operated by Wanda Lee Hanks, 457 Williams Street, Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Grove on Route 40 east of here.

According to Trooper J. F. Browning, who investigated, a third car driven by Harold Hartman, of Route 3, backed towards the highway as the other two cars approached him, but did not go on the highway.

Miss Hanks, acting to avert a collision, Trooper Browning said, swerved to the left while traveling east on Route 40 and slowed down.

The car driven by Nathan William Harrison, of King Park, N. Y., and Hagerstown, then crashed into the rear of the Hanks car.

Trooper Browning said no charges have been filed, but added a hearing will probably be held this week.

Hitchcock Urges Full Realization Of Importance Of Smoke Abatement

Only when the Cumberland industrial community brings itself to consider clean air as important to a city as pure drinking water, clean streets or upright moral character, will there be any hope of a successful smoke abatement campaign, Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hichcock said in his first annual report to the Mayor and City Council yesterday.

"It is useless to look for a spectacular cure to something that we have nurtured a half century in our industrial life; when no thought was given to 'smoke producers' as we were building our community.

"The correction of this condition means changes in most of our building plans, a larger investment and a greater responsibility on managership, for all these things enter into the price of clean air.

Mental Change Necessary

"Smokelessness," the engineer continued, "must be the first requirement and main objective for all individuals connected with our transportation system as well as the industrial installations.

"Successful smoke abatement comes only after long-continued, skillful engineering effort and administration of a difficult human problem—a complete change in the mental attitude of our press and community in general.

"To find accrued dividends found in smoke and air pollution reduction, by way of a more beautiful city, a healthier place to live and play in, only time is essential.

"My pledge of one year ago stands firmly x x x."

The report shows that in March, 1947, $3,500 was appropriated by the Mayor and Council and that $872 was expended in January to March 1948. Last May 12, a recommended budget of $12,850 for 15 months was submitted and the Mayor and Council appropriated $9,000. Of that, $2,535.95 has been expended leaving a balance of $6,464.05.

Explains Deputy Viewpoint

In his report, Hitchcock explains his stand on the appointment of a deputy smoke abatement engineer. His explanation follows:

"At this time, I find it necessary to go on record to explain to you my actions in holding the examinations for deputy smoke inspector, as well as the need for this employment.

"On July 26, 1948, I held a conference with the Civil Service Commission of our city regarding the employment of two persons; first, the deputy smoke inspector and the other, a secretary. On August 19, 1948, the Civil Service Commission held the examinations for the secretary and recommended the employment of Mrs. Nellie V. Long. Your official body employed Mrs. Long on September 20, 1948 and she started work on October 1st.

"Regarding the employment of a deputy smoke inspector, two factors stood out in my discussions with the Civil Service Commission. First, that due to the general qualifications of the position, it appeared that from an experience standpoint, the age group most interested in doing this work could not qualify under Civil Service rules and since it was generally planned to employ our deputy smoke inspector under contract conditions similar to the method used in my employment, it was agreed by all members of the Civil Service Commission that I prepare the examination, conduct same and make my own recommendations to your official body.

"Immediately after October 1, I personally prepared the examination papers giving four tests on the following subjects: Smoke, railroads, air pollution and combustion. These examinations were given in my office, individually, and were conducted by Mrs. Long. The duration of each examination was approximately two hours and started on October 13 and were completed on October 26. Arrangements were made to have them graded on October 28, by an impartial arbiter, John Connelly, former professor of Mechanical Engineering, Lehigh University, and presently the assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company. This was done at Mr. Connelly's office at the Kelly tire plant and at my request City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan and Mrs. Nellie Long, secretary, attended and were present along with myself while the examination papers were in the process of being graded and rated.

"In reporting the results of this grading, I submit the ratings of the top three contestants only, as follows: Fred V. Borden 72.75 per cent; J. Walter McKee 66.25 per cent; and Francis E. Mullan 58.75 per cent.

"The balance of the 11 contestants were in the following order: Fred R. Dotson; J. T. Defibaugh; Ernest Valentine; Thomas Cramblitt; Gordon Griffin; Theodore Roby; Raymond Snyder and Russell Riggs.

Need Is Cited

"In technical examinations of this character, the Federal Civil Service Board accept the top three contestants as all eligible for such employment and after due and thorough screening process, any one of the top three men can be legally employed. My personal recommendation rests on the results of this examination but I will abide by your decision for the employment of either Messrs Borden, McKee or Mullan.

"Now, as to the need for the employment of a deputy smoke inspector. The general misconception, (that the employment of this person is an assistant to myself) is wrong. The ordinance explains all such duties. The deputy smoke inspector has the direct power to arrest all violators and cite same for a hearing before the smoke abatement engineer.

"It will be necessary for your official body to appoint and approve our Advisory and Appeal Board immediately after the appointment of our deputy smoke inspector.

"I appreciate sincerely the support your official body has rendered me in trying to obtain the best man for this position and you can rest assured that the examinations, gradings and ratings were established in a fair and strictly impartial manner.

Council To Study Recreation Plans

The Mayor and City Council were asked yesterday by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to review the recent report of the Recreation Planning Commission which proposes an expenditure of $80,875 at 12 local playgrounds this year.

The report, submitted December 6, will be discussed at a meeting of the Mayor and Council Thursday at 10 a. m. in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post. The meeting had been called to discuss proposed legislation.

The Recreation Commission was authorized by the Mayor and Council on an order by Buchholtz shortly after he took office as commissioner. The committee was dismissed with thanks when the report was submitted in December but no other action has been taken.

A bond issue of $150,000 was approved for the city by the 1947 legislature and by local voters last spring.

The committee, headed by J. Corfield Patterson, urged immediate action and proposed other improvements without estimating cost. The largest single suggestion was for Gephart Playground where an expenditure of $17,500 was proposed.

Members of the committee, in addition to Patterson, were C. William Spangler, co-chairman, George G. Tederick, secretary; William B. Orndorff, Earle L. Bracey, William Edward Eichner, William E. McCullough, Francina Lichtenstein, Edward M. Kirk, R. M. Douglass, Clair R. Mease and H. Clifford Spiker.

The mayor and Council authorized a refund of $4.45 to Coyle W. O'Neal, 934 Gay Street, for overpayment of water rent.

Balances in city accounts as of January 1 as reported by Finance Commissioner Buchholtz are: General, $1,161,838.77; water operative, $242,161.92; general improvement bond, $26,095.67; paving bond, $34.72; flood account, $631.49; and sewer bonds of 1931, $1,578.36.

An insolvency of $116.63 was granted the city collector on the paving account of the Johnson Realty Company on Lot 8, Brookfield Avenue.

4-H Boys To Attend Tractor School

Allegany County 4-H Club will be represented by four members at a two - day tractor maintenance training school at Hagerstown Friday and Saturday, according to Joseph M. Seger, assistant county farm agent.

They are Roy Shyrock, of Oldtown; Robert Heavner, of Flintstone; Dale Mann and James Smith, both of Piney Plains.

Steger said the school will be in charge of Guy Geinger, agriculture engineer with the University of Maryland. Members of 4-H Clubs from Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Caroll counties will attend.

The school is being held to instruct the 4-H boys in tractor work and upon their return they will teach other 4-H members maintenance methods which they learned at the school, Steger said.

1948 Ranks Among Coldest Years

A review of 1948's weather shows a year of many contrasts, but definitely colder than usual.

One all-time record was set and two others were pushed. To August goes the credit for the new record as it was the coldest August noted here since official records were first compiled in 1870. The August temperature of 67 degrees topped the old mark of 68.4, which was set in 1927.

January and November were the months which threatened to break records. January with 23.6 degrees was the fifth coldest on record. The only other Januarys colder were in 1893, 1912, 1918, and 1940. The record of 20.6 degrees was set in 1940.

In contrast to January and August, November was a "high" month. In fact, the temperature averaged the fourth highest on record with 47.7 degrees. The only Novembers higher were in 1912, 1927 and 1931. The November record of 52.2 degrees was set in 1931.

The year as a whole was tied with 1892 as the fifteenth coldest on record. The yearly temperature averaged 51.9 degrees and it marked the second straight 12-month period with a temperature below the normal of 53 degrees. In 1947 the average was 52.6 degrees. Last year, with eight months below normal, was the coldest since the 51.7 degrees of 1940.

Of the 14 years which have been colder than 1948, only four of them were more than a degree colder. These years were 1875, 1885, 1886, and 1888. The record of 49.8 degrees was set in 1875.

Actually 1948 is in rather select company as temperatures go, as 12 of the coldest years on record here came before the turn of the century. Besides 1948 they were 1940, 1926, and 1924.

All of this seems to bear out the claim of "old timers" that winters used to be colder than they are in these "modern" times.

The month-by-month temperature records of recent years as compared to normal follow:

Month	1948	1947	1946	Nor.
January	23.6	37.6	32.6	31.5
February	31.8	27.8	24.3	33.3
March	43.5	36.1	49.8	40.8
April	52.8	54.6	43.3	51.9
May	61.0	62.6	63.0	62.9
June	69.4	69.6	70.6	70.8
July	73.7	70.7	74.5	74.5
August	67.0	75.5	69.0	72.3
September	65.6	65.4	66.8	66.6
October	52.0	60.2	58.2	54.4
November	47.7	40.4	47.0	42.9
December	33.8	30.6	37.1	34.2
Year	51.9	52.6	54.7	53.0

The above records are official as compiled by the U. S. Weather Bureau with the exception of the last five months of 1948. The unofficial figures were obtained from the Cumberland weather station at Constitution Park.

City To Invest Flood Bond Fund

Proceeds from the 1947 flood protection bonds will be invested by the city into two $250,000 certificates of deposit with the First National Bank.

The certificates will be for 30 and 60 days respectively, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said, and are being secured to derive income from the fund until it is necessary to use the money in payment for the flood protection program here.

The order authorizing the purchase of the certificates was approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

A resolution of respect to the memory of James M. Conway, city tax collector, who died January 3, was read at yesterday's session.

A letter from the Board of Education and signed by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, informing the Mayor and Council of the health program in county schools and inviting the group to a lecture last night at Allegany High School was filed. The lecture featured Dr. Alice V. Keliher, professor of Education at New York University, who spoke on the social needs of children.

The Health Department report for December, submitted by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, showed: 24 communicable diseases; 34 clinics held; 528 visits; 144 births, 61 deaths and two stillborn.

Arrests in December totaled 707 and fines $938 the report of Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan revealed. The Fire Department responded to 48 calls but loss was minor, he said.

Water consumption was 85,611,000 gallons as compared to 83,520,000 gallons in 1947. The daily average was 12,231,000 gallons. The water level at Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon three feet above.

City Asks Repair Of Septic Tank

A Turner Street property owner was asked by the Mayor and City Council yesterday to repair a septic tank after the city and county health officer said the tank "constitutes a nuisance and a possible health menace."

City Inspector James W. Morris made a report on the tank following an appearance by Arthur Amtower, Turner Street, before the Council last week. The street has not been accepted by the city, but the Mayor and Council acted to safeguard the public health.

Commissioner Edgar Reynolds moved, and the motion was approved, that John E. Matthews, original owner of the properties using the tank, be requested to repair it and meet requirements of the Health Department.

Dr. Frantz said that Matthews had built five homes on Turner Street, including the Amtower residence, on the west side. Sewage is carried to the tank on the east side of the street and is located on Matthews' property. The septic tank, the report said, is nothing but a catch basin or small reservoir about 8 by 5 feet and four feet deep. One wall has collapsed, the report continued, and there is no covering. Waste flows into a run about 20 feet east of the reservoir, the report added.

John R. Mills, 7 Turner Street, appeared before the Mayor and Council yesterday with a complaint about the condition of the roadway of the street and the fact he has to carry garbage to Oldtown Road for collection. Mills was told that the city was powerless to act in that it has not accepted the street and that his complaint should go to Matthews, who owned and built the dwellings.

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

On my way to the market this morning, I noticed a telephone truck parked in front of Jane Paul's house. I wasn't surprised when Jane called this afternoon to say she'd gotten her telephone.

She said she is on a party line, the same as I am. The telephone installer had explained that about seven out of every ten families with telephones are on party lines. Jane said if it weren't for party-line service, she would have had to wait a lot longer for her telephone.

That reminded me of something I was reading in the newspaper last night about the telephone company's construction and improvement program. The news article said that "in spite of the rapid progress being made on this program, some people are still waiting for telephones." It went on to say that "the company was making the widest possible use of party-line facilities because party lines mean more service for more people, sooner."

Suits Totalling $12,500 Filed

Two suits were filed yesterday in Circuit Court asking $12,500 damages for injuries which were claimed to be the result of a two-car collision in Frostburg on November 29, 1948.

Docketed by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for both plaintiffs, the declaration states that William Dolder was operating his machine with care when a vehicle driven by Raymond L. Vincent in an alleged negligent manner struck his mahchine. Vicent is the defendant in both suits.

Dolder claims he suffered two fractured ribs, an injury to his left shoulder and that his car was damaged to the extent of $300. He is asking damages of $5,000.

Sarah E. Dolder, a passenger in Dolder's car is asking damages of $7,500 from Vincent as a result of serious injuries and expenses incurred by hospitalization and medical care.

Several cases set for yesterday in Circuit Court did not materialize and Associate Judge Oliver R. Bruce, Jr., excused the petit jury until 9:15 a. m. today.

Two civil trials are scheduled for today. They are William Van Buskirk against James Albert Beeman and Ronald Uplinger against Leslie Bohrer.

Berlin, Pa., Youth Hurt In Accident

A 10-year-old Berlin, Pa., boy was injured Sunday when the car in which he was riding to Sunday School, turned over at 10 a. m. on Route 219.

The youth, Ronald Baker, was admitted to Hazel McGilvery Hospital, Meyersdale, Pa., suffering a deep laceration on one arm and on the forehead.

The boy and his brother, David, were being driven to the Church of the Cove by their mother, Mrs. Allen Baker, when their automobile ran off the road. As the car swerved back on the road it overturned about 500 yards north on Route 40.

The youth was taken to the hospital by Guy Hardesty, Grantsville, who runs a service station at the intersection of Routes 40 and 219. Mrs. Baker suffered brush burns and the other boy was uninjured.

Trooper G. D. Folk, who investigated, estimated car damage in excess of $500. No charges have been placed pending a complete investigation.

Disorderly Conduct Fine Appealed

Appeals were filed after two South Cumberland men were found guilty yesterday in Police Court on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti fined Thomas Goss, 923 Virginia Avenue, and Albert Stewart, 244 Humbird Street $20 each.

William L. Wilson, attorney for the pair, appealed the decision. He charged in his rebuttal during the hearing that the men had been illegally arrested by officers making illegal entry without warrants.

Lt. James E. Van, arresting officer, testified that early Sunday morning he went to the apartment of Stewart after headquarters had received three complaint calls from Hugh Miller, owner of the two-story double house and Stewart's landlord.

Lt. Van stated, Stewart and Goss protested arrest on the ground there was no warrant for entering the apartment. Officers Patsy Algieri and Leo E. P. Law accompanied Lt. Van.

2 Face Charges In Collision

Two local men have been charged with careless driving as a result of a two-car collision at the intersection of East Oldtown Road and South Street.

Officer Donald Smith arrested William Montelone, 17, of 206 Oak Street, and Leslie E. Benson, Oldtown Road, and a hearing has been scheduled at 9 a. m. today in Police Court.

A passenger in the Montelone machine, Mrs. Bessie Montelone, 39, 206 Oak Street, suffered abrasions of the face and a leg injury and was treated at Memorial Hospital.

According to Officer Smith, the Montelone vehicle was traveling east on Oldtown Road and collided with the Benson auto as the latter attempted a left turn to South Street while going west on Oldtown Road.

Benson reported his foot slipped off the brake, causing his car to hit the one driven by Montelone.

The 1949 sedan of a New York man working for Fairchild Aviation Corp., in Hagerstown, crashed into the rear of a 1948 sedan operated by Wanda Lee Hanks, 457 Williams Street, Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Grove on Route 40 east of here.

According to Trooper J. F. Browning, who investigated, a third car driven by Harold Hartman, of Route 3, backed towards the highway as the other two cars approached him, but did not go on the highway.

Miss Hanks, acting to avert a collision, Trooper Browning said, swerved to the left while traveling east on Route 40 and slowed down.

The car driven by Nathan William Harrison, of King Park, N. Y., and Hagerstown, then crashed into the rear of the Hanks car.

Trooper Browning said no charges have been filed, but added a hearing will probably be held this week.

Last year he was a member of the Executive council of the Baltimore City Dental Society and for 10 years has been chairman of the Membership Committee of both the Baltimore City and Maryland State Dental Associations. He is dental editor of the University of Maryland Alumni Journal and chairman of Ethics and Law Infractions in the Baltimore City Dental Society.

For 12 years, Dr. Eskin has been on the staff of Sinan Hospital, Baltimore, where he recently resigned as attending dental surgeon.

He is married to the former Beatrice Castelle, daughter of the late George Castelle, head of the vocal department of the Peabody Conservatory of Music. They have a son, George, age 11.

The Porcelain Tower of Nanking was built in that ancient capital of South China in the early part of the 15th century. It was an octagonal eight-story tower, 261 feet high. The Taiping revolutionists destroyed it in 1853.

Hitchcock Urges Full Realization Of Importance Of Smoke Abatement

Only when the Cumberland industrial community brings itself to consider clean air as important to a city as pure drinking water, clean streets or upright moral character, will there be any hope of a successful smoke abatement campaign, Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hichcock said in his first annual report to the Mayor and City Council yesterday.

"It is useless to look for a spectacular cure to something that we have nurtured a half century in our industrial life; when no thought was given to 'smoke producers' as we were building our community.

"The correction of this condition means changes in most of our building plans, a larger investment and a greater responsibility on management, for all these things enter into the price of clean air.

Mental Change Necessary

"Smokelessness," the engineer continued, "must be the first requirement and main objective for all individuals connected with our transportation system as well as the industrial installations.

"Successful smoke abatement comes only after long-continued, skillful engineering effort and administration of a difficult human problem—a complete change in the mental attitude of our press and community in general.

"To find accrued dividends found in smoke and air pollution reduction, by way of a more beautiful city, a healthier place to live and play in, only time is essential.

"My pledge of one year ago stands firmly x x x."

The report shows that in March, 1947, $3,500 was appropriated by the Mayor and Council and that $872 was expended in January to March 1948. Last May 12, a recommended budget of $12,850 for 15 months was submitted and the Mayor and Council appropriated $9,000. Of that, $2,535.95 has been expended leaving a balance of $6,464.05.

Explains Deputy Viewpoint

In his report, Hitchcock explains his stand on the appointment of a deputy smoke abatement engineer. His explanation follows:

"At this time, I find it necessary to go on record to explain to you my actions in holding the examinations for deputy smoke inspector, as well as the need for this employment.

"On July 26, 1948, I held a conference with the Civil Service Commission of our city regarding the employment of two persons; first, the deputy smoke inspector and the other, a secretary. On August 19, 1948, the Civil Service Commission held the examinations for the secretary and recommended the employment of Mrs. Nellie V. Long. Your official body employed Mrs. Long on September 20, 1948 and she started work on October 1st.

"Regarding the employment of a deputy smoke inspector, two factors stood out in my discussions with the Civil Service Commission. First, that due to the general qualifications of the position, it appeared that from an experience standpoint, the age group most interested in doing this work could not qualify under Civil Service rules and since it was generally planned to employ our deputy smoke inspector under contract conditions similar to the method used in my employment, it was agreed by all members of the Civil Service Commission that I prepare the examination, conduct same and make my own recommendations to your official body.

"Immediately after October 1, I personally prepared the examination papers giving four tests on the following subjects: Smoke, railroads, air pollution and combustion. These examinations were given in my office, individually, and were conducted by Mrs. Long. The duration of each examination was approximately two hours and started on October 13 and were completed on October 26. Arrangements were made to have them graded on October 28, by an impartial arbiter, John Connelly, former professor of Mechanical Engineering, Lehigh University, and presently the assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire company. This was done at Mr. Connelly's office at the Kelly tire plant and at my request City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan and Mrs. Nellie Long, secretary, attended and were present along with myself while the examination papers were in the process of being graded and rated.

"In reporting the results of this grading, I submit the ratings of the top three contestants only, as follows: Fred V. Borden 72.75 per cent; J. Walter McKee 66.25 per cent; and Francis E. Mullan 58.75 per cent.

"The balance of the 11 contestants were in the following order: Fred R. Dotson; J. T. Defibaugh; Ernest Valentine; Thomas Cramblitt; Gordon Griffin; Theodore Roby; Raymond Snyder and Russell Riggs.

Need Is Cited

"In technical examinations of this character, the Federal Civil Service Board accept the top three contestants as all eligible for such employment and after due and thorough screening process, any one of the top three men can be legally employed. My personal recommendation rests on the results of this examination but I will abide by your decision for the employment of either Messrs Borden, McKee or Mullan.

"Now, as to the need for the employment of a deputy smoke inspector. The general misconception, (that the employment of this person is an assistant to myself) is wrong. The ordinance explains all such duties. The deputy smoke inspector has the direct power to arrest all violators and cite same for a hearing before the smoke abatement engineer.

"It will be necessary for your official body to appoint and approve our Advisory and Appeal Board immediately after the appointment of our deputy smoke inspector.

"I appreciate sincerely the support your official body has rendered me in trying to obtain the best man for this position and you can rest assured that the examinations, gradings and ratings were established in a fair and strictly impartial manner.

Assistant Fire, Police Chiefs Head Departments

William V. Keegan, commissioner of police and fire, announced yesterday that Assistant Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney and Assistant Fire Chief W. L. Linder have assumed the duties of the chiefs of the two departments because of the illness of Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn and Fire Chief John E. Brennan.

Chief Flynn is suffering from pneumonia and Chief Brennan is a patient in Allegany Hospital, Keegan said.

Gaffney and Lindner attended the meeting of the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Sgt. John E. Sherry has taken over Gaffney's duties on the 5 p. m. to 1 a. m. shift.

Order Of Owls Installs Officers

Past President Melvin Dean installed new officers of Nest No. 90, Order of Owls, at the regular meeting last night at the Owls Home.

Elected December 27, the newly installed officers are Jacob Easton Jr., president; Samuel Moreland, vice president; Geno Davalli, secretary; Fred H. Smith, treasurer; Edgar Kirk, invocator; Ernest Yaider, warden; Charles Robinette, picket, and Hugo Meconi, sentinel.

Council To Study Recreation Plans

The Mayor and City Council were asked yesterday by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz to review the recent report of the Recreation Planning Commission which proposes an expenditure of $80,975 at 12 local playgrounds this year.

The report, submitted December 6, will be discussed at a meeting of the Mayor and Council Thursday at 10 a. m. in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post. The meeting had been called to discuss proposed legislation.

The Recreation Commission was authorized by the Mayor and Council on an order by Buchholtz shortly after he took office as commissioner. The committee was dismissed with thanks when the report was submitted in December but no other action has been taken.

A bond issue of $150,000 was approved for the city by the 1947 legislature and by local voters last spring.

The committee, headed by J. Corfield Patterson, urged immediate action and proposed other improvements without estimating cost. The largest single suggestion was for Gephart Playground where an expenditure of $17,500 was proposed.

Members of the committee, in addition to Patterson, were C. William Spangler, co-chairman, George G. Tederick, secretary; William B. Orndorff, Earle L. Bracey, William Edward Eichner, William E. McCullough, Francina Lichtenstein, Edward M. Kirk, R. M. Douglass, Clair R. Mease and H. Clifford Spiker.

The mayor and Council authorized a refund of $4.45 to Coyle W. O'Neal, 934 Gay Street, for overpayment of water rent.

Balances in city accounts as of January 1 as reported by Finance Commissioner Buchholtz are: General, $1,161,838.77; water operative, $242,161.92; general improvement bond, $26,095.67; paving bond, $34.72; flood account, $631.49; and sewer bonds of 1931, $1,578.36.

An insolvency of $116.63 was granted the city collector on the paving account of the Johnson Realty Company on Lot 8, Brookfield Avenue.

4-H Boys To Attend Tractor School

Allegany County 4-H Club will be represented by four members at a two - day tractor maintenance training school at Hagerstown Friday and Saturday, according to Joseph M. Seger, assistant county farm agent.

They are Roy Shyrock, of Oldtown; Robert Heavner, of Flintstone; Dale Mann and James Smith, both of Piney Plains.

Steger said the school will be in charge of Guy Geinger, agriculture engineer with the University of Maryland. Members of 4-H Clubs from Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Caroll counties will attend.

The school is being held to instruct the 4-H boys in tractor work and upon their return they will teach other 4-H members maintenance methods which they learned at the school, Steger said.

1948 Ranks Among Coldest Years

A review of 1948's weather shows a year of many contrasts, but definitely colder than usual.

One all-time record was set and two others were pushed. To August goes the credit for the new record as it was the coldest August noted here since official records were first compiled in 1870. The August temperature of 67 degrees topped the old mark of 68.4, which was set in 1927.

January and November were the months which threatened to break records. January with 23.6 degrees was the fifth coldest on record. The only other Januarys colder were in 1893, 1912, 1918, and 1940. The record of 20.6 degrees was set in 1940.

In contrast to January and August, November was a "high" month. In fact, the temperature averaged the fourth highest on record with 47.7 degrees. The only Novembers higher were in 1912, 1927 and 1931. The November record of 52.2 degrees was set in 1931.

The year as a whole was tied with 1892 as the fifteenth coldest on record. The yearly temperature averaged 51.9 degrees and it marked the second straight 12-month period with a temperature below the normal of 53 degrees. In 1947 the average was 52.6 degrees. Last year, with eight months below normal, was the coldest since the 51.7 degrees of 1940.

Of the 14 years which have been colder than 1948, only four of them were more than a degree colder. These years were 1875, 1885, 1886, and 1888. The record of 49.8 degrees was set in 1875.

Actually 1948 is in rather select company as temperatures go, as 12 of the coldest years on record here came before the turn of the century. Besides 1948 they were 1940, 1926, and 1924.

All of this seems to bear out the claim of "old timers" that winters used to be colder than they are in these "modern" times.

The month-by-month temperature records of recent years as compared to normal follow:

Month	1948	1947	1946	Nor.
January	23.6	37.6	32.6	31.5
February	31.8	27.8	34.3	33.3
March	43.5	36.1	49.8	40.8
April	52.8	54.6	43.3	51.9
May	61.0	62.6	62.6	62.9
June	69.4	69.6	70.6	70.8
July	72.7	70.7	74.5	74.5
August	67.0	75.5	69.0	72.5
September	65.6	65.4	66.8	65.6
October	52.0	60.3	58.2	54.4
November	47.7	40.4	47.0	42.9
December	35.8	30.6	37.1	34.3
Year	51.9	52.6	54.7	53.0

The above records are official as compiled by the U. S. Weather Bureau with the exception of the last five months of 1948. The unofficial figures were obtained from the Cumberland weather station at Constitution Park.

Indiginities On the Illustrious

A number of interesting indignities have been committed recently by or on celebrated individuals on the radio, a medium which has little respect for privacy. Here are just a few.

King Peter

King Peter of Yugoslavia was interviewed on the television version of "Meet the Press" the other night. King Peter may or may not be the first monarch—if he still is one and he says he is—to confront the intrusive press in front of a television camera, but he's unquestionably the first king I've ever seen in such an uncomfortable position. First crack out of the box one of the reporters asked:

"Do you prefer to be called king or mister?"

His former majesty blinked a moment, then admitted candidly: "I prefer king."

The shy, rather charming and surprisingly intelligent young man was battered for several minutes by questions concerning his relations with our State Department, with Tito and with the Yugoslav people; then came another of those direct questions the American press more or less specialize in:

"How are you financing yourself now that you're not in the business of being king any more?"

Peter was momentarily dumfounded: "That's a very embarrassing question," he said finally. "I could ask you the same thing."

"I'm working," snapped the reporter.

General Jonathan Wainwright has contributed one of his personal swords as part of the loot on a "Stop the Music" jackpot. The sword is not, as has been reported, the one he wore at Bataan; it has no special historical circumstances to it; it's just another sword. Still it's associated with Wainwright and consequently with Bataan and with a painful moment in United States history. There has been no attempt by the American Broadcasting Company to disassociate it from our history and it would have no particular significance on a giveaway program if it hadn't such an association.

Wainwright is national commander of the Disabled American Veterans and his gesture was made to call attention to the plight of disabled veterans and stimulate contributions for them at Christmas time. Granting all this, it seems a poor way to do it. Giveaway programs are one of the most disreputable manias of our time; they have repeatedly courted respectability by sidling up to charity organizations; now they are wooing national heroes; next thing you know they'll throw in General Grant's Tomb ostensibly to stimulate contributions for research on the black plague and only incidentally to get a little publicity and a higher Hooperating for the program.

In the future I hope the generals avoid the giveaways. Pershing didn't enter dance marathons, did he?

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, the author of "A Visit From St. Nicholas"—better known by its opening line, "'Twas the night before Christmas"—was impersonated on a Philco television commercial, happily praising Philcos. An actor dressed in the fashion of 100 years ago was led around from one Philco to another gushing a parody of one of the most famous verses of all time. This one was called "The Night After Christmas" and, of course, it was heavily studded with references to the beauty of Philcos.

Television Link Grows; Date With Judy Is Replaced

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Tuesday will be television's day, or so it looks from this point.

The reason therefore is the opening of the first real television network when the east coast and midwest are to be linked for the first time. The network, made up of the older eastern and newer midwest units, will thus extend from Boston and Washington to Chicago and St. Louis. It will connect 32 network stations in 16 cities.

An announced "gala" program is planned to start at 9:30, with NBC, CBS ABC and Dumont participating as future users of the circuit.

Turning to the regular radio, there's the note that Alan Young comes back to the air with more comedy and with a new show that is to replace Date With Judy on NBC at 8:30. The cast will include Jim Backus, who has appeared in other comedy shows and who once had an MBS show of his own.

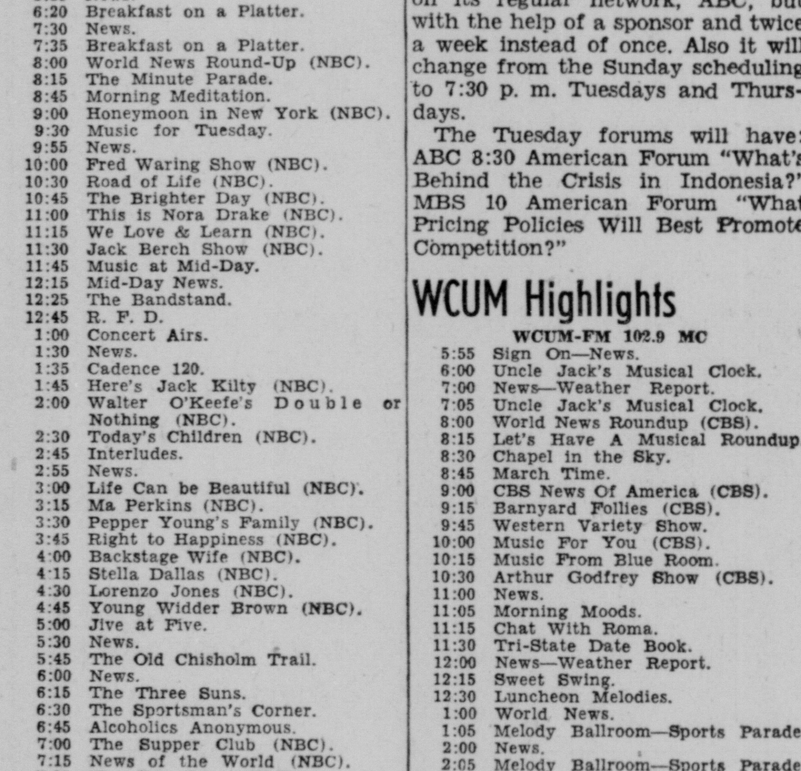

Also on the schedule is a new series for Counter Spy. It will be on its regular network, ABC, but with the help of a sponsor and twice a week instead of once. Also it will change from the Sunday scheduling to 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Tuesday forums will have: ABC 8:30 American Forum "What's Behind the Crisis in Indonesia?" MBS 10 American Forum "What Pricing Policies Will Best Promote Competition?"

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Indignities On the Illustrious

A number of interesting indignities have been committed recently by or on celebrated individuals on the radio, a medium which has little respect for privacy. Here are just a few.

King Peter

King Peter of Yugoslavia was interviewed on the television version of "Meet the Press" the other night. King Peter may or may not be the first monarch—if he still is one and he says he is—to confront the intrusive press in front of a television camera, but he's unquestionably the first king I've ever seen in such an uncomfortable position. First crack out of the box one of the reporters asked:

"Do you prefer to be called king or mister?"

His former majesty blinked a moment, then admitted candidly: "I prefer king."

The shy, rather charming and surprisingly intelligent young man was battered for several minutes by questions concerning his relations with our State Department, with Tito and with the Yugoslav people; then came another of those direct questions the American press more or less specialize in:

"How are you financing yourself now that you're not in the business of being king any more?"

Peter was momentarily dumfounded: "That's a very embarrassing question," he said finally. "I could ask you the same thing."

"I'm working," snapped the reporter.

General Jonathan Wainwright has contributed one of his personal swords as part of the loot on a "Stop the Music" jackpot. The sword is not, as has been reported, the one he wore at Bataan; it has no special historical circumstances to it; it's just another sword. Still it's associated with Wainwright and consequently with Bataan and with a painful moment in United States history. There has been no attempt by the American Broadcasting Company to disassociate it from our history and it would have no particular significance on a giveaway program if it hadn't such an association.

Wainwright is national commander of the Disabled American Veterans and his gesture was made to call attention to the plight of disabled veterans and stimulate contributions for them at Christmas time. Granting all this, it seems a poor way to do it. Giveaway programs are one of the most disreputable manias of our time; they have repeatedly courted respectability by sidling up to charity organizations; now they are wooing national heroes; next thing you know they'll throw in General Grant's Tomb ostensibly to stimulate contributions for research on the black plague and only incidentally to get a little publicity and a higher Hooperating for the program.

In the future I hope the generals avoid the giveaways. Pershing didn't enter dance marathons, did he?

Dr. Clement Clarke Moore, the author of "A Visit From St. Nicholas"—better known by its opening line, "'Twas the night before Christmas"—was impersonated on a Philco television commercial, happily praising Philcos. An actor dressed in the fashion of 100 years ago was led around from one Philco to another gushing a parody of one of the most famous verses of all time. This one was called "The Night After Christmas" and, of course, it was heavily studded with references to the beauty of Philcos.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

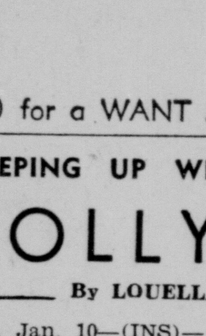

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10—(INS)—Surprise! Jack Carson has been lent to Hal Wallis by Warners for the role of Al in "My Friend Irma." Can you think of a better Al than the blustering hale-and-hearty Carson?

This lendout would seem to indicate that the difficulty between Hal and Jack Warner is all past.

Marie Wilson, I suppose, will play Irma, although she tells me the contract is yet unsigned. Hal is plain foolish if he doesn't get Marie.

There is no actress, young or old, who can look more beautiful than Ethel Barrymore, whose eyes are her great beauty. That is what MGM figured when they were looking for a well-known star to play in "Vespers In Vienna"—pardon me, it is now "Storm Over Vienna."

Ethel Barrymore

Ethel will play the Nun, a role which Irene Dunne was once offered, and except for a slight difference of opinion on the story, would have accepted. The Nun, of course, will be made older than in the original story. The picture starts in early February.

• — • — •

This is really casting by the long way around: For his next picture, Bob Hope will recreate a Charles Laughton role that had previously been set for Betty Hutton!

Yes, Parmount has set Hope for "Ruggles Of Red Gap." Henry Ginsberg planned to do the remake with Betty, changing Laughton's famous portrayal of a droll British butler to a bouncy maid for her.

Then Robert Welch, who will produce the comedy, got the bright idea that Hope would make a "sensational" butler, so now it is being rewritten again for Bob.

Walter Slezak is going to sing opposite Lotte Lehmann in an opera! Not many people know that Walter has a beautiful singing voice, and that his father was Leo Slezak, one of the world's outstanding opera stars.

Walter and Miss Lehmann will go to Munich, Germany, to do a film version of Richard Strauss' classic, "Der Rosencavalier." Producer Ludwig Berger, who made many of Emil Jannings' pictures in Germany and others in Hollywood, expects to get the opera before the cameras in August. When Hitler rose to power, Berger produced in Holland and then England.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Selene Walters at Cairo's with the handsome Jimmy Donald of Bogota, Colombia. He is the house guest of Kay and Adolph Spreckels.

Somerset Maugham will celebrate his 75th birthday in San Francisco with some old friends. He told a reporter that he doesn't plan to visit Hollywood—that he goes to San Francisco for his birthday and to buy, of all things, some underclothes.

A new friendship that is interesting has sprung up between Sally Benson and Kenneth Hopkins. It started when Sally was ill in the hospital and Hopkins went to see her.

Shelley Winters and Douglas Dick out on the town.

Merv Griffin, singer with the Freddie Martin band and Nancy St. Jahn, of Toronto, Canada, may soon make an announcement.

Randy McDouglas is back from Germany, where he went to make a documentary film for Warners, with his arm in a sling. No, the Russians didn't do it. He fell off a landing platform in Berlin and broke his arm in two places.

Gene Vaslett and his bride are spending their honeymoon at Furnace Creek Inn, in Death Valley. He is Barbara Stanwyck's nephew, and she is the former Barbara Bacon.

A skidding truck went through the fancy $600 fence Don Defore finished shortly before the holidays.

"Command Decision," which ran for so long on Broadway, and then later on the road, is closing. Wonder if Paul Kelly, who was such a sensation, will come back to movies? I hear he's had many Broadway offers.

Beach in Florida.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Selene Walters at Cairo's with the handsome Jimmy Donald of Bogota, Colombia. He is the house guest of Kay and Adolph Spreckels.

Somerset Maugham will celebrate his 75th birthday in San Francisco with some old friends. He told a reporter that he doesn't plan to visit Hollywood—that he goes to San Francisco for his birthday and to buy, of all things, some underclothes.

A new friendship that is interesting has sprung up between Sally Benson and Kenneth Hopkins. It started when Sally was ill in the hospital and Hopkins went to see her.

Shelley Winters and Douglas Dick out on the town.

Merv Griffin, singer with the Freddie Martin band and Nancy St. Jahn, of Toronto, Canada, may soon make an announcement.

Randy McDouglas is back from Germany, where he went to make a documentary film for Warners, with his arm in a sling. No, the Russians didn't do it. He fell off a landing platform in Berlin and broke his arm in two places.

Gene Vaslett and his bride are spending their honeymoon at Furnace Creek Inn, in Death Valley. He is Barbara Stanwyck's nephew, and she is the former Barbara Bacon.

A skidding truck went through the fancy $600 fence Don Defore finished shortly before the holidays.

"Command Decision," which ran for so long on Broadway, and then later on the road, is closing. Wonder if Paul Kelly, who was such a sensation, will come back to movies? I hear he's had many Broadway offers.

Gracie Fields goes to Florida to appear at a Miami night club with Eddie Duchin.

Beach in Florida.

In Memoriam

NORRIS—In loving memory of dear wife and sister, Margaret Norris, who passed away one year ago, January 10, 1948.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered, since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear wife and sister,
That we do not think of you.
Loving husband and sister
Mr. Robert F. Norris
Mrs. William Damm

NORRIS—In loving memory of dear wife and sister, Margaret Norris, who passed away one year ago, January 10, 1948.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain

Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear wife and sister,
That we do not think of you.
Loving husband and sister
Mr. Robert F. Norris

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Reds Censor Berlin Mail, Telephones

BERLIN (AP)—Russian censorship has made letterwriting and even telephone conversations dangerous to Berliners who are inclined to express anti-Soviet sentiments. According to western-licensed news agencies the Russians have devised a telephone control system which monitors and can check and interrupt any conversation between western Berlin and the Soviet sector of the city which traverses the eastern sector.

This control system is reported to be efficient enough to check the source of the conversation and thus permit seizure of the person regarded to be offending. Similarly, the Russians are reported to be checking the mails which go through eastern Berlin post offices.

This postal censorship has caused western Berlin newspapers to run notices warning their readers that "in several cases" residents of Soviet-occupied territory have been arrested because they received letters in which 'the Soviet occupying power was criticized.'"

Reds Censor Berlin Mail, Telephones

BERLIN (AP)—Russian censorship has made letterwriting and even telephone conversations dangerous to Berliners who are inclined to express anti-Soviet sentiments. According to western-licensed news agencies the Russians have devised a telephone control system which monitors and can check and interrupt any conversation between western Berlin and the Soviet sector of the city which traverses the eastern sector.

This control system is reported to be efficient enough to check the source of the conversation and thus permit seizure of the person regarded to be offending. Similarly, the Russians are reported to be checking the mails which go through eastern Berlin post offices.

This postal censorship has caused western Berlin newspapers to run notices warning their readers that "in several cases" residents of Soviet-occupied territory have been arrested because they received letters in which 'the Soviet occupying power was criticized.'"

Industries Praised In Air Pollution Program

Necessary Equipment May Cost $250,000

Praising the co-operation of large local industries in plans to reduce air pollution, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday that correction of conditions causing such pollution will cost the industries a total of nearly $250,000.

Each fuel-burning installation is a problem in itself, and equipment necessary to remove the microscopic solids which cause air pollution must be selected individually, Hitchcock said.

Correction of such conditions is a "highly technical engineering matter," he added.

It involves research, experimentation and considerable corrections on each installation before "real results" can be obtained, Hitchcock said.

Reports on smoke abatement activities during 1948, submitted to Hitchcock recently by officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway, are included in Hitchcock's first annual report. The 23-page document was submitted yesterday to the Mayor and Council.

Improvements Listed

In the mechanical classification, the B. and O. listed the following:

1. Use of the most modern type vacuum fire-up wagon for lighting off engines at the South Cumberland shops.

2. Installation of auxiliary air jets at each pit in the roundhouse. The jets are used during light-offs and are left in the engine's firebox until it is ready for service.

3. All yard engines working in the Cumberland terminal have been equipped with over-fire steam jet smoke consumers.

4. Seventy-two per cent of all freight and passenger engines have been equipped with either side induction or over-door type smoke consumers. Twenty-eight per cent of motive equipment will be equipped as it is reconditioned in the back shop.

5. Over-fire type smoke consumers have been installed on boilers at the Queen City and bolt and forge power plants. A smoke consumer has been installed on the sand dryer in South Cumberland.

6. The home signal for ND tower at Viaduct Junction was moved from the east end of the viaduct to west of the Kelly-Springfield plant. This move, ordered by H. F. Wyatt, former Cumberland Division superintendent, "materially aided" in clearing up smoke in the vicinity of Centre and Mechanic Streets since it held West End trains out of the city limits until they could be handled by the yards.

7. Diesel switcher engine has been assigned to the Queen City Station area for a period of 16 hours out of every 24.

357 Men Instructed

The B. and O. report also stated that 357 men were instructed in approved firing methods under the supervision of the railroad's instructor-inspector of the fuel conservation department.

During 1948, 4,681 observations were made of firing practices. Two men were dismissed from service and others received warnings, verbal reprimands or notations on their service records.

Over $14,000 was spent last year in Cumberland by the B. and O. for smoke abatement alone, the report concludes.

Western Maryland officials reported that all locomotives worked through the city limits are equipped with smoke eliminators as called for in the smoke control ordinance.

All yard switcher locomotives are Diesels with the exception of one steam locomotive, which is in yard service at Knob Mount, outside the city limits. The latter is equipped with smoke eliminators.

Industrial Reports Made

Hitchcock reported accomplishments by industries during the year included:

Potomac Edison Company—installed over-fire air-steam jets in all six low-pressure boilers at the river plant. Smoke consumer installed at Union Street Central Heat Plant at a cost of $3,000.

Kelly-Springfield Tire Company—submitted plans to Hitchcock concerning fly ash collectors to be used in proposed new high pressure boilers.

Hitchcock said the plans were approved, adding that actual installation is planned in the latter part of this year or early in 1950. Cost of the equipment needed to comply with the ordinance is estimated at $50,000.

Hitchcock Outlines Compliance Method

In his first annual report to the Mayor and City Council yesterday, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, listed compliance rules on testing methods to be used in determining violations of the smoke ordinance.

Hitchcock said the rules were drawn up recently as a result of a technical paper submitted to him by the Research Corporation of Bound Brook, N. J.

Tests of the installations will be conducted and readings taken in presence of the owner or his representative, and Hitchcock.

Opinion To Be Given

After examining the test results and other pertinent data, Hitchcock will send a written opinion to the owner as to adequacy of the equipment to meet smoke ordinance regulations.

If the opinion is favorable, Hitchcock said, the owner will be responsible for continuing operation of the installation in compliance with the ordinance.

In the case of an unfavorable opinion, the owner must file an exception within 30 days or the report will be considered automatically accepted by him. The owner will then have the responsibility of correcting the equipment to comply with the ordinance.

If Hitchcock and the owner cannot agree on conclusions reached in the tests, the Advisory Appeal Board provided for in the ordinance will review the case. Its judgement will be final.

(Appointment of the three-man board has been postponed pending employment of a deputy smoke inspector.)

The latest revised power test code of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be used in checking dust separating apparatus, Hitchcock said. Any deviations from the ASME code must be agreed to in advance of the tests.

Co-operation Praised

In a general comment in the report, Hitchcock said:

"All enforcement during the past year has been purely voluntary, and co-operation on the part of our industry and transportation is indeed highly commendable.

"In only a very few cases have the personalities involved had a prior experience in smoke control as applied to municipality enforcement.

"Considerable knowledge has been imparted to these individuals, and in most cases the actual policing power will not be necessary to enforce."

Airline Office Plans Drawn

Blueprints on proposed remodeling of the administration building at the Cumberland Municipal Airport were completed yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, who is also a registered professional engineer.

Mayor Thomas S. Post and T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Municipal Airport Commission, said copies will be sent to Jere V. Chain, superintendent of stations for All American Airways, Inc., and to John M. Delagrange of Mountain Air Service, which operates the airport on lease from the city.

At a conference with the commission two weeks ago, Chain asked the group for prompt action on remodeling the structure to provide office space for the airline's Cumberland agent, since the line hopes to begin operations here February 15.

The airline will be requested to suggest any changes in the proposed floor plan so that construction can begin immediately.

Hitchcock estimates cost of the work at $2,900, which would be shared by the city and the airline.

The main doorway would be flanked by Dutch windows, with top and lower sections opening outward. The blueprints provide for an outside baggage ramp located at one of the windows, so that baggage can be pushed directly onto the ramp.

The remodeling is designed to provide office space measuring about 12 by 14 feet.

Engineering Firm Sets Conference On Filter Work

Officials Will Visit Water Plant Today

Three representatives of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore, are expected to come here this afternoon to confer with city officials regarding enlarging and improving the water filtration plant near Lake Gordon, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

They are Gustav Requardt, Ezra B. Whitman and Russell Vollmer. Water Commissioner William J. Edwards, who was in Baltimore yesterday on business, is expected to drive to Cumberland with them this morning.

Mayor Post said he and Edwards, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, will accompany the engineers on an inspection of the plant.

The firm submitted a proposal to the Mayor and Council in November for services in connection with the project.

Proposed engineering work would consist of making detail designs, contract drawings and specifications ready for the advertisement and letting of construction contracts for the new filtration units.

The firm suggested a fee of five per cent of the final construction cost of structures it designs.

The proposal was turned over to Edwards and Hitchcock for a combined report.

Two-Car Crash Probed By Police

A tow-car collision at the intersection of Second Street and Virginia Avenue at 10 p. m. yesterday caused more excitement than damage, said police who investigated.

The cars involved were driven by Frank W. Hartell, Jr., 21, R. F. D. No. 2, city, and William Roy Bennett, 61, 212 Humbird Street. Police said the left wheel on the Bennett car was partially broken by the impact.

Three Active Army Reserve Training Units To Meet

Ordnance Group Will Organize

Three active training units of the 208th Organized Reserve Corps Composite Group will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Postoffice, according to Capt. Thomas Stafford, unit instructor.

These are the first groups to be activated under the Army's new policy of authorizing pay for training group drills, Capt. Stafford said.

The newest unit, the 398th Ordnance Battalion, will organize tomorrow under the command of Maj. William M. Mateer. The battalion has filled its authorized strength of six officers and six enlisted men.

Other officers in the group are Capt. Ace Humberson, executive officer; Capt. John Kelly, supply officer; Capt. Charles Sargent, maintenance officer, and Lt. James Berkenbaugh, adjutant. A chaplain may be attached to the unit, according to Maj. Mateer.

The 398th this entitled to 12 pay drills and one two-week camp period a year, Maj. Mateer stated. Tomorrow's program will consist of an explanation of pay and allowances, organization and discussion of a possible program. The 398th will meet on the second Wednesday of every month.

The 978th Engineer Panel Bridge Transport Company will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow although the group had one pay drill last month, according to Capt. Thomas C. Lawler, commanding officer. First Lt. William F. Kaiser will talk and lead a conference on military demolitions.

Only four officers are authorized for the unit which is allowed four pay drills a year, Capt. Lawler said. It is possible the group may be enlarged to include a cadre of selected enlisted men later, he added.

The other two officers in the unit are First Lt. Joseph W. Ansel and Lt. David J. Moreland.

Company G, 319th Infantry, oldest organized group, will begin its meeting with an Army current event discussion by the commanding officer Capt. Henry Klein. Cpl. John Brannon will lead a class in knot tying. Sgt William F. Smouse, Lt. Clyde Whipkey and Capt. Stafford will conduct a discussion of map reading.

Capt. Klein announced that all unit members who have been issued uniforms should wear them to the meeting. The unit has an authorized strength of six officers and 18 men and is eligible for 24 pay drills a year.

The enlistment of Pfc. Lawrence W. Hayes, Frostburg, in Company G was announced yesterday.

Vacation Pay Problem Referred To Reynolds

The question of whether vacation pay money should be paid to the widow of a Street Department employe was referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Local 812, Municipal Employes, asked the council whether Mrs. Albert W. Middleton would be entitled to the 1948 vacation pay of her late husband, since he died one week before his vacation was scheduled.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan suggested that the inquiry be turned over to Reynolds and that his recommendation be prepared in the form of an order.

The council ordered a refund of $4.45 to Clyde O'Neal, 934 Gay Street, for overpayment of water rent.

Bluefield Parking Project Promotes Business In Community, Report Says

The new municipal parking building in Bluefield, W. Va., has promoted business in that community but has not reduced street parking as much as was anticipated, H. W. Smith said yesterday.

Smith, who is secretary of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, read a report of the first five months' operation of the Bluefield building at a commission meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

One of the items on the commission's agenda is Cumberland's parking problem.

Bluefield, which has a population of about 22,000, erected the three-story building at a cost of $500,000, financed through self-liquidating bonds.

The report covers the period from August through December, 1948. During that time 76,174 cars used the building and total revenue was $21,964.99.

The number of motorists paying monthly rates for parking their cars in the building increased from 172 in August to 209 in December.

Expenses amounted to $16,569.24, most of which were salaries and wages, with "drivers" being paid $6,091 during the period.

Net profit from the parking department was $6,934.23. A service station, operated in conjunction with the project, showed a slight loss during the period because of capital expenditures.

Bluefield officials reported business was promoted because more outside shoppers were attracted to the community by the added parking space. However, street parking continues to be a problem because of the overflow, they added.

County Delegates Get Assignments

Three members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly were named to House committees last night, according to Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman.

Lester B. Reed was named to the Labor and Education committees. John T. Fey was named to the Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources, and the Entertainment committee.

Charles M. See was named a member of the Bank, Insurance and Social Security Committee and the Committee on Intergovernmental Co-operation.

The State Senate last night adopted several resolutions. One, introduced by Senators Byrnes, Sothoron and Kimble, expressed condolances to U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor on the recent death of his mother Mrs. Mary A. O'Conor, of Baltimore.

Another, also by Byrnes, Sothoron and Kimble, wished former Senator Lawrence M. Fraley (R-Garrett), who is ill in a local hospital, a speedy recovery.

The Senate convened at 8:21 p. m. and adjourned at 8:44 p. m. until 2 p. m. today.

The House convened at 9:05 p. m. and adjourned at 9:40 p. m., until 2 p. m. today.

The document leases the property now occupied by Rand's for an additional 15-year period beginning April 1, 1950, until March 31, 1965, at an annual rental of $10,000, plus four per cent of gross income over $180,000 per year.

Connelly Will Speak On Smoke Control Program

Meeting Scheduled For January 21

The Civil Service Commission will sponsor a talk on general aspects of smoke control in Cumberland for the benefit of persons interested in taking the examination for deputy smoke inspector, C. Philip Jolley, commission chairman, said last night.

John R. Donnelly, assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will give the talk at a meeting scheduled Friday, January 21, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall auditorium.

Connelly is a graduate of the University of Illinois and was on the engineering faculty at Lehigh University before coming to Cumberland.

Jolley explained it is not mandatory for applicants to attend the meeting but that Connelly's talk on smoke control should prove helpful to them.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan will explain the legal aspects of the smoke control ordinance at the meeting. He will also outline the inspector's responsibility of reporting violations to the city smoke abatement engineer, George M. Hitchcock

Jolley said Hitchcock will be introduced.

The Mayor and Council will be invited to attend the meeting, as well as all citizens interested in the smoke control program. Jolley will preside.

The examination for deputy smoke inspector has been scheduled for Wednesday, January 26, at 7 p. m. at Fort Hill High School. Applicants must submit completed forms to the city clerk's office by January 21.

Simmons, 545 North Centre Street, Medical Department; Billy E. Keller, 453 Bond Street, Regular Army; Robert G. Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., Air Force; Clifton W. Bolyard, Springfield, W. A bill of sale was filed in the office of the clerk of court yesterday by Harold E. Naughton, attorney, for the transfer of a restaurant business at 120 South Mechanic Street.

According to the document, the business, including fixtures, merchandise, equipment and goodwill, was purchased by Milton U. Norris from the Tip-Top Restaurant, Inc., Anthony Scarpelli, president, and Clyde W. Love, secretary, for a consideration of $6,000.

Norris has assumed active management of the business, his attorney indicated last night.

New Insecticide More Potent Than DDT Against House Fly Discovered

A new insecticide material has recently been discovered, known as compound 497, which is 40 times as effective against the ordinary house fly as DDT, Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, disclosed yesterday.

Reports from various parts of the world, received recently by the United States Department of Agriculture, he explained, disclose that some house flies are surviving against applications of DDT. These particular insects in their few scattered localities are able to reproduce offspring with almost complete immunity to the toxic action of DDT.

The new material, Compound 497, compared in equal quantities of DDT, showed at the end of seven weeks that while DDT dropped to almost zero against house flys, 497 retained about 65 per cent of its activity.

This new compound, McHenry said, is estimated to be 40 times as active against the house fly as DDT. Limited quantities of Compound 497 are expected to be available soon for experimental purposes this coming season, he stated; however, it is not yet available for market.

The importance of insecticides to human welfare, McHenry stated, received Noble Prize recognition recently when Dr. Paul Miller of Basle, Switzerland, who discovered the insecticidal properties of DDT, was awarded the world famous prize in medicine for 1948. DDT was first synthesized by a German named Zeidler in 1847, who never knew of its insecticidal value, the farm agent recalled.

Raese Gets Final Permit For Local Radio Station

To Come Here This Week For Survey

The Federal Communications Commission yesterday made final a tentative permit to Richard Aubrey Raese, Morgantown, W. Va., to build a new standard radio station in Cumberland.

Raese said last night he will arrive in Cumberland later in the week for a conference with a Washington engineer about possible building sites.

The new station will operate on 1230 kilocycles, 250 watts and unlimited time.

Raese said the new station may be affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting System or the American Broadcasting Company. Although he has no contract with either concern at present, Raese said, both MBS and ABC expressed their willingness for a local outlet at hearings last July and in October 1947.

Will Confer With Engineer

Although Raese said it would be impossible to say when the station will go on the air until he has completed his conferences with the engineer, pointed out that he hopes to have it in operation within six months.

Raese said he has made no application for a frequency modulation station license yet, but explained that his station and antenna will be constructed to accomodate such facilities, if he should receive a permit.

He recalled that applications for television stations are closed at present. Since this is the case, he added, he has no definite intentions concerning television facilities.

The new station will employ from 15 to 20 people, as many as possible qualified Cumberlanders, Raese said.

Yesterday's FCC order affirmed findings of last July 20. The seven-member commission announced that Chairman Wayne Coy and Commissioners Edieda Hennock and Robert F. Jones favored a grant to the Tri-State Broadcasting Company.

The tentative grant in July would have become final in 20 days but Tri-State filed an exception to the findings, causing an oral hearing later in Washington.

Additional Service Cited

The Commission said the new station will cause some slight interference to Station WAJR in Morgantown and WCRO, Johnstown, Pa. However, the Commission stated that this factor was outweighed by the large number of persons in the Cumberland area who will receive additional broadcast service.

Raese is now vice president of the Greer Steel Company, Morgantown, but he said his activities in Cumberland when the station goes into operation will necessitate his resignation at Greer Steel.

Four Are Hurt In 3-Car Crash

Four persons including a Fort Bragg, N. C., soldier, were injured in a three-car collision yesterday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike four-and-a-half miles west of Bedford. Property damage was set at $2,000.

The injured are Lawrence A. DiLucchio, Fort Bragg, driver of one of the cars; Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Nulk, and his father, John Nulk, all of Harrisburg, Pa. P. E. Nulk was listed as the driver.

Authorities said DiLucchio was admitted to Timmons Hospital, Bedford, suffering from a fractured pelvis and contusions of the head and chest. Nulk suffered lacerations of the chin and chest; his wife was treated for lacerations and a possible fracture of the nose and the father suffered from shock and a right ankle injury.

Investigating officers said Nulk's car was pushing a machine operated by Marshall Chrisholm, Hopewell, Pa., when the Fort Bragg soldier's automobile collided with the two vehicles.

No charges were preferred against DiLucchio pending his discharge from the hospital, police said.

Weatherman Insists Cold Spell Coming

Lo, the poor weatherman. He's wrong again.

Predictions of freezing rains and plummeting temperatures that were to hit Western Maryland last night were melting in the spring-like warmth that was reported in the high 40s shortly before midnight.

In Garrett County, as well as nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia light rains were reported, but the mercury was riding high. In Cumberland the streets were wetted down with a brief rain threat that just couldn't get started. It was 46.

Undaunted by early failures, the weatherman continued to forecast a real seige of winter weather that he said will arrive early this morning. The prediction again included freezing rain and snow for the area.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital announced the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Timbrook, Romney, W. Va., a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Church, Jr., Kingsville, Texas, announce the birth of their second son, Robert, January 5. Mrs. Church is the former Miss Catherine Barker, daughter of Mrs. George L. Barker, 811 Fayette Street, and the late Mr. Barker.

Industries Praised In Air Pollution Program

Necessary Equipment May Cost $250,000

Hitchcock Outlines Compliance Method

Praising the co-operation of large local industries in plans to reduce air pollution, George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday that correction of conditions causing such pollution will cost the industries a total of nearly $250,000.

Each fuel-burning installation is a problem in itself, and equipment necessary to remove the microscopic solids which cause air pollution must be selected individually, Hitchcock said.

Correction of such conditions is a "highly technical engineering matter," he added.

It involves research, experimentation and considerable corrections on each installation before "real results" can be obtained, Hitchcock said.

Reports on smoke abatement activities during 1948, submitted to Hitchcock recently by officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Western Maryland Railway, are included in Hitchcock's first annual report. The 23-page document was submitted yesterday to the Mayor and Council.

Improvements Listed

In the mechanical classification, the B. and O. listed the following:

1. Use of the most modern type vacuum fire-up wagon for lighting off engines at the South Cumberland shops.

2. Installation of auxiliary air jets at each pit in the roundhouse. The jets are used during light-offs and are left in the engine's firebox until it is ready for service.

3. All yard engines working in the Cumberland terminal have been equipped with over-fire steam jet smoke consumers.

4. Seventy-two per cent of all freight and passenger engines have been equipped with either side induction or over-door type smoke consumers. Twenty-eight per cent of motive equipment will be equipped as it is reconditioned in the back shop.

5. Over-fire type smoke consumers have been installed on boilers at the Queen City and bolt and forge power plants. A smoke consumer has been installed on the sand dryer in South Cumberland.

6. The home signal for ND tower at Viaduct Junction was moved from the east end of the viaduct to west of the Kelly-Springfield plant. This move, ordered by H. F. Wyatt, former Cumberland Division superintendent, "materially aided" in clearing up smoke in the vicinity of Centre and Mechanic Streets since it held West End trains out of the city limits until they could be handled by the yards.

7. Diesel switcher engine has been assigned to the Queen City Station area for a period of 16 hours out of every 24.

357 Men Instructed

The B. and O. report also stated that 357 men were instructed in approved firing methods under the supervision of the railroad's instructor-inspector of the fuel conservation department.

During 1948, 4,681 observations were made of firing practices. Two men were dismissed from service and others received warnings, verbal reprimands or notations on their service records.

Over $14,000 was spent last year in Cumberland by the B. and O. for smoke abatement alone, the report concludes.

Western Maryland officials reported that all locomotives worked through the city limits are equipped with smoke eliminators as called for in the smoke control ordinance.

All yard switcher locomotives are Diesels with the exception of one steam locomotive, which is in yard service at Knob Mount, outside the city limits. The latter is equipped with smoke eliminators.

Industrial Reports Made

That railroad made 667 smoke observations last year and "appropriate action" was taken to prevent recurrence of violations.

Hitchcock reported accomplishments by industries during the year included:

Potomac Edison Company—installed over-fire air-steam jets in all six low-pressure boilers at the river plant. Smoke consumer installed at Union Street Central Heat Plant at a cost of $3,000.

Kelly-Springfield Tire Company—submitted plans to Hitchcock concerning fly ash collectors to be used in proposed new high pressure boilers.

Hitchcock said the plans were approved, adding that actual installation is planned in the latter part of this year or early in 1950. Cost of the equipment needed to comply with the ordinance is estimated at $50,000.

In his first annual report to the Mayor and City Council yesterday, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, listed compliance rules on testing methods to be used in determining violations of the smoke ordinance.

Hitchcock said the rules were drawn up recently as a result of a technical paper submitted to him by the Research Corporation of Bound Brook, N. J.

Tests of the installations will be conducted and readings taken in presence of the owner or his representative, and Hitchcock.

Opinion To Be Given

After examining the test results and other pertinent data, Hitchcock will send a written opinion to the owner as to adequacy of the equipment to meet smoke ordinance regulations.

If the opinion is favorable, Hitchcock said, the owner will be responsible for continuing operation of the installation in compliance with the ordinance.

In the case of an unfavorable opinion, the owner must file an exception within 30 days or the report will be considered automatically accepted by him. The owner will then have the responsibility of correcting the equipment to comply with the ordinance.

If Hitchcock and the owner cannot agree on conclusions reached in the tests, the Advisory Appeal Board provided for in the ordinance will review the case. Its judgement will be final.

(Appointment of the three-man board has been postponed pending employment of a deputy smoke inspector.)

The latest revised power test code of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will be used in checking dust separating apparatus, Hitchcock said. Any deviations from the ASME code must be agreed to in advance of the tests.

Co-operation Praised

In a general comment in the report, Hitchcock said:

"All enforcement during the past year has been purely voluntary, and co-operation on the part of our industry and transportation is indeed highly commendable.

"In only a very few cases have the personalities involved had a prior experience in smoke control as applied to municipality enforcement.

"Considerable knowledge has been imparted to these individuals, and in most cases the actual policing power will not be necessary to enforce."

Engineering Firm Sets Conference On Filter Work

Officials Will Visit Water Plant Today

Three representatives of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Baltimore, are expected to come here this afternoon to confer with city officials regarding enlarging and improving the water filtration plant near Lake Gordon, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

They are Gustav Requardt, Ezra B. Whitman and Russell Vollmer. Water Commissioner William J. Edwards, who was in Baltimore yesterday on business, is expected to drive to Cumberland with them this morning.

Mayor Post said he and Edwards, City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, will accompany the engineers on an inspection of the plant.

The firm submitted a proposal to the Mayor and Council in November for services in connection with the project.

Proposed engineering work would consist of making detail designs, contract drawings and specifications ready for the advertisement and letting of construction contracts for the new filtration units.

The firm suggested a fee of five per cent of the final construction cost of structures it designs.

The proposal was turned over to Edwards and Hitchcock for a combined report.

Airline Office Plans Drawn

Blueprints on proposed remodeling of the administration building at the Cumberland Municipal Airport were completed yesterday by George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, who is also a registered professional engineer.

Mayor Thomas S. Post and T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Municipal Airport Commission, said copies will be sent to Jere V. Chain, superintendent of stations for All American Airways, Inc., and to John M. Delagrange of Mountain Air Service, which operates the airport on lease from the city.

At a conference with the commission two weeks ago, Chain asked the group for prompt action on remodeling the structure to provide office space for the airline's Cumberland agent, since the line hopes to begin operations here February 15.

The airline will be requested to suggest any changes in the proposed floor plan so that construction can begin immediately.

Hitchcock estimates cost of the work at $2,900, which would be shared by the city and the airline.

The main doorway would be flanked by Dutch windows, with top and lower sections opening outward. The blueprints provide for an outside baggage ramp located at one of the windows, so that baggage can be pushed directly onto the ramp.

Fixed sash windows would be located at both ends of the building, facing the field.

The remodeling is designed to provide office space measuring about 12 by 14 feet.

Two-Car Crash Probed By Police

A tow-car collision at the intersection of Second Street and Virginia Avenue at 10 p. m. yesterday caused more excitement than damage, said police who investigated.

The cars involved were driven by Frank W. Hartell, Jr., 21, R. F. D. No. 2, city, and William Roy Bennett, 61, 212 Humbird Street. Police said the left wheel on the Bennett car was partially broken by the impact.

No charges were preferred, according to Officer James Brown and Detective E. M. Powell, who said Bennett was turning left on to Virginia Avenue when the Hartell car struck him.

Three Active Army Reserve Training Units To Meet

Ordnance Group Will Organize

Three active training units of the 208th Organized Reserve Corps Composite Group will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Postoffice, according to Capt. Thomas Stafford, unit instructor.

These are the first groups to be activated under the Army's new policy of authorizing pay for training group drills, Capt. Stafford said.

The newest unit, the 398th Ordnance Battalion, will organize tomorrow under the command of Maj. William M. Mateer. The battalion has filled its authorized strength of six officers and six enlisted men.

Other officers in the group are Capt. Ace Humberson, executive officer; Capt. John Kelly, supply officer; Capt. Charles Sargent, maintenance officer, and Lt. James Berkenbaugh, adjutant. A chaplain may be attached to the unit, according to Maj. Mateer.

The 398th this entitled to 12 pay drills and one two-week camp period a year, Maj. Mateer stated. Tomorrow's program will consist of an explanation of pay and allowances, organization and discussion of a possible program. The 398th will meet on the second Wednesday of every month.

The 978th Engineer Panel Bridge Transport Company will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow although the group had one pay drill last month, according to Capt. Thomas C. Lawler, commanding officer. First Lt. William F. Kaiser will talk and lead a conference on military demolitions.

Only four officers are authorized for the unit which is allowed four pay drills a year, Capt. Lawler said. It is possible the group may be enlarged to include a cadre of selected enlisted men later, he added.

The other two officers in the unit are First Lt. Joseph W. Ansel and Lt. David J. Moreland.

Company G, 319th Infantry, oldest organized group, will begin its meeting with an Army current event discussion by the commanding officer Capt. Henry Klein. Cpl. John Brannon will lead a class in knot tying. Sgt William F. Smouse, Lt. Clyde Whipkey and Capt. Stafford will conduct a discussion of map reading.

Capt. Klein announced that all unit members who have been issued uniforms should wear them to the meeting. The unit has an authorized strength of six officers and 18 men and is eligible for 24 pay drills a year.

The enlistment of Pfc. Lawrence W. Hayes, Frostburg, in Company G was announced yesterday.

Vacation Pay Problem Referred To Reynolds

The question of whether vacation pay money should be paid to the widow of a Street Department employe was referred to Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Local 812, Municipal Employes, asked the council whether Mrs. Albert W. Middleton would be entitled to the 1948 vacation pay of her late husband, since he died one week before his vacation was scheduled.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan suggested that the inquiry be turned over to Reynolds and that his recommendation be prepared in the form of an order.

The council ordered a refund of $4.45 to Clyde O'Neal, 934 Gay Street, for overpayment of water rent.

Bluefield Parking Project Promotes Business In Community, Report Says

The new municipal parking building in Bluefield, W. Va., has promoted business in that community but has not reduced street parking as much as was anticipated, H. W. Smith said yesterday.

Smith, who is secretary of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, read a report of the first five months' operation of the Bluefield building at a commission meeting in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post.

One of the items on the commission's agenda is Cumberland's parking problem.

Bluefield, which has a population of about 22,000, erected the three-story building at a cost of $500,000, financed through self-liquidating bonds.

The report covers the period from August through December, 1948. During that time 76,174 cars used the building and total revenue was $21,964.99.

The number of motorists paying monthly rates for parking their cars in the building increased from 172 in August to 209 in December.

Expenses amounted to $16,569.24, most of which were salaries and wages, with "drivers" being paid $6,091 during the period.

Net profit from the parking department was $6,934.23. A service station, operated in conjunction with the project, showed a slight loss during the period because of capital expenditures.

Bluefield officials reported business was promoted because more outside shoppers were attracted to the community by the added parking space. However, street parking continues to be a problem because of the overflow, they added.

County Delegates Get Assignments

Three members of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly were named to House committees last night, according to Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman.

Lester B. Reed was named to the Labor and Education committees. John T. Fey was named to the Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources, and the Entertainment committee.

Charles M. See was named a member of the Bank, Insurance and Social Security Committee and the Committee on Intergovernmental Co-operation.

The State Senate last night adopted several resolutions. One, introduced by Senators Byrnes, Sothoron and Kimble, expressed condolances to U. S. Senator Herbert R. O'Conor on the recent death of his mother Mrs. Mary A. O'Conor, of Baltimore.

Another, also by Byrnes, Sothoron and Kimble, wished former Senator Lawrence M. Fraley (R-Garrett), who is ill in a local hospital, a speedy recovery.

The Senate convened at 8:21 p. m. and adjourned at 8:44 p. m. until 2 p. m. today.

The House convened at 9:05 p. m. and adjourned at 9:40 p. m., until 2 p. m. today.

The document leases the property now occupied by Rand's for an additional 15-year period beginning April 1, 1950, until March 31, 1965, at an annual rental of $10,000, plus four per cent of gross income over $180,000 per year.

Connelly Will Speak On Smoke Control Program

Meeting Scheduled For January 21

The Civil Service Commission will sponsor a talk on general aspects of smoke control in Cumberland for the benefit of persons interested in taking the examination for deputy smoke inspector, C. Philip Jolley, commission chairman, said last night.

John R. Donnelly, assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, will give the talk at a meeting scheduled Friday, January 21, at 7:30 p. m. in City Hall auditorium.

Connelly is a graduate of the University of Illinois and was on the engineering faculty at Lehigh University before coming to Cumberland.

Jolley explained it is not mandatory for applicants to attend the meeting but that Connelly's talk on smoke control should prove helpful to them.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan will explain the legal aspects of the smoke control ordinance at the meeting. He will also outline the inspector's responsibility of reporting violations to the city smoke abatement engineer, George M. Hitchcock

Jolley said Hitchcock will be introduced.

The Mayor and Council will be invited to attend the meeting, as well as all citizens interested in the smoke control program. Jolley will preside.

The examination for deputy smoke inspector has been scheduled for Wednesday, January 26, at 7 p. m. at Fort Hill High School. Applicants must submit completed forms to the city clerk's office by January 21.

Army Office Accepts Seven Enlistments

Six three-year enlistments and one one-year enlistment were accepted yesterday at the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

James A. Morris, Mt. Savage, joined the Army of the United States for one year. Three-year enlistments were Ronald J. Hess, Mt. Savage, Regular Army; Lawrence J. Simmons, 545 North Centre Street, Medical Department; Billy E. Keller, 453 Bond Street, Regular Army; Robert G. Starkey, Wiley Ford, W. Va., Air Force; Clifton W. Bolyard, Springfield, W. Norris has assumed active management of the business, his attorney indicated last night.

Four Are Hurt In 3-Car Crash

Four persons including a Fort Bragg, N. C., soldier, were injured in a three-car collision yesterday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike four-and-a-half miles west of Bedford. Property damage was set at $2,000.

The injured are Lawrence A. DiLucchio, Fort Bragg, driver of one of the cars; Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Nulk, and his father, John Nulk, all of Harrisburg, Pa. P. E. Nulk was listed as the driver.

Authorities said DiLucchio was admitted to Timmons Hospital, Bedford, suffering from a fractured pelvis and contusions of the head and chest. Nulk suffered lacerations of the chin and chest; his wife was treated for lacerations and a possible fracture of the nose and the father suffered from shock and a right ankle injury.

Investigating officers said Nulk's car was pushing a machine operated by Marshall Chrisholm, Hopewell, Pa., when the Fort Bragg soldier's automobile collided with the two vehicles.

No charges were preferred against DiLucchio pending his discharge from the hospital, police said.

Weatherman Insists Cold Spell Coming

Lo, the poor weatherman. He's wrong again.

Predictions of freezing rains and plummeting temperatures that were to hit Western Maryland last night were melting in the spring-like warmth that was reported in the high 40s shortly before midnight.

In Garrett County, as well as nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia light rains were reported, but the mercury was riding high. In Cumberland the streets were wetted down with a brief rain threat that just couldn't get started. It was 46.

Undaunted by early failures, the weatherman continued to forecast a real seige of winter weather that he said will arrive early this morning. The prediction again included freezing rain and snow for the area.

New Insecticide More Potent Than DDT Against House Fly Discovered

A new insecticide material has recently been discovered, known as compound 497, which is 40 times as effective against the ordinary house fly as DDT, Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, disclosed yesterday.

Reports from various parts of the world, received recently by the United States Department of Agriculture, he explained, disclose that some house flies are surviving against applications of DDT. These particular insects in their few scattered localities are able to reproduce offspring with almost complete immunity to the toxic action of DDT.

The new material, Compound 497, compared in equal quantities of DDT, showed at the end of seven weeks that while DDT dropped to almost zero against house flys, 497 retained about 65 per cent of its activity.

This new compound, McHenry said, is estimated to be 40 times as active against the house fly as DDT. Limited quantities of Compound 497 are expected to be available soon for experimental purposes this coming season, he stated; however, it is not yet availacle for market.

The importance of insecticides to human welfare, McHenry stated, received Noble Prize recognition recently when Dr. Paul Miller of Basle, Switzerland, who discovered the insecticidal properties of DDT, was awarded the world famous prize in medicine for 1948. DDT was first synthesized by a German named Zeidler in 1847, who never knew of its insecticidal value, the farm agent recalled.
